STORY OF BATTLE (Continued from page one)

had infiltrated and were in the rear. With this advantage, the Germans attempted to attack, but were held and the Germans in the rear were wiped out.

The Germans scarcely ceased shelling. They used high explosives, gas shells and one pounders. The last named termed "quick dick" by the Americans came silently and exploded disastrously.

Airplanes dropping bombs from a low height, contributed to the German fire. Two days of this and the engineers were withdrawn. Another battalion of the same brigade came to relieve the worn Americans. The newcomers were only two companies strong, having themselves been compelled to give up two companies because of gas shelling.

A German attack at 2 a. m. and another at 4 a. m. threatened to prevent the relief being made, but both attacks were beaten off and at 6 a. m. the battalion—what there was left of it—was on its way out of the woods.

The capture of these woods has been described, but if it is remembered that they are filled with rocks, often the size of boulders, furnishing the Germans with natural nests for their machine guns and if advantages offered by fields of wheat, grown high and dense for machine gun emplacements are considered some idea will be obtained of what is meant by "we drove the Germans out and took their guns."

(Here an entire paragraph is deleted.) But the worst phase of the fighting was the numerical weakness of the Americans. They were literally only a single line of men. There were no reserves to which they could fall back and re-form when necessary.

Signal men, runners and anybody momentarily available, was used to bring up ammunition.

When replacements came up the absorption of the new men had to be attempted in the first line. New men were thus taken in to pitch dark. 177 of them at one time. They didn't know the country. They couldn't be identified and little organization could be attempted. Often as otherwise replacements were made in the midst of shelling.

That, minus the heroics, is the story of the fight the thousand American boys made. Other boys to their right and left went through a similar experience.

SCHWAB IN SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, July 11.—Charles M. Schwab, president of the Emergency Fleet Corporation and Charles Pize, vice president, arrived in San Francisco from southern California today to be the guests of the United States war exposition.

A special army mess dinner has been arranged for Schwab on the exposition grounds, and a particularly large storming party will cross "No Man's Land" behind the tank Britannia.

GRANDMOTHER WAS THE DRUGGIST

In the early days of our country grandmother was the druggist, and her drugs consisted mostly of roots and herbs gathered from the fields and forests. There was peppermint for indigestion, mullen for coughs, skullcap for nervousness, thoroughwort for colds, wormwood for bruises and sprains and so on.

People of Argentina Friendly to United States Washington, July 11.—Assurances of the war regard of the people of Argentina for the United States and of their sympathy for her ideals were voiced to the United Press yesterday by Dr. Romulo S. Naon, Argentine ambassador and high financial commissioner here.

Dr. Naon asserted that he had been highly pleased with conditions as he had found them in Argentina during his recent visit there and that he was equally pleased with the kindly spirit with which his return to Washington was greeted.

The ambassador called on Secretary Lansing and presented his credentials as high financial commissioner. Recognition of the rank gives the United States four commissioners from foreign countries.

Dr. Naon's chief task as high financial commissioner is not to float a loan for Argentina in this country, as has been reported from various sources, but rather to cooperate with the United States in working out problems of trade and monetary exchange between the two countries.

SOCIETY

By MABEL GARRETT

Mrs. W. H. Cook of 168 North 12th street and her daughter, Mrs. Ivan Bellinger, and the latter's little children, Jane Elizabeth and Vera Bellinger, spent the week end in Eugene. While there they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hauser, Mr. Hauser is the son of Mrs. Cook and is manager of the branch store in Eugene of Hauser Brothers company in Salem.

Professor Ruben Thompson and his little son and daughter, Bruce and Doris, are spending a few days visiting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Thompson. Professor Thompson, who is a brother of Dr. Thompson, lives in Reno, Nevada, where he is professor of Greek and Latin in the state university there.

Miss Edna Simonton has been spending a few days visiting in Dallas as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hayter there.

One of the parties which motored to Postland today included Mr. and Mrs. Z. J. Riggs. They were accompanied by Mrs. Ida Simons, who has been the house guest of Hazel Downing and Mrs. James Wilson. While there the party will see Margaret Anglin at the Healy. Mr. Riggs plans to attend the annual session of the Oregon State Pharmaceutical association which is being held this week at the Maitland hotel.

