The regulation summer dry weather seems to be with us as there has been no precipitation to amount to anything for 17 days. Last night was the warmest of the year so far with a minimum temperature of 56.

Dr. C. L. Sherman, professor of philosophy and education in Willamette university left a few days ago for Pullman, Washington, where he will teach at the summer school for a period of six weeks. He expects to return to Salem about the middle of July.

Demonstrations were given Monday and Tuesday of this week by Miss Louisa Parker, home demonstration agent, at Wilsonville. She reports a large attendance at both meetings and a general interest shown by the wives of farmers. Friday she will give a demonstration at Oregon City.

The senior class of Willamette University for the coming fall term cannot exceed seven, as just this number is enrolled in the present junior class. As most of the young men in the class are under draft age, the probability is that the fall term of the University will open with but seven members.

Word was received today from Dr. Carl Gregg Doney, president of Willamette University, that he expected to leave within a few days for New York and that he would probably arrive in Salem some time during the latter part of July. Dr. Doney was granted a six months leave of absence last January to take up special work in France with the soldiers.

Willamette University has already adapted itself to the new conditions regarding the German language that all Universities will soon be obliged to follow. A student may now enter the University without any credits in the German language. Heretofore, a two years' course in one language was required but the course is now arranged whereby the student will not be obliged to continue the study or take up the study of German.

Does anyone in Salem happen to remember Anna Franklin? If so, please notify the police, as the following letter was received this morning at police headquarters: "Nashville, Tenn., May 22 1918, To Police Officers: I would be so thankful if you will try and locate my sister Anna Franklin. She was living in your city when I last heard from her about a year ago, and was working cleaning coaches. From her only sister, Mrs. Willie Dabney, 110 Fifth avenue, Nashville, Tenn."

That time honored custom of asking the telephone girl the time of day has been swept into the discard. Orders have been issued that giving the time of day is not the duty of the telephone girl, or at least words to that extent. Any inquiry today as to the time of day was received with the reply that the girls were not giving out such useful information. As to when the order was meant, the girl could not tell. Anyhow, the housekeeper will not set the clock each morning according to the time of the telephone company.

Registered at the Marion hotel today to attend the annual session of the Oregon Retail Jewelers' convention are the following: F. M. French, Albany; Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Staples and Miss Pearl Staples of Portland; Royal Sawtelle of Pendleton and Mr. and Mrs. Paige of Vancouver, Wa.

The following invitations have been issued: "The faculty and class of 1918, Sacred Heart Academy, request your presence at the commencement exercises Thursday evening June 13, at 8:15 o'clock, Salem High school auditorium, Salem, Oregon."

The first young man to register at the court house this morning, having attained the age of 21 years since one year ago, was William McKinley Forbes of 2440 North Commercial street. He was born Jan. 3, 1897, and lives at home with his parents. He is employed by the Wittenburg-King plant.

William W. Bellamy of Salem, rural route 6, has shown the right spirit by asking the local exemption board to take his name off the list of those on the emergency fleet and to place it in Class 1. Mr. Bellamy is employed in the ship yards in Portland and of course is exempt. But he has figured out that the work he is doing can be done by an older man and that his place is in the army rather than in a ship yard.

The Modern Woodmen and Royal Neighbors have organized a war saving society to be known as the Cheery City War Saving Society. It was organized to stimulate the buying of war stamps among its members. Meetings will be held twice a month, the next session to be Thursday evening of this week. Walter Toole will deliver an oration on patriotic lines at the meeting tomorrow night.

Business continues good at the army recruiting station on State street. Today the following enlisted: J. B. Brooks, 19, of Salem, quartermaster's corps; Glenn Beagle, 21, of Pendleton, infantry; Albert Schellberger, 20, of Astoria, S. D., quartermaster's corps. The young men will all be sent to Vancouver for a training of ten days and to receive uniforms and equipments. So far this month, the army recruiting station has accepted 18 young men for army service.

Mrs. M. L. Myers will address the high school girls tomorrow morning in the high school auditorium asking that the girls do the patriotic thing after the close of the school year and give some of their time in the way of assisting in the work of the surgical dressing department of the Red Cross. Other speakers urging the girls to devote some of their time to the Red Cross will be the Rev. R. S. Gill, Superintendent Todd Principal J. C. Nelson and Miss Sykes. There is an urgent need of help, especially since many who have been patriotic in giving their time will leave the city at the close of the school year.

Shows like the one recently held on Ferry street, and all that goes with them are about to play in hard luck, according to the announcement made today by A. H. Lea, secretary of the state fair board. They are not privileged to fleece the unwary, nor to give suggestive dances nor to do a lot of things that were done last year at the state fair or at the recent carnival on Ferry street. At the next meeting of the city council such carnivals will be prohibited on the streets of Salem and it seems that the sailing for questionable concessions will not be very smooth at the state fair. At least secretary Lea has issued rules that will make grafting at the state fair a rather risky game.

When freight rates are advanced, it is not the manufacturer or the railroad or the retailer that pays the bill, but just the consumer. Hence, on account of the recent advance in freight, consumers will soon be asked to pay just a little more for heavy groceries such as Catolene, Karo Syrup, Crisco, Wescans cooking oil and other household goods in the cooking line. These are all heavy goods and are manufactured mostly in the central states and the 25 per cent advance in freight rates for two or three thousand miles adds considerably to the cost of delivery on the Pacific

A small dog with a pleasant disposition has been making his home at the Commercial club for the past two days. He belongs to a member of one of the granges and has evidently been awaiting around the club for his owner to once again register. Said canine is mostly white with a brown mark over the right eye and in general greatly resembles the dog listening to his master's voice in the Victor Talking machine advertisements.
