Dallas Chautauqua Campaigns For Sale of Season Tickets

Dallas, Ore., July 11.—A meeting of the pledgers of the 1918 Chautauqua was held in the Dallas Commercial Club rooms on Mill street Tuesday night and plans made for carrying on the sale of the season tickets for the big attraction that will begin in this city on July 17th. The meeting was presided over by Oscar Hayter, president of the association and after a thorough discussion of the problem it was decided to cut the city up into districts and have workers call on every house in their respective districts in a manner similar to that adopted by Red Cross and War Saving stamp workers. A number of representative citizens from towns throughout the county were present and assured the members present that they could sell quite a number of tickets in their respective districts.

Central Howell

(Capital Journal Special Service) Central Howell, July 11.—We see in the Sunday Oregonian of July seventh, where W. S. Diefenbach of the United States bureau of education favors a continuous school year, claiming the child would be half way through high school by the year's end, before it would be ready to begin high school by the present method. Suppose he would rush them through school at that rate of speed, what would they really know? Ask almost any eighth or ninth grade pupil the meaning of words that are in use every day and generally they will say, "I don't know." In the school room they had the dictionary to run to but outside of the school room they fail to carry the dictionary with them. They have never had to center any thought on the meaning of words, depended on the dictionary and not themselves. We think the old way of learning to spell and give the definition of the most important words in daily reading lessons would be a better idea. Then the pupils would have something to stay with them through life. We would also have more efficient teachers.
