ANNUAL REPORT OF COMMISSIONER WELLS

Insurance of Oregon Are Fully Discussed by Head of Department

Life, surety and marine insurance business show a big increase in this state during 1917, according to the annual report of Insurance Commissioner Wells which is now being printed.

There has not been such a big increase in fire insurance, but the business has been much more profitable to the companies than before as the fire loss ratio has materially decreased.

PROHIBITION AND TELEGRAPH CONTROL

These Issues Now Absorb Attention of Solons at Nation's Capital

By L. C. Martin (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, July 12.—President Wilson will forbid censorship of news dispatches under government control of wires.

He assured congressional leaders today that press associations and press bureau business will be left undisturbed and asked that the senate be so informed to quiet expressed fears that Postmaster General Burleson would establish censorship if given control of wires.

The president intends that newspaper wires shall continue to be operated with the same freedom as now, it was stated.

Despite this, however, Senators Reed and Watson announced they will press their amendments exempting newspaper wires from government control.

Indications today were that the resolution would pass the senate without amendment by tomorrow night.

Meantime talk of recess went forward rapidly.

Negotiations were begun to fix August 20 as the date for a vote on wartime prohibition.

Dryers are willing to postpone action on the amendment to give congress an opportunity to recess as soon as the wire resolution is passed, if the wets will agree to fix a date for a vote. Wets are willing to agree that no prohibition question be made the order of business immediately after a recess, but some are not willing to concede a definite voting date.

An effort to obtain recess, Senator Simmons and Representative Kitchin planned today to see President Wilson. Simmons wishes to tell the president that the prohibition question should go over and a recess be taken to give opportunity for working out some plan whereby imposition of prohibition will not seriously interfere with the work of the framers of the revenue bill.

Simmons and Kitchin declare prohibition will cut into revenues seriously and will, in addition, send many banks into receiverships, if it is imposed too suddenly. In view of the imminence of a fourth liberty loan, the embarrassment of banks would be disastrous the two leaders will tell the president.

Senator Pomerene, Ohio, opened debate on the wire resolution this afternoon when an attack on the interstate commerce commission for denying public hearings in consideration of the resolution.

Pomerene said the president did not expect the resolution would be adopted without due consideration.

"No one has presumed to say that he wanted the resolution railroaded through without consideration," he declared.

Pomerene insisted there are many important details incident to taking over the lines that should have the most careful consideration before taking action. Hearings, when it was expected many of these matters would be cleared up, were denied, he declared.

Pomerene said he never had believed and does not believe there was any necessity for censoring domestic mail. He also said he was convinced there had been little censoring of that description in this country.

Bible House Officials Think Limit Pressed

New York, July 12.—Some enthusiastic and far seeing New York patriots overstepped themselves in the belief of officials of the Bible House, here today, when he carelessly plastered the building with posters proclaiming: "To hell with the kaiser."

EXAMINATIONS FOR CIVIL SERVICE WORK

Government Has Many and Varied Positions to Fill at Present Time

Paul W. Miller, local secretary of the civil service commission, announces several examinations to be held in Salem. In many instances, it is not necessary to wait for a specified number before an examination will be given. In fact, for many of the positions that the government has to fill, the examination will be given any time an applicant may apply.

And for many branches of the service no written examination is required. It is now a question whether the applicant is fitted for the job by experience and general personal condition rather than the ability to pass a written examination as if applying for a teacher's certificate.

Statisticians and statistical clerks are needed and the pay is all the way from $1,800 a year to $4,500. Applicants will not be required to pass their civil service examination on the teacher certificate plan. In making the application education in general and experience will count for part and the amount of responsible work one has done will go in as 50 per cent.

It is the same with those who like to apply with the government for a job as assistant business manager or as assistant in local gas work. Here, one's general ability will be graded on a 10 per cent basis, and his education and business training and experience will be 90, or a basis of 90 per cent. The applicant will be a little weak on fractions and algebra, but has a goodly amount of satisfactory. The expert as business manager will be paid from $2,000 to $3,000.

