THE HAYWARD-DICKSON MEETINGS

DOUGHNUTS WAKEN THOUGHTS OF HOME

By Frank J. Taylor. (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

With The American Army in France, June 16.—(By Mail.)—He was one of those quiet, likeable sort of chaps who says little and does a lot. He never talked enough about himself so that you could know him, yet you liked him and trusted him because you couldn't help it.

He used to come in from the trenches during the day and do anything he could do to be useful around the Salvation army but run by the McIntyre Sisters, of Mount Vernon, New York. He would stand watch at night and come back to help the girls in the daytime. They couldn't persuade him to sleep.

Other fellows came and worked and told their stories and got their words of cheer from the girls and went. But this chap was always on the job, ever working and never saying anything.

RESIST EVERY STEP

Attack which Germany was reported to be making against the British, the newspapers recounting daily successes, in order to counteract any loss of public morale through the reverses in this region.

The Franco-American artillery is rendering the most important assistance while the German artillery fire in some sectors is hardly noticeable.

It is reported that the Germans are concentrating their resistance near Soissons and Rheims, leaving only the shell of a defense protruding toward Chateau-Thierry.

KAISER WITNESSES DEFEAT

By William Philip Stimms (United Press staff correspondent) With the British Armies in France, July 24.—The Kaiser saw the German offensive falter before the Franco-American defense in the Champagne, then break up and fall back before the allied counter offensive, according to information received here today.

According to the reports, the Kaiser planned to see his Fritz well off on his trip to Paris. What he did see was the crown prince getting the worst licking he has received since Verdun—and more Americans than he ever wanted to believe were in France.

Latest reports from the Marne country show the British have reached all their objectives, taking 1044 prisoners including 18 officers.

GISH MURDER MYSTERY.

San Francisco, July 24.—Police declared today they know who were the companions of Private Willis O. Gish, of Camp Fremont, who was murdered here more than a week ago. Gish's body was found Monday floating in the bay. Detectives say they have established that Gish was strangled to unconsciousness in a water front hotel room before his hands were tied and he was dragged to the bay.

The American units noted last week as in the thick of the fighting still continue there. Asked as to specific location of the 28th (Pennsylvania) national guard division, March said they were at the commanding general's disposal and the position is not yet known here.

SUFFERED FOR FIFTEEN YEARS

Two Bottles of Tanlac Did More Good Than Treatment Costing $300.

Remarkable, indeed, was the statement made by Arthur Albro, a well known carpenter, living at 3003 Mead street, Seattle, Wash., recently. Mr. Albro declares that he has received more real, genuine benefits get rock- less and eat meats, pie and such things but I always paid dearly for it in suffering. Finally I just had to give up eating any supper at all, for when I did eat anything for supper I would suffer all night so I couldn't sleep. I was constipated all the time and also suffered for years with my back. When I stooped over my back would cramp me so bad that I could hardly straighten up. My kidneys were all out of order and disturbed me so often at night that I couldn't get any rest scarcely. I paid out nearly three hundred dollars for treatment and medicines of various kinds, but kept getting worse. I even tried dieting and almost starved myself out, and sometimes felt a little relief, but just as I said, whenever I ventured to eat a fairly good meal it would knock me completely out. I lost two solid months from my work last winter and it had begun to look like my condition was hopeless.

I had been keeping up with what the papers published about Tanlac, and while I had my doubts about it being as good as some said it was, I was in such a bad shape that I was willing to try anything. So I bought a bottle and found that it was just the very thing I needed. I have hardly finished my second bottle yet, but I have already been benefited so much that I will never doubt anything good I read or hear about Tanlac from now on. My appetite is fine and I can eat most anything I want without feeling the least bit uncomfortable afterwards. Why, just last night I ate a hearty supper and topped it off with a big piece of mince pie—something I have not ventured to eat for years—then went to bed and slept all night like a log. I'm not constipated, my kidneys don't bother me like they did, and so I get good rest every night. I have gained all of five pounds already and feel that I am still gaining, not only in weight, but also in strength and energy. I'm beginning to feel like a new man and consider myself lucky to be able to get such a medicine as Tanlac.

Tanlac is sold in Hubbard by Hubbard Drug Co. in Mt. Angel by Ben Good, in Gervais by John Kelly, in Turner by H. P. Cornelius, in Woodburn by Lyman H. Shorter, in Salem by Dr. S. C. Stone, in Silverton by Geo. A. Steadham, in Gates by Mrs. J. B. McCarty and in Stayton by C. A. Beauchamp. (Adv.)

GIrl Drives Ambulance

On the road to Epernay, lorries and ambulances of all the allies passed each other in continuous lines. One ambulance was driven by a young woman in dust covered khaki. Italian soldiers resting by the roadside waved to her and smiled brightly. Late I learned she is Miss Italia Garibaldi, attached to the remarkable Italian Alpini hospital. It is operated for all nationalities, including Americans.

Watching the Battle

I watched the progress of the battle from the heights of Montagne De Rheims this afternoon. In the beech and oak covered hills, directly below to the west, heavy forces of British troops were engaged. From the forests arose the crackle of machine gun fire, while the heavier note of artillery sounded more remote.

Both Artilleries at the time were engaged solely in bombarding the rear areas, as the fighting was mostly hand to hand and the canopy of trees prevented accurate observation from the