INSTANT ACTION SURPRISES MANY HERE

This grocer's story surprises local people: "I had had stomach trouble. All food seemed to sour and form gas. Was always constipated. Nothing helped until I tried buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adlerika. ONE SPOONFUL astonished me with its INSTANT action." Because Adlerika flushes the ENTIRE alimentary tract it relieves ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas and prevents appendicitis. It has QUICKEST action of anything we ever sold. J. C. Perry.

acter, but is due chiefly to the surrender of land by the Germans back to the landlords. Homes/and sections fifty versts (33 miles) square have been wiped out completely.

This revolution in Ukraine, together with the increasing power of the Czech-Slovaks in the east necessitating diversion of considerable German forces may account in some measure for delay in resumption of the west front offensive.

SCENE IN PAN-SOVIET CONGRESS

By Joseph Shapiro (United Press staff correspondent) Stockholm, July 11.—Stirring scenes were enacted during the pan-soviet congress at Moscow, according to the great newspapers which have just been received here. With German Ambassador Mirbach occupying one box and with representatives of the entente allies in another section, a delegate from the Ukraine, M. Alexandroff, precipitated a lively scene by denouncing German imperialism and its influence in the Ukraine.

"I greet the pan-soviets in the name of the secret peasant congress in the Ukraine where reigns a German dictatorship and where the bolsheviks continue negotiations with the marionette Skoropadsky, simultaneously tolerating the presence of German imperialism in the person of Count Mirbach."

Two hundred and fifty members of the Left cheered his statements wildly while Mirbach and his suite sat stiffly erect.

"The Germans are employing imprisonment and executions without trials to suppress a revolt of workmen and peasants but we know how to fight even if you don't," the speaker continued.

"The Germans have come to the Ukraine to obtain bread, but they won't get it. Wherever the Germans have loaded trains, we have blown them up and have treated likewise all artillery and magazines in the Ukraine."

"The Germans sought to transfer huge aviation machinery from Odessa and Nikolaiet to the Krupp works, but we blew it up."

"The Germans will be wiped out in the Ukraine. They already have paid thousands of lives for their tyranny."

"You have concluded the Brest-Litovsk peace at the price of the Ukraine's liberty. We now call upon you to aid us."

Mirbach excitedly whispered to a German officer. Members of the Left again began shouting: "Down with Mirbach; down with the lackeys of Mirbach; down with the lackeys of Lenin Trotsky!"

Leon Trotsky then told the delegates that the government was opposed to the offensive of the red guard.

HURRIES AMERICAN PLANS

By Robert J. Bender Washington, July 11.—A sudden awakening of Russians—thus far isolated—to the dangers of German invasion, is adding zest to the American-planned plans for aid to Russia.

It is admitted that much of the success of the economic mission plan is "police propaganda" force of soldiers depends upon how the Russians rally to their standard.

Czech-Slovaks in Siberia and the welcome tendered them by the populace there, the revolt of Ukraine against German oppression, reported today and the cooperation of Russians on the Murman coast with the allies are regarded as most encouraging by officials here.

Should the Czech-Slovaks force meet with defeat, however, the whole problem would be seriously affected. For upon that force the allies are counting for "emergency aid."

These changing events with their possibilities merely emphasize the difficulties confronting the allies in carrying out a definite course of action.

In his recent conference with Lord Reading, Viscount Ishii and other allied statesmen, the president discussed the general program.

The president, it is said, is holding up discussion of the military feature until a decision has been reached with American military experts. After this country has determined the part it will take, that phase of the question will be laid before the allies.