A file clerk is good for from $1,000 to $1,200 a year. Telephone operators are put on a basis of $702 a year by the government, male or female. In this work, experience counts more than education as the civil service commission figures on a basis of 30 per cent for education and 70 per cent for experience. There is no written examination but the applicant should have plenty of recommendations. The government is most insistent in knowing what one has been doing and why the applicant is willing to work for the government.

Library assistants who can qualify will be paid from $1,800 to $2,040 a year. An operator has much to do with this applicant as well as experience.

A multigraph operator is valued at from $1,000 to $1,200 a year and the applicant must of course have had some experience. If the uninitiated, it may look easy to get a government job, but the blanks to be filled out go into one's past history more than that required by an ordinary business house.

Competitive examinations will be held August 9, for those desiring the job of checker with the government. The pay is $3.65 a day. The examination is based on 60 per cent for experience and 40 per cent for education.

To those who have a suspicion they would like to line up with a sure job and sure pay and feel that the government civil service offers the opportunity, there is the opportunity to become fully posted on government positions by applying to Paul W. Miller, at the post office.

SEATTLE BUSINESS MAN SAYS TANLAC DESERVES PRAISE

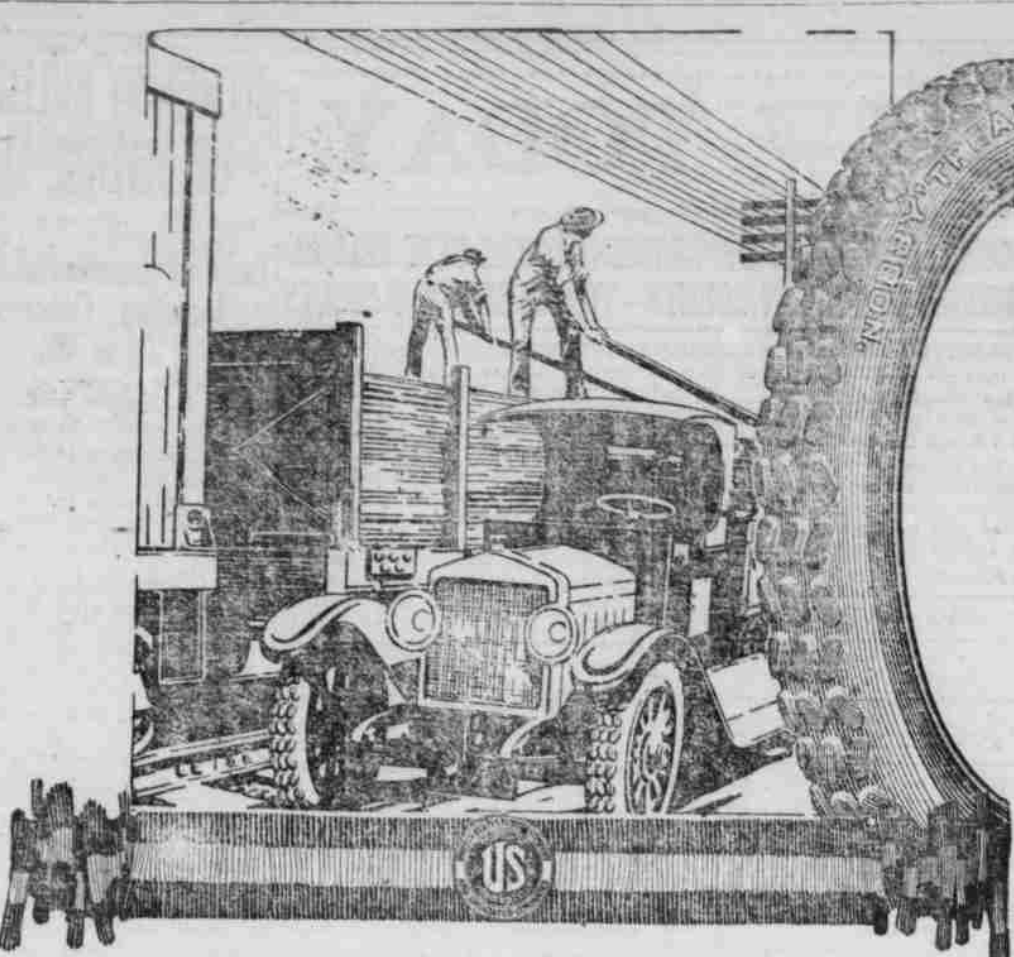

Proprietor of Big Printing House Makes A Strong Statement

Like wildfire the fame of Tanlac is sweeping a whole continent from coast to coast and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Great Lakes. Well known men and women from all parts of the United States and Canada are testifying daily to the extraordinary merits of the preparation, until it is now the most widely talked of medicine in the world.

