Nighties are now the proper sleeping garments for the boys at the Oregon state training school, according to recommendations made by the superintendent yesterday. It seems that it was figured that the boy would not be so inclined to run away at night if all his clothes were locked up in the locker and he had nothing but his ghostly night shirt to run away in.

The slight precipitation today noon in Salem breaks a dry spell dating since July 26 when there was .02 of an inch of rain fell. But for a genuine dry summer even the oldest inhabitant cannot remember when there was so little rainfall as there has been during the past three months and when the river was at so low a stage as it is today, one foot and 11 inches below the low water mark.

The Rev. R. S. Gill is home for a day from Portland. He is now in the aviation service and will probably be sent into the spruce section of the state after the usual preliminary training. He remarked that in the few weeks he had been taking military training that he has put on several pounds, feels the best he ever did in his life and that he can almost feel the muscles of his arms and chest grow from day to day. His preliminary training includes four hours of actual drill each day, part of the time with an army rifle.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE WANTS OVER MILLION

Seven Hundred and Thirty Thousand Asked for Salaries Roll Alone.

The sum of $1,103,650 will be needed to run the Oregon Agricultural college during the next two years, according to estimates contained in the budget filed today with the state tax commission. As the total income of the college for the next two years is estimated to be $898,200, the estimated expenditures will exceed the income by $205,450, which amount will have to be appropriated by the legislature, if it is provided at all.

The big increase in the amount needed to run the college is due to the work put onto the college by the war department and the general increase in the cost of fuel and other items of maintenance. Salaries have been increased about 10 per cent and another increase of five per cent is proposed.

It is estimated that $730,000 will be needed for salaries, $250,650 for general maintenance, $8000 for improvements, $50,000 for betterments and repairs, $50,000 for contingencies, making the total of $1,103,650. The total income of the college for the two years is given as $898,200.

The state tax commission will meet tomorrow to consider this and the budgets for all the other state institutions and departments for the purpose of arriving at the sum which should be raised through an initiative bill to meet the state's requirements.

Budgets for the state institutions were discussed at a preliminary meeting of the state board of control Tuesday afternoon, but it was decided not to go into detail with any of them until the tax commission has prepared a statement showing the total demands from all sources.

When the question of allowing $100,000 for a new cell house at the state prison was broached, State Treasurer Kay said that involved the adoption of a new prison policy and he did not care to pass on it.

Secretary of State Olcott said he would not support appropriations for new buildings unless they were absolutely necessary. He pointed to the request for a new building for the eastern Oregon state hospital and said it would be unnecessary at this time when the new north wing at the Oregon state hospital and the new ward for tuberculosis patients are furnished so that can be occupied and the basement at the eastern-Oregon hospital is fitted up for use. The other two members of the board agreed with him.

Warden Murphy of the penitentiary said if the appropriation of $100,000 for a new cell house is allowed him he will use the new building for the worst criminals and will turn the present cell house into a dormitory, removing the cells, and permitting the better class of criminals to occupy the rooms on the dormitory plan.

final payment, there is to be added the 75 cents accrued interest. This will be returned and included in the first interest payment on the bond, due Sept. 15. All payments are to be made to the bank where other payments were made. It has been suggested that the payment be made early in the day as there will be the usual rush of those who have put off the payment until the last hour.

The music department of Willamette university will be represented the coming school year by Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Fisher, who succeed Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Chace. Mr. Fisher is a graduate of the Leeds Conservatory of Music in England and also of a London conservatory of music. He has studied in Leipzig, Germany, and took his Musical Doctorate at the University of Toronto Canada. He taught in England at Harrogate college, at the Hollins Institute in Virginia and at Charlotte college North Carolina, and also at the Iowa State university. His specialty is organ and piano. Mrs. Fisher will teach violin and voice.

Everything is coming fine for the prune crop this year and the man with a tract in the low lands is saying his thing. There is no general dropping, according to reports, while in a few orchards limbs are breaking on account of the weight of the fruit. Orchards close in to Salem will show a yield of double that of last year, and the higher prices will fully balance the extra expense of harvesting and labor. The low land man is lucky this year as his crop will run into the larger sizes than usual.

WILLAMETTE CHAPTER RED CROSS WISHES all members to feel that the knitting of socks for the soldiers has not stopped, although for the present there will be no more yarn given out by the chapter as its quota has already been exhausted. The recent order means that for a short time the need of wool for the manufacture of clothing for the soldiers is so great that auxiliaries will be restricted in the amounts they receive, or be entirely cut off until the government gets the necessary amount of wool. The knitting of socks comes next to the needs of the government. Hence the chapter wishes all auxiliaries to understand that the knitting of socks has been discontinued only temporarily and that those who have yarn should continue with their knitting.

Miss Alice May Roberts has been selected as a member of the faculty of Willamette university for the coming year, as Dean of Women. She is a graduate of the Iowa Wesleyan college, a post graduate of Columbia University and has taught in a high school in Iowa in the Iowa Wesleyan college and in the Gooding college at Gooding, Idaho.

People who own 1 per cent Liberty bonds seem to be slow in converting them into 4 1/2 Liberty bonds, said banker today. They have this privilege provided the 4 per cent bonds are taken to the banks before November 9. After that date, the bonds cannot be converted. Hence it is up to those who own part of the first issue and the second issue now drawing 4 per cent to attend to the matter provided they are to receive bonds bearing 4 1/2 per cent interest.

Tomorrow is the last day in which to make the final payment on the third Liberty loan bonds. The payment is 40 per cent of the bond, plus the amount of accrued interest. Thus, if one is making the $20 payment on a $50 bond, 20 cents should be added for the accrued interest, and on a $100 bond, to the $40

Sugar cards are now being printed and within a few days the good housekeeper will have their card in the care of the grocer with which she deals and a record of how many there is in the family and also the amount of sugar on hand at this time. The government requires that all householders return an amount of canning sugar on hand not used for canning by the close of the season. It is two pounds for each person for household use per month and with the card system it is not so easy for the person who is inclined to not play fair to get the sugar. It was because so many were not playing fair with the government on the two pounds a month restriction, that it was found advisable by the food administration to put in the card system. In England there is a limit of 2 pounds per month, in France 1 1/2 pounds and in Italy, one pound.

That he had one time to carry his son from the field into the house and that his son could not manage a farm of his own as the work is too hard. That the son is now employed by his aunt and that he works when he feels like it. The father also states in his affidavit that he is satisfied there would have been no trouble between the son and wife had it not been for her relatives.
