When the Non-Partisan league question came up for consideration in the State Grange convention at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon...

definitely on record now. It provided, in effect, that the question as to the attitude of the grange toward the league should be left unchanged...

When the vote was taken on the substitute resolution, the result was 60 votes against to 51 for it...

Vote Almost Unanimous. The resolution against joining hands with the league was passed by a vote of 76 to 3...

He asserted that the fact of their arrest and indictment did not indicate their guilt, but he said, rather, the officials were the victims of prejudice...

Mr. Spence also alleged to the Grangers that he was being persecuted, but despite his appeal the resolution was carried with a rush...

The resolution divorcing the Grange from the Non-Partisan League follows: "Whereas, The Grange, is a non-sectarian and non-partisan, order and the State Grange at its last session at Astoria endorsed the Non-Partisan League, which is a political organization...

Services were also held for the Grange boys who have lost their lives in France or since being called to service. This service was conducted by Walter Pierce, democratic candidate for governor...

Consideration of the resolution providing that the master of the State Grange be paid a sufficient salary to warrant his devoting his entire attention to the work of the grange and nominations of officers consumed the entire time of the morning session...

Morning Session of State Grange

The morning session of the state grange was largely devoted to hearing reports and in considering resolutions. One resolution adopted before the report of the election committee was made was that "We give our newly elected officers and their administrations our unanimous support and encourage every subordinate lodge to do likewise..."

Report of Flora, Mrs. Hester Covert of Osa, Lincoln county. Annual report of Woman's Work committee, Mrs. Florence A. Dickerson Oswego, Mrs. Lula E. Miller, of Alhambra, and Mrs. Gertrude Blanchard, of Grants Pass.

The report of the committee on transportation was received and referred back to the committee for further action.

A telegram of fraternal greetings from Washington State Grange in session at Walla Walla was received and State Master Spence was instructed to reply.

This afternoon memorial services were conducted for deceased members passing away during the year, since the last meeting of the state grange. They are: W. M. Hilleary, of Marion county; Mrs. Anna Carter, of Marion county; Benjamin Schofield, of Washington county; Mrs. Jane Buckman of Multnomah; George Lazelle of Clackamas; Mrs. W. P. Anderson, of Linn; Charles Miller, of Washington; John Wittaker, of Benton; B. F. Owen, of Washington; E. H. Wellman, of Umatilla; H. S. Crouse, of Leed River and R. P. Burns of Columbia.

Services were also held for the Grange boys who have lost their lives in France or since being called to service. This service was conducted by Walter Pierce, democratic candidate for governor...

At 4 o'clock the Commercial club took possession of the members of the grange and gave them an auto ride about the city and to scenic points around it. Tonight, the fifth and sixth degrees will be conferred on about 150 candidates. Adjournment will be had sometime tomorrow, at whatever hour the work is finished.

United States Senators Invited Submarines

Washington, June 6.—Charging that German submarines had been "invited to American shores" by United States senators, Illinois, today precipitated a bitter wrangle in the senate.

Lewis' charges were hotly resented by republican members, who charged him, in turn, with "attempting to stop submarine warfare on American shipping by making an attack on the republican party."

Senator Brandegee had previously read into the record an editorial demanding what explanation the navy department could give for failure to warn merchant shippers earlier of the presence of U-boats in American waters.

Senator Lodge, replying to Lewis, also declared that "nothing has so stimulated and encouraged Germany as loose brags and boasts about the number of troops we have transported to France."

Lodge paid a glowing tribute to the American navy, contending it "had never failed and would not fail now."

"The navy and the navy department have taken every precaution that human foresight could take so far as I can judge. Perhaps there are men in newspaper offices who might be able to do better work," he said.

"No human mind can tell where, out of the great Atlantic ocean, a submarine will emerge or where it will strike."

"The American navy is doing all that it can do, working with its characteristic courage, intelligence and bravery."

New York, June 6.—The New York Evening Sun financial review today said: There was a further and material shrinkage in the volume of business transacted on the stock exchange today. Less than 300,000 shares changed hands in the first three hours...

N. E. Pardee of Burns has a two ton truck with which to haul wood from his ranch on the head of Poison creek, and the News says the undertaking will be watched with a great deal of interest, as it is hoped that he can largely solve the fuel problem by his enterprise.

Now we know why the Deutschland came over. The proper food for weak stomachs. The proper food for one man may be all wrong for another. Every one should adopt a diet suitable to his age and occupation...

AMERICANS ARE (Continued from page one) units necessary in open warfare, I heard the story of the machine gunners' fight from men and officers who were in it. They were all laughing as they told their adventures...

Bissell Gets French War Cross. Lieutenant John Bissell, Pittsburg, who graduated ahead of time last year at West Point, has received the French war cross. He crossed the river with a machine gun detachment and for two days and nights saw nothing but fire...

Swept Out Officers Away. Another outfit told gleefully how their fire swept the steps of a house across the river, apparently a German headquarters. With their gun ready, they would wait until a group of officers gathered on the steps, then knock them off.

