Knit Wear

You Know Those Girls—

That look as though they had been born to wear a classy bathing suit—the girls that make a bathing beach look so attractive in the summer—WELL, those girls know something about buying bathing suits.

THEY don't walk into a store and buy the first 36 they are shown—THEY look at the fit of it, and the knit, and the wool, and the maker's name. They want a bathing suit that will be a joy to wear and to view—THEY WANT CLASS.

A JANTZEN Bathing Suit is the nicest thing that has ever been shown in the bathing suit line—it isn't the cheapest—but it is incomparably the most graceful.

And our Sport Sweaters and Vests, and our Novelty Hose and Caps—the things to do is to see them—“close up.”

Always look for the label, and get the genuine JANTZEN with the ribbed stitch.

Felix Frankfurter Has Expressed No Opinion

Washington, July 27.—Felix Frankfurter, secretary of the federal mediation commission, today dictated a telegram to Governor Stephens of California, branding as “wholly false” any statement that he had expressed belief of Thomas J. Mooney's guilt.

Answering the Pickert affidavit, Frankfurter pointed out that the president's commission never investigated the question of Mooney's guilt but only whether, in the light of later developments, Mooney had been given a fair trial.

“News associations here report filing of affidavit with you by District Attorney Pickert, which in effect attributes to me a statement indicating belief in Mooney's guilt and urging executive action in Mooney's behalf solely in order to placate radical opinions here and abroad.

“Any allegations made by anyone as to any expression of belief in Mooney's guilt is wholly false.

“I never, directly or indirectly, by implication or suggestion, expressed an opinion in regard to Mooney's guilt or innocence. On innumerable occasions, I said that I neither had an opinion nor was entitled to have an opinion on the merits as to Mooney's guilt or innocence.”

LONDON STRIKERS RETURN.

London, July 29.—Striking munitions workers in Coventry, the center of the present disturbance, decided at a mass meeting today to resume work immediately and accept the government's offer of mediation.

Our Greatest Food Conservator

In Mother's Magazine for August, Dr. Goudiss pays a remarkable tribute to gelatine.

He states that the use of gelatine in American homes has almost doubled in a year, and is now a million pounds a month.

A million pounds of gelatine makes about 200 million servings. Used as dessert it requires little sugar. Each million pounds of gelatine used to displace other sorts of desserts, will save about ten million pounds of sugar and some 2 1/2 millions pounds of flour.

To sweeten fresh fruit or to make preserved fruit requires from three to four times as much sugar as to make an equal quantity of gelatine dessert. Other forms of desserts require both sugar and flour.

But gelatine is also a great saver of left-overs. It makes cooked and fresh vegetables of all kinds into appetizing salads. It makes meat scraps into jellied meat loaves which everybody likes.

A leading gelatine expert now supplies this product ready-prepared in a most delightful form. The new type is called Jiffy-Jell. It comes ready sweetened, so one adds only boiling water to it.

The unique feature lies in the flavors. They are made from fresh, ripe fruit, then highly concentrated, then sealed in glass vials—a bottle in each package. The result is desserts with a wealth of fruit flavor, made quickly and at trifling cost. There are also lime-fruit and mint flavors for salads and meat loaves.

Baltimore, July 29.—There was little change in the condition of Senator Ollie James of Kentucky today. Recent reports of his condition from physicians at the John Hopkins hospital have not been encouraging.

AMERICANS ARE

The Germans had destroyed all the bridges across the Ourcq but the poilus and doughboys forded the shallow stream at several points in the face of a storm of bullets.

The allies also advanced their lines to the left and right of Fere-En-Tardenois, taking the village of Rocheres and Villers-Agron.

The French and Americans are proceeding cautiously and are determined to waste no men in the machine gun filled Bois De Ste Unire (northeast of Fere-En-Tardenois). But cavalry felt out the German positions there late yesterday. The boches are expected to put up a strong resistance in that wood as they are already doing in Ville-En-Tardenois, but the Franco-Americans may adopt the plan so successfully employed in the past of encircling the wood and cleaning out the nests afterward.

The advancing allies are finding their path strewn with remarkable numbers of enemy dead.

I sat on a hill yesterday afternoon and looked across the land which the Kaiser was permitted to enter, but not to remain in. Around the edge of a similar hill, three miles away, I saw thru my glasses the miniature houses of Fere-En-Tardenois, the prized highway and railway center where the French and Americans were engaged in ousting the Germans.

From somewhere beyond, the boches were pitching their big shells in a near barrage this side of Fere-En-Tardenois, Oulchy-Le-Chateau and Oulchy-Le-Ville. The air was filled with rumbling of the cannon and the clatter of machine guns, with which the Germans were being drummed out of their pocket.

From all parts of the rolling expanse flashes—as of a hand mirror in the sun—told where the 75s busily slammed away. High above the horizon shrapnel burst unceasingly, forming an effective barrier against Hun airplanes.

In this manner the French “duster proceedings” were being carried out, economizing on lives and teaching the Americans to do the same. The same purpose is partly responsible for the splendid use of small tanks during the past several days. Their value has been proved since the 15th in nearly every section. They have destroyed 25 machine gun nests allowing the infantry to come up and take the guns without loss. All tanks have made at least two expeditions daily, some as many as five and some being in action continuously for 30 hours.

CROWN PRINCE NOW

ed it. The first man across was a New Yorker.

The general withdrawal from the bottom of the pocket took place Friday night and Saturday. German artillery fire began to decrease in volume, apparently because of the movement of batteries to the north of the Ourcq.

The Americans captured thousands of rounds of machine gun ammunition and many very large and small calibre shells along the north and south road in Fere-En-Tardenois forest. Numerous machine guns also were taken but they have not yet been counted.

Wounded men returning from the fight are in the highest spirits. Most of their wounds are machine gun bullets in the arm or leg. All of them expressed regret at leaving the fight. They said that wherever the enemy lines broke the boches turned and ran in an effort to escape.

Prisoners include members of the Prussian guard, who were shot out of trees where they were operating machine guns.

American headquarters are kept jumping forward. Our general this evening was asked by an aide where his new headquarters was. The general replied:

“I'm sorry, but I don't know. I haven't had a chance to look.”

ates the Germans hope for a victory this summer has passed and that they are already being equipped for another winter campaign. Other letters tell of the violence of the American attack.

“When they fire, it is like hail. We think every hour is our last,” said one.

A letter received by a soldier from a relative in Madgeburg said:

“It is clear we are being trampled. If the end doesn't come soon some sort of an outbreak can be expected. I can't trust all my thoughts to a letter.”

The violence of our artillery fire is further illustrated by the capture of great numbers of smashed locomotives and other equipment the boches needed for their retirement. All railways and roads are under continual artillery fire and airplane bombing.
