YANKS AND FRENCH

Janions left him to "get some more Huns," and he started his prisoners along a shell-pitted road toward the rear, still clutching his trusty automobile.

Arriving at headquarters Brown made an accurate count of his bag for the first time. There were 159 of them including a major, a captain and two lieutenants. The sergeant assured the commander he had a "receipt" and turned over a pistol and a pair of wire cutters he had taken from the major.

Brown had narrowly escaped death a number of times, as his uniform was torn with bullets. Early in the fighting his pack had been shot from his back by shrapnel.

Brown's feat was the climax of dozens of similar episodes. Eight Americans, captured by the boches, were taken to the north side of the river. They overpowered their guards took valuable maps from a German officer and grabbed a boat and paddled back.

A single machine gunner saw two platoons of Huns advancing. The gun had been injured and he was unable to swerve it to bring them into the line of fire. Whipping out his automatic pistol he fired several shots, picking off the Germans on one side and causing them to alter their course. This brought them within range of the machine gun. He then wiped them out.

Small groups of Germans filtered through the American lines near Mezy, but our line was not withdrawn. Instead, the Americans hunted down and killed or captured every boche.

One American trumpeter took command of his company when the captain became separated from them.

must still rattle his shield, even though the rattle comes from fright. So, the fighting is continuing, but in desultory fashion, and with growing despondency. General Foch has not been compelled to call upon his reserves to stem the German rush. This all important fact is known definitely, because the Germans were checked long before the allied reserves could possibly have been transferred to the eastern side of the Aisne-Marne salient.

To use reserves in an advance eastward away from Paris and the channel ports would be the gravest blunder Von Hindenburg now can commit. Thanks to American reinforcements, the allies are in a position where they can give Von Hindenburg all the time he wants to kill off German power.

Six Thousand Strikers Return to Work Today

Oakland, Cal., July 17.—Six thousand striking shipyard workers returned to work today, ending a two day strike which started Monday morning when 3,500 boilermakers refused to go to work. They claimed back pay was due some of them because of reclassification under the May wage scale agreement.

More than 10,000 men were out of work yesterday as a result of the strike. Twenty five hundred shipyard laborers struck yesterday in sympathy with the boilermakers. They also returned to work today. Carpenters, electricians and other workers were thrown out of employment temporarily by the strike.

The boilermakers voted unanimously yesterday afternoon to return to work today.

Officials of the Bethlehem corporation, the largest yard affected by the strike, said the total back pay claims filed by the men was not more than $1,000.

The French started out to take Corey and they took it, of course.

GERMAN DRIVE WAS COSTLY; A FAILURE

German Intelligence Work Responsible For Lack of Success

By Ed L. Keon.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) London, July 18.—One of the chief causes in the lack of success in the Germans' fifth and most ambitious drive this year, is the great improvement in the allied intelligence work since the previous enemy effort. This is due largely to our steadily growing aerial superiority, which renders even partial surprises at this time impossible.

Not only was the general locality, but almost the exact frontage of the prospective attack long known, enabling the most effective counter preparations among which was the massing of sufficient reserves without denuding the lines to the north.

In these preparations, the extent of the American participation cannot now be entirely revealed. Even if the present offensive is merely checked, instead of definitely held, it must so far be considered an inglorious defeat, inasmuch as despite the lengthiest and most elaborate preparations none of the German objectives were obtained.

The net result has been only isolated penetrations on comparatively lightly held front positions without even denting the main battle line—and this at the heaviest cost. The early supposition that this drive was probably a "side show" now seems erroneous. British and French military authorities generally agree that developments show the German concentration on both sides of Rheims was too great to allow effective operations anywhere else until later.

DRIVE IS FAILURE

By John De Gandt.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) Paris, July 18.—As a whole, the new German drive is a costly failure so far. The battle is continuing, but it consists of comparatively local operations along the new fronts created by the enemy's initial rush. Fighting on these scattered sectors is violent, but latest reports indicate that the allies are safely holding.

Degeneration of the German effort into a series of limited operations proves the failure of the Ludendorff style of attack, which necessitates an immediate advance of the troops of at least eight kilometers (five miles) to be effective. Nowhere has such an advance been accomplished. Even the allied Jiffy-Jell is the only product which serves these uses well. It is the only gelatine dainty with true-fruit flavors, highly concentrated, sealed in glass vials.

These bottled flavors do not lose their freshness. They give to Jiffy-Jell a wealth of fresh-fruit taste. Thus Jiffy-Jell desserts and salads taste like fruit-made dainties.

You make Jiffy-Jell by simply adding boiling water, then the flavor from the vial. One package makes dessert for six. If you whip the jell it serves twelve.

To serve fresh fruit, preserved fruit or pastry for six requires 8 to 12 ounces of sugar. Pastry requires flour in addition. The average cost is at least twice the cost of Jiffy-Jell.

Or you can mix fresh fruit in Jiffy-Jell without adding sugar, and have a double-fruit dessert.

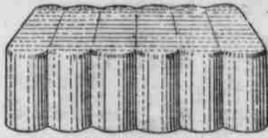

With Lime or Mint Jiffy-Jell you can make delicious salads, zesty and green. Use left-overs in cooked vegetables. Or use fresh vegetables.

