TWENTY YEARS AGO

(Continued from page one) men be trained until they are 21. Senator Fall said he'd accept Chamberlain's suggestion. "If we fix the age at 20 I think there's a chance that the house will accept the measure," said Chamberlain. "I will give it my support." Senator Pomerehne demanded why, in view of the fact that 10,000,000 men had registered, it was necessary to lower the age limit. "In my judgment, it's far better to change the limits than to go into deferred classes and upset industry and agriculture. America must serve notice on the world that every man be 18 or 45, will be sent if it's necessary to win this war." Senator Wadsworth, after advocating both raising and lowering the draft ages declared that the United States should summon an army big enough to establish the iron ring around Germany and Austria and their allies. He urged that Bulgaria and Turkey be included at once among the enemies of the United States and as soon as possible an army be sent into Italy. He also urged an expedition into Siberia, declaring he believed the Russian people would welcome the coming of a disinterested army. Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, late today introduced an amendment to the army bill as a substitute for the Fall amendment. The amendment fixes the draft age at 20 to 40 inclusive, and also provides that nationals of allied and neutral nations who have announced their intention of becoming citizens shall be subject to the draft. The amendment is regarded as a compromise between the old age limit and the Fall figures of 18 to 45.

Blake's Case Puzzles Military and Secret Service

Portland, Or., June 25.—British and American army officers, the secret service and police puzzled their brains over the strange case of T. L. Blake today. Blake, who said he was an Anzac scout and exhibited 47 wounds said to have been received in fighting for the allies on several fronts, has been duping the public in many American cities, said army men. The man has lost an arm and shoulder and claims to have been mutilated by the Germans while a prisoner. He scores of American cities he has worked for the Red Cross and from all reports has raised large sums of money, all of which he refused to touch. He has been paying his own expenses. Blake was said to have confessed today that he left England after he had swindled the Prudential Life Insurance company while acting as its agent there. One report said he is wanted in Vancouver on a serious charge. Blake also admitted he never took part in the Dardanelles campaign but stuck to his story of French front fighting. The paradoxical Blake was taken here Saturday after he had retold with more intimate details the gruesome war stories that gained him great sympathy, yards of publicity and caused Red Cross dollars to roll in in many cities.

LEGAL NOTICES

IRRIGATION FOR 1918 For the purpose of trying to make the irrigation service more satisfactory the city will be divided into two districts so that each district will get the full service of the plant upon the day it irrigates. The plan is to have the houses which bear even numbers on the streets irrigate only on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday, and the houses which bear odd numbers on the streets irrigate only on Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. This plan will permit every house to irrigate four days out of each week. The purpose of the Water company in furnishing water for irrigation is not to furnish all the water a person can run through the hose in the six irrigation hours every day, but to furnish enough water to keep the lawn in condition. To use more than enough is a waste. We will pump the usual amount of water and hope to furnish it more satisfactorily.—Salem Water, Light & Power Co.
