Many Applications For Citizenship Today

In the naturalization proceedings today in the circuit court, Judge George C. Bingham impressed on all the fact that the petition for final naturalization papers is not a mere form, but that the applicant should show some qualifications by which he should be entitled to the rights of an American citizen.

The applicant should be well disposed toward this country and its laws, the judge said, and to be properly qualified, should have some knowledge of the government, its aims and its purposes. The applicant should also have some knowledge of the manner of making laws and of the three branches of government.

The Oregon Blue Book was suggested as a book well worth studying by the man who hoped to become a citizen.

Candidates for citizenship should at so bring in their wives from the fact that when a man is admitted to the privileges of a citizen, his wife also becomes a citizen and both are entitled to vote. What the country wants is good citizens, not bad ones, he said.

Among those who applied for final papers, two who are natives of Germany and Austria, were continued until the close of the war. At the morning sessions, the following were admitted to citizenship, having proved to Judge Bingham that they were worthy and well qualified to exercise citizenship:

izenship: John J. Jayes, Salem; Arthur J. Edwards, Salem; Thomas H. Clark, Salem; William J. Warren, Stayton and John W. Warrell of Salem. Herman J. P. Kuehling of Salem, was born in Germany and Frank Callahan in Austria and their petitions for citizenship were continued. Others who applied for final papers were presenting themselves before Judge Bingham this afternoon.

Safe and Sane Fourth of July Guaranteed

There are several laws, both state and city that will prevent too enthusiastic celebration of the Fourth in the way of discharging firecrackers or of producing explosions, as was customary a generation ago. For the benefit of those who would like to know why they cannot shoot off all kinds of firecrackers or sell them, the following laws are cited:

The state law says: "It shall be unlawful to sell any cannon, cracker, great cracker or other firecracker over 2 1/2 inches long inclusive of the fuse and over five eighths of an inch in diameter." The penalty is a fine of from $25 to $50. The person who explodes any of the above is subject to the same fine as the man who sells them.

The city ordinance reads: "It shall be unlawful to explode, without consent of the mayor, or to discharge any fireworks or preparation of gunpowder or other explosive compounds, or make any bonfire within the business part of the city or in the vicinity of any store, hotel, factory, or public building, or when warned not to do so by any householder." There is a fine of $10 waiting for any one who happens to disregard the city ordinance.

Delegates to the meeting called in Portland for the purpose of naming a price satisfactory to the prune growers for the 1918 crop have not returned as it was found that the delegates as a whole could come to no conclusion. According to last reports, the meeting named a committee and left it to the members of this committee to figure on a price that will be satisfactory. Salem went on record last Saturday as favoring the California price with 8 1/2 cents base, but with an extra cent for the 50-60 sizes. According to the Official Bulletin, the federal food administration is not inclined to look with favor on a higher price to any community than that agreed on by California.

May Buy Wheat Flour Again Next Friday

Everyone has the privilege of buying wheat flour Friday of this week on the 50-50 basis, provided there is any wheat flour in the city to sell. If the grocer has turned in all his flour to the government as he is supposed to have done, there may be a shortage in Salem for several days. Orders were telephoned in to the big mills at Portland and elsewhere as soon as it was known that the food administration had backed down on its unlimited state order, but the supply is limited as it is understood all flour collected in the county is on its way east. Flour may be a few cents higher per sack as there will not be enough in Portland or the mills to ship tanks in car load lots and the freight is a little higher on local shipments. White flour returned to the government which was originally purchased with an equal amount of substitutes, may be replaced without substitutes. Instructions to county food administrators are "the dealer may make a statement on the buyer's certificate, showing the amount of flour returned and secure an equal amount without substitutes."