Mix in meat scraps with these flavors and you have a jellied meat loaf. This is a delightful way to save waste. Millions now use Jiffy-Jell as a conservation dainty. They get fruity desserts and salads of the finest sort, at trifling cost, without using sugar or flour.

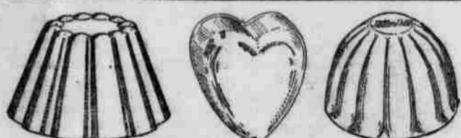

We want you to know what it means to you. See how it differs from old-style gelatine products. Buy two packages to try, then send us the coupon, and we will send you molds worth more than you pay for Jiffy-Jell.

first positions have been passed only with difficulty.

The Germans, balked in their original intentions, are now seeking to pinch off Rheims, while their right wing is struggling to hold its meager gains on the table lands south of the Marne.

The enemy either must continue his apparently hopeless venture in the Champagne or must cease abruptly and begin immediately preparations for a drive elsewhere. This loss of time is affording the allies an advantage of which they are taking full measure.

Peace Chatter Drowned.

Washington, July 18.—Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister Burián's peace chatter was drowned out today by the roar of the big guns.

Officials paid no attention to it, considering it only more Teuton propaganda and said that it contained nothing of interest to America or her allies.

America is prepared to fight on for peace and is in no mood to harken to Teuton propaganda now, it was stated emphatically. Incidentally, British cables told of troubles between Turkey and Bulgaria, which are embarrassing the Central powers, and perhaps, in a measure explain the Austrian peace talk. The new Malinoy ministry in Bulgaria has failed to compose differences over Turkey, and there is growing suspicion of Turkey's aims in Europe.

RECAPTURE OF

ors were taken.

By Fred S. Ferguson.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) With the American Army in the Champagne, July 18.—(2:10 p. m.)—The Americans are advancing with the French on the 40 kilometer (25 miles) between Soissons and Chateau-Thierry.

The Americans had captured more than a dozen villages and towns, taken numerous prisoners and advanced more than three kilometers (nearly three miles) up to noon.

Up to the hour of ceasing, the Americans had captured the following towns west of Chateau-Thierry:

Viller-Heldou, Dammar, Courchamps, Licy-Clignon, Monthiers, Torcy, Belleau, Givray, St. Gengoulph, Hautesvenes and other small villages, farms, heights and woods, including Givray wood.

The advance reached a depth of three kilometers within three hours after it began. Many towns within that depth northward clear to Fontenay were taken by the Americans and the French.

The American commander at Givray, reporting the capture of the town to headquarters, sent the following message:

"Met boche on his line of resistance. Sharp fighting. Boche turned tail and ran like hell, pursued by our troops. Hope to have more prisoners."

At headquarters, messages were coming in from everywhere, asking permission to push on farther.

It was essential that the line should be kept straight and in some instances it was necessary to order the troops to hold back until adjoining units could come up.

It is the greatest pursuit of boches the Americans have yet engaged in. Enormous numbers of prisoners have been taken. It is impossible to estimate how many.

American airplanes, flying over the lines, fought the boches above, while the doughboys and machine gunners dashed through the clouds and others carried back messages.

The surprise not only was complete, but the concentration for the attack was unusually rapid. Field guns were loaded on trucks and these dashed up to the lines. The horses were carried up the same way.

Lines of trucks carrying six and eight horses apiece have been hurried up for the past 24 hours.

The German artillery resistance was feeble until 7 o'clock. Then their guns opened up, but the Americans had advanced too far for the enemy guns to stop them.

Torcy was captured in fifteen minutes. Belleau fell at 8:20 and Givray half an hour later.

The greatest force of Americans which have yet participated in a single engagement is advancing with the French in this offensive which was launched at 4:30 this morning.

Eight German cannons were captured by the French and Americans at Courchamps.

Latest reports say that the advance continues everywhere.

The towns named in the dispatch cover a front of more than seven miles. Belleau is five miles northwest of Chateau-Thierry. Torcy is half a mile west of Belleau. Licy-Clignon is a mile north of Torcy. Vinly is three miles west of Torcy. Hautesvenes is two miles north-west; Courchamps is a mile and a half north; and Givray is a mile east. Dammar is two miles and a half north and west of St. Gengoulph.

LATE WAR BULLETINS

Aisne-Marne front—French and American troops began an offensive this morning on the 35 mile front between the Marne and the Aisne. The Paris communique reported initial gains of from one to two miles. Semi-official dispatches said the allies were making "good progress." The attack is reported to have been made on a large scale.

Champagne front—The German effort now seems to be limited to taking Epernay on the south bank of the Marne, 14 miles south of Rheims—and to pinching off the Rheims salient. French war office reported "no change" on the entire battle front.

Picardy front—Australian troops advanced on a mile front east of Villers-Bretonneux last night. East of Hebuterne the British improved their positions.

Flanders front—German artillery active north of Bailloul during the night.

England—American wounded arriving from the French front were cheered by great crowds at the railway stations.

France—Trial of Louis Malvy, former minister of the interior, charged with treason in connection with the Bolo Pasha defeatist activities, began.