Yankee Colonel and French Pig Neighbors By Frank J. Taylor (United Press Staff Correspondent) With the American Army in France, June 15.—(By Mail).—"Antoinette" is a family pig of a French household, living in a little town close to the front where is located a certain regiment. "Antoinette" is more trouble than a whole team division. In the village the boys decided to clean up the street in front of their colonel's unit. They made it the most spickest street in France, and then named it Broadway. "Antoinette" either likes an American cleaned street, or else she likes the bright light of Broadway, which is good French sunlight and nothing more. "Antoinette" brought her brood, and the entire platoon insists in living not on but in Broadway, right in the middle. Coaxing, shoving, prodding, beating and pleading have failed to remove "Antoinette" from Broadway, and the French family, true to democratic ideals says the pigs have as much right on Broadway as the colonel. Case of Despondency Despondency is often caused by indigestion and constipation, and quickly disappears when Chamberlain's Tablets are taken. These tablets strengthen the digestion and move the bowels. With him were others of renown. Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, was in line as was Lieutenant General Bridges of the British army. Then came sailors, soldiers, police and the fire department of the city. Friends of the former mayor followed—all afoot. Three carriages were in line, in addition to the vehicle which carried the body. The aviator who had been wheeling overhead while preparations were made to start the cortege, followed the line up Fifth avenue, scattering flowers as he went. The body was taken to St. Patrick's cathedral, where a huge requiem mass was said. The services were not private, the church with the exception of a small space which was reserved for friends, being thrown open to the public. At Woodlawn cemetery where interment was made, the services were private. A squad of soldiers were formed the only body of men there who were not personal friends of the former mayor. Military custom required that they be present to perform certain duties contingent upon a military funeral. Soldiers' Bridge Toll Fixed at One Cent Portland, Ore., July 11.—With the attorney general of Washington state maintaining his calm silence on the legality of allowing soldiers free passage across the Interstate bridge at Vancouver, a move was begun here to pass the soldiers over for a nominal one cent charge. The county commissioner adopted such a resolution and put the matter up to Clark county, Washington. Since the move to obtain free passage for the soldiers was started by Colonel Disque, commander of the spruce division, it is unexplained why the attorney general of Washington should delay giving his opinion. Colonel Disque explained that such a step would materially aid the smooth operation of his division headquarters in conjunction with activities in Vancouver. Tent Meeting Interest Increasing Nightly Last night the Hayward-Dickson meetings were the center of attraction in the city as Evangelist Dickson spoke on the subject of "Heaven, Hell, Purgatory—Where are the Dead?" He said that the whole plan of redemption thru Jesus Christ disproves the immortality of the soul. Jesus came to give men something that he did not have. He came to give him life, and his coming was not in vain. "I would a great deal rather have my mother resting peacefully in the grave than if I were giving the broad way that leads to destruction," said the speaker. "I don't go to it, I don't want to go to it, I don't know that she was up in heaven looking down upon my waywardness and sin, impatient, to help and to speak to me, her beloved son. Why that would be a hell in heaven!" Mr. Dickson assailed in a vigorous way many of the popular teachings upon the grave and hell showing from the scriptures that they are opposed to many, many of the ideas held before the world at the present time regarding the future life. The large interest which is being manifested in these meetings testify to the appreciation of the people of Salem for the clear gospel of the Bible. Evangelists Hayward and Dickson show themselves to be deep students of the scriptures. One special feature of interest in the meetings from night to night is the opening of the questions which are handed in with the offering before each address. These questions are written out by those who are troubled over some point or points of doctrine and the speaker of the evening opens them and answers them before the regular study of the evening is opened up. In this way the doubts in many minds are taken away and they are ready for continued study. The stirring song services which are held each evening before the regular service is creating a great and new interest in the singing of the gospel. It is hard to sit in these meetings and not open ones mouth in praise. The songs, most of them new, are set to tunes which one can easily whistle while at work, and are naturally catchy. Tonight Evangelist Hayward will give his great lecture on the "Coming World Ruler." The public in general are invited and arrangements are being made to seat a large crowd of people. The prophecies of the Bible are clearly explained on these great themes and the Bible seems like a new book to many who have not heretofore made them a study. Good Teeth Start With Infancy One of a Series of Informative Articles on Dental Hygiene—No. 6. GOOD teeth, well taken care of, add a charm to any face. A child with a deformed mouth enters the race of life with a big handicap. There is nothing that detracts more from a person's appearance than unsightly or irregular teeth. Straight, even teeth—a perfectly shaped mouth—rest very largely with mother's care in infancy. Few realize the danger likely to result from allowing young children to form the habit of sucking their thumb or fingers. This tends to force out the upper front teeth and jaw, and to push back the lower front teeth and jaw. A deformed face is the result. This deformity causes the teeth to come in irregularly. Deformed jaws help to cause adenoids and mouth-breathing, and mental development is retarded by displacement of the bones of the jaws and face. Do not neglect the temporary teeth. They represent the structure on which the permanent teeth are built. If lost by decay before their time, the jaw fails to expand properly, and the incoming permanent teeth will be crowded and irregular. A child's temporary molars are not fully replaced by the permanent teeth until the tenth or twelfth year after birth. Published by the State Dental Association of Oregon