P. H. Jenkins, proprietor of the Fox Printing company, 3087 Arcade building, Seattle, Washington, says: "I have already gained several pounds in weight since I began taking Tanlac and am still gaining all the time. The best part of my wonderful improvement is in my feelings. I can't say that I've actually been ill or had any special sickness, but for some time past I have been going down hill. This has shown itself decidedly in my face which had gotten very thin. My appetite had fallen off and I didn't think I was getting the proper nourishment from my food. To sum the whole thing up, I felt that my system was becoming all run down and I needed something to build me up."

"After reading the high endorsements of Tanlac, I tried it and it seems to be just the thing I needed. I am greatly improved in every way. My face is filling out, my appetite is fine, and I enjoy what I eat. I am ready for work all the time and don't tire out quickly like I did. At the rate I'm gaining it won't be long until I will be back to my old weight, one hundred and forty five—and I know from what it has done for me, that Tanlac deserves all the praise that is given it."

Tanlac is sold in Hubbard by Hubbard Drug Co., in Mt. Angel by Ben Gooch, in Gervais by John Kelly, in Turner by H. P. Cornelius, in Woodburn by Lynna H. Shorey, in Salem by Dr. S. C. Stone, in Silverton by Geo. A. Stuchhammer, in Gates by Mrs. J. P. McCurdy and in Strayton by C. A. Beauchamp. (Adv.)

The Italian cavalry advance was so rapid the Austrians were forced to flee precipitately from the town, abandoning an airfield and several airplanes, which fell undamaged into the hands of the attackers. British monitors and airplanes attacked then throwing the enemy into confusion. Airmen demolished six bridges over the Soutouk with bombs, dropped with remarkable accuracy.

Menacing Bulgarians
Washington, July 12.—French and Italian troops operating in Albania are seriously menacing the Bulgarians near Monastir, while the French right wing is now in a position to advance to Pogradec, according to official French cables today.

"The operations of the French and Italians, recently begun, are developing favorably," reads the communique. "Austrian forces, after sanguinary defeats, are retreating rapidly, their re-

Big Find of Liquor in Newport Yesterday

(Capital Journal Special Service)
Newport, July 12.—Over one hundred quarts of cherry wine and whiskey were unearthed in Front street here last evening by Corporal C. A. Isham, C. H. Fisher of state military police. The liquor was found near the spot where the seizure was made two weeks ago. No arrests have been made yet since the ownership is not definitely known. There was evidence of other liquor having been recently removed from the hiding places.

Czar Is Living and Writes Letter to Friend

By Joseph Shaplen (United Press Staff Correspondent)
Stockholm, July 12.—What is accepted here generally as proof that Nicholas Romanoff and his family were not murdered when they were removed from Ekaterinburg is an alleged letter from the ex-czar to one of his former generals published in the Novoe Vladimirovo. The letter says in part: "We are living in good. Even books are denied us. We receive only letters written in Russia and which have been subjected to the strictest censorship. When we left Ekaterinburg a group

American Motor Launch Sunk by Shore Batteries

Washington, July 12.—The motor launch Number 3429, was fired upon and sunk by German shore batteries while assisting a French destroyer to tow an American airplane to safety. Three members of the crew were picked up on the allied shore, two were taken prisoner by the Germans and the other two members of the crew are unaccounted for.

Some of the crew with lifeboats began swimming toward the shore. Assistant Surgeon Albert M. Evans, U. S. N. R. New York and Philip Goldman, quartermaster, New York, were only able to make the German shore and were seen to have been taken prisoner by German soldiers.

The missing are Charles J. Tatulinski, seaman, Cleveland, and John P. Vogt, seaman, New Orleans.
