CAMP MEETING GAINING INTEREST AND ATTENDANCE

Rev. Fred W. Suffield and Wife Are Drawing Large Congregations Daily

Rev. Fred W. Suffield and wife, Methodist evangelists, from Plattsburg, N. Y., are members of the evangelistic party who are conducting the camp meeting at 14th and A streets. The meeting is interdenominational, the object of which is the conversion of sinners, the reclamation of backsliders, and the bringing of the church into Christian holiness. People from all of the different churches in Salem are attending the meetings, as well as people from out of town, some coming as far as Scotts Mills and Portland. The meetings are increasing in attendance and interest and will continue throughout the week and over next Sabbath, there are three services each day, at 10 a. m., 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. The preaching services are preceded by a rousing song service at which the singing by the quartet, the evangelists and their wives, is a very special feature. A very cordial invitation is extended to all people to attend these services. Come and stay all day, it is a good place to spend your vacation.

MRS. FRED W. SUFFIELD

PRINGLE AUXILIARY.

The Pringle Auxiliary of the Red Cross have been busy of late sewing for the boys "over there." The three last meetings being held at the homes of Mrs. J. M. Coburn July 11, Mrs. C. H. Cannon July 18 and Mrs. Wm. Grabenhorst July 25. These were all day meetings and with an attendance of from ten to thirty members each time a good deal of work has been accomplished.

Fifty dollars were added to the Red Cross fund by the sales of cottage cheese and other country products at the Pringle booth at the Bridge opening.

Think Thompsin Is Hiding Near Hillsboro

Warden Murphy and the two guards who went to Gaston yesterday on a hunt for Bennett Thompsin, the murderer who escaped from the penitentiary Monday night of last week, returned today convinced that Thompsin is in hiding somewhere between Hillsboro and Seapoope.

Brisk Advance Was Followed By Reaction

New York, Aug. 6.—The Evening Sun financial review today said: The brisk advance in the last hour of yesterday's stock market session was followed today by a general easing of prices of a reaction to a point or so, with occasional part recovery. Trading was apathetic, although transactions were in materially larger volume than on Monday, when reckoned by shares.

BRITISH MAKE LIFE BURDEN TO BOCHE TROOPS IN FLANDERS

Abandonment Of Important Positions By Prince Rupprecht Significant

By William Philip Simms (United Press Staff Correspondent) With The British Armies In France, Aug. 6.—Crown Prince Rupprecht's abandonment of his line, especially the plateau west of the Avre from Montdidier to the confluence of the Luce, is very significant as the plateau gave observation of the entire valley of the Noye and the Amiens-Paris railway, threatening it.

There is gun fire in certain areas, particularly in the Giverny region, north of the La Bassée canal, where German artillery is active, probably a further retirement. Thousands of gas shells were thrown into St. Venant yesterday and the Ypres, Ploeg and Hinghe sectors, and the back areas were shelled.

PRIVATE O'ROURKE TELLS LIFE STORY

Private Michael O'Rourke, in telling the story of his life last evening at the armory proved the old saying that truth is a lot stranger than fiction. About four years ago he was a miner in Canada. Today he is among millions of soldiers perhaps one of the most evicted of men in his possession of the Victoria Cross, the Distinguished Conduct Medal and the Military Medal.

Private O'Rourke is the fighting Irishman and there is no mistake about it after he has told some of his experiences with the Hunns. In expressing his opinion of fighting, he doesn't see much good in the ordinary rifle and bayonet. What he feels is necessary is the Lewis machine gun.

"You must have machine guns," declared Mike, "as we do not fight with bayonets. The main thing is the machine gun." O'Rourke should know as he was 32 months in the trenches and at Ypres during the worst of the fighting. "You must have the machine gun down pat. You must practice with it."

"We Canadians did not know anything about dugouts as we were just living in a trench. But we went over and saw what the Germans had in nicely furnished dugouts so we just kept them."

"It doesn't require a hell of a lot of brains to be a stretcher bearer, but you must be steady." O'Rourke should know as he was awarded one of his military decorations for his bravery as a stretcher bearer when he would much rather have been fighting.

At one time Mike had captured 16 Germans but one of them tried to bomb him after they had surrendered. Mike just waited until they filed into a trench and then tossed in three bombs to get even with the treacherous Hunns. He didn't take the trouble to count the dead as he was sure he got them all.

Highway Commission Spends Over $2,000,000

Since the first of last year the state highway department has received $3,433,127.56 and has expended $2,066,057.90, leaving a balance on hand on July 31 of $1,377,069.66, according to a financial statement prepared by the department for submission at the meeting of the highway commission being held in Portland today.

PEACE DRIVE NEXT ON HUN PROGRAM IS GENERAL BELIEF

Germans Will Endeavor To Hold Defensive Line While Making Offers

By Robert J. Bender (United Press Staff Correspondent) Washington, Aug. 6.—Beaten back to the Veste river and presenting a shaken front at numerous other points on the great west front line, Germany, in the opinion of officials here, must soon make some reckoning to her people.

It is believed here that she will attempt to dig in soon and set up a bitter defensive front or attempt a new offensive at some other point in the line after she has had an opportunity to reorganize her forces, and simultaneously launch the first of a series of progressively attractive peace maneuvers.

That she is in no condition to start a successful offensive action anywhere, is the conviction here. The British are stronger than in many months. The Americans and French are demonstrating their increasing effectiveness.

Hence, it would appear that Germany's best play would be to settle down to defensive warfare and try to gain peace before the great "battle of the allies"—the action to be launched later to gain a decisive victory.

Strong pressure is being brought by some of the allies for a determined drive on Austria, in the belief that once the armies of freedom got under way, there would be widespread revolt in the dual monarchy. Turkey and Bulgaria have long since ceased to be an important military figure. Already the signs are hopeful in Russia. The Siberian government has declared it will soon reconstruct the Russian army and

TRAPSHOOTERS AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Despite great heat and a strong lake breeze, which made freakish targets, trapshooters counted on good scores here today in events leading up to the big events of the Grand American handicap later in the week. Monday Homer Clark of Altoon, Ill., won the national professional championship at single targets with 194 breaks out of 200.

In the shoot-off he won from R. W. Barber, Minneapolis, 20 to 18.