Corporal Jules Mangold, of MacDonaid, Pa., was cited in orders for going out under enemy fire to investigate a sniping position. John Mendenhall of New Rochelle, N. Y., was most gallant in action. C. L. Stuart of East Pittsburg, a motorcycle rider, continued on duty in the midst of the fight for 24 hours.

Large Numbers of Americans. The greatest number of American troops ever placed in one sector is now around Chateau-Thierry. Included is a regiment which dates its history back to Revolutionary times. They are stoutly holding their part of the line.

Lieutenant Decorated. Lieutenant Walter Flannery, Pittsburg, was decorated with the Croix de Guerre in an impressive ceremony just behind the lines, with shells passing overhead.

Plannery swam the Marne river with a French soldier who had been wounded, but escaped. When the boches were beaten back from the river he signalled his predicament. Flannery tied a rope about his waist and swam the river. He then tied the rope about the Frenchman's waist and while they were both pulled across.

When asked by the United Press correspondent what the Frenchman said, Flannery replied: "He said a whole lot, but I don't know what it was. He did a lot of hand shaking, so I guess he was saying he was glad to get back."

SHARP FIGHTING (Continued from page one) "On May 31 the enemy threatened to take Chateau-Thierry, attempting to flank the town on our left, and a breach was produced. The blank machine gun battalion, U. S. A., was immediately thrown into Chateau-Thierry with a colonial infantry battalion. Immediately the Americans reinforced the entire defense, especially at the end of the bridge. Their courage and ability as marksmen evoked the admiration of all."

"Crushed by our fire the enemy hesitated and as a result of counter attacks, vigorously supported by the American machine guns, they were thrown beyond the edges of the town. Chateau-Thierry remained entirely in our hands. On the first of June towards night, taking advantage of the darkness, the Germans stole toward the large bridge in which direction they penetrated through the western suburbs to the banks of the Marne. In order to mask their movements they made use of smoke bombs which made the aim of the machine guns very difficult."

"At the same time, the town underwent an extremely violent bombardment. At the moment when the German arrived on the large bridge and believed themselves to be in possession of the same, a terrific explosion destroyed the central pier. Some Germans who had already crossed were taken on the south bank. The American machine guns held the south bank and gave protection for the withdrawal of troops retiring from the northern section for the purpose of crossing the bridge prior to its destruction. Here again the courage of the Americans was beyond all praise. The colonials themselves, though accustomed to acts of bravery, were struck by the wonderful morale in the face of the fire, the coolness and extraordinary steadiness of their allies. The watchfulness of the Americans never failed them and with their machine guns playing upon the approaches of the destroyed bridges and footbridges they prevented any re-attack by the enemy. They will be relieved at the same time as the French troops at the side of whom they fought. The French command, knowing their just pride, fear that they would have humiliated these valiant troops if they had offered them rest sooner than their French companions in the fight. The episode of the Chateau-Thierry will remain one of the most memorable deeds of this war. It is a pleasure for all of us to know that our valiant allies have shared with us there."

THE GERMAN OBJECT. London, June 6.—English newspapers believe the submarine operations along the American coast are intended to lure back American destroyers and patrol boats new in European waters, but are confident this object will not be accomplished.

Bombardment of American coast cities is considered entirely probable. "As has been anticipated since the Deutschland's voyage, a fighting submarine has succeeded in crossing the Atlantic," the Express said.

"The U-boat pirate will have plenty of opportunity for mischief in the western Atlantic. It is possible that some American seaboard town will be bombarded."

"The extension of the U-boat campaign will mean some loss and damage, with certain retribution and the hardening of American determination."

"America realizes the threat of a submarine blockade is intended to lure back American patrol boats and destroyers now in European waters. America can protect herself and help us too."

The first news of submarine operations on the other side of the Atlantic was published here yesterday afternoon. The Graphic said: "This desperate search by U-boats for victims is proof of the straits to which Germany has been reduced. That they got so many victims is due to the unexpectedness of the attack. Now that it has been warned, the United States will be prepared."

Baker Makes Requests. Washington, June 6.—Secretary of War Baker today asked provision in the new fortification bill for sixteen coastal aerial defense stations to guard against submarine and airplane attacks.

The estimated cost is $1,000,000 each. Thirteen of them will be on the Atlantic coast. Sites for the stations have already been selected. They can be built within six weeks after appropriations are available. Baker informed the sub-committee of the house appropriations committee which is framing the $7,000,000 fortification bill.

The fortifications bill will also provide for a complete mobile coast defense, by making appropriations for transporting on railroad cars the large calibre guns now at various strategic points along the coast, to any point under attack within a few hours, according to Representative Borland of the appropriations committee.

the captain reported having seen a reddish yellow flash when southeast of Hook about 75 miles. He believed it a submarine, he said, and waited for an explosion against his side.

The explosion did not follow, but the flash was answered by five lights in rapid succession from a point south of where the flash had been seen. An American liner carrying 204 passengers, more than half of whom were American soldiers and members of naval gun crews, arrived here today from Panama.

The ship followed the same course north as the Norwegian ship Eldveid, latest reported victim of German underwater boats, but did not sight any of the raiders, much to the disappointment of the soldiers and members of the gun crews.
