FRUITLAND ITEMS
(Capital Journal Special Service)
Fruitland, Aug. 30.--M. Brubaker of the Bethel district has moved into the Eastport property. He has rented the house and pasture but not the plow land.
Fred Gerig, one of our German boys, has heeded the call to arms. This makes six Fruitland boys who have lined up for your Uncle Sam.
Your correspondent and daughter, Mrs. Esther Woods, of Portland attended services last Saturday at the Seventh Day Adventist church in north Salem. Elder Bozart, a returned missionary from the Central American states and the West Indies, occupied the forenoon hour. He related interesting experiences of his seven years labors in these localities. Many churches have been raised up, one of 500 members, another of 200, others of a less membership. He stated the population is mixed as to color and nationality. Negroes, Indians, mestizos and whites. In religion there are Mohammedans and Buddhists, along with protestant and Catholic.
M. J. Gerik and family family have returned from Netarts where they went to enjoy the sea breezes and to drink the beverage of Neptune. They also secured a quantity of clams. One night by lantern light when the tide was out they secured quite a supply. This marine ancestor of oysters is some what of an "it" according to M. J.'s account. It has a head and neck correspondingly as long as a dromedary's. These it thrusts out on being disturbed in rather a threatening manner. It also has a tail like that of an ancestor further up the line--the monkey. This it uses in coiling around a limb of a tree as does cousin monkey, but making a hook of it at the end anchors himself to his ancestral sandy home and holds on for dear life till wrenched away by sheer force. Now this is quite true and accounts for that beautiful human sentiment--'There's no place like home'.

A petition was circulated here last week for pardon and release from the state prison of one of the inmates. This was hardly necessary as recent events at the "pen" indicate that the poor abused convict needs only watch his chance and he can separate himself from his confinement without the aid of a petition.
H. C. Bressler came down from Oregon City and spent Saturday and Sunday at home. He is employed at the Willamette pulp and paper company. He states he likes the work in which he is engaged.
Relatives of Big Andrew Monson, whose sister, Mrs. Bert Bressler, resides here, have received word that he has arrived safely in France. He is now one of Uncle Sam's heroes. Now you Huns hunt your holes.
J. W. Silsbee and Mrs. Silsbee of Mountain View, Cal., 60 miles south of San Francisco, visited relatives here week. They attended the national G. A. (brother-in-law) to this writer (this week). They attended the national G. A. R. encampment at Portland. He was a member of the 27th Wisconsin infantry in the Civil war and was at the battle of Mobile Bay and Fort Blakely in 1864. He was in General Canby's division and in 1893 the general was assassinated by hostile Modoc Indians under the notorious Captain Jack. This took place in the famous "lava lands" in northern California. One or two other white men were also killed at this

Wants To Build Home But Would Need Airship In Order To Reach It

The Home Service Section of the Red Cross in Salem receives letters from hundreds of subjects of importance to the Red Cross work but a few days ago a request came for its services in an entirely different line.
Headquarters in Seattle wrote that a certain Captain Williams expected to soon leave for overseas service and that before going over, he would like to build a home for his wife on some land owned in this county and the office thought the Home Service Section here could give some good advice and material help.
The land in question is the northwest quarter of section 5, T. 8 range 2 east and is about three miles from the post-office of Hull on the road between Silverton and Silver Falls, according to the Captain's description.
The captain is willing to pay for the lumber and labor and thought that as a means of putting money in the local Red Cross auxiliary if there was one, that the men of that locality would be glad to donate their work and let their wages go into the treasury of the local Red Cross organization.
The land the captain owns is about three and one-half miles directly east of the postoffice of Hull and the going would be directly across one mountain top after another. There is no road in this section 5. The land was formerly a section of the Oregon and California land grant and was taken from the railroad some time ago. Recently it has been opened for filing. Located as it is, it would be a pretty serious problem to reach the farm and it could not have much timber value as the government has cruised throughout that section and filings are not permitted on valuable timber tracts.
Miss Mess yeh. Mr. Stossmeister wants to know where the candy is or he wants a settlement from the express company. He has written to the public service commission about the matter "inasmuch as it is nearly Christmas time again." He says he has made repeated efforts to obtain an adjustment with the company.
Nothing was definitely decided yesterday at the conference between Chancellor Elliott of Montana, representing the educational committee of the war department of the northwest and

It Was a Hot Day But 1912 Beat It

This is one of the hottest days of the summer. It is. The government's official thermometer, resting in a well shaded spot in the shade registered 95 at 3 o'clock this afternoon.
This however does not break any records for Salem as there have been other days and according to the official records they are as follows, showing the hottest day of each year for the past ten years:
1909--August 28, 91
1910--July 10, 95
1911--July 16, 95
1912--July 16, 99
1913--July 18, 94
1914--July 18, 90
1915--July 1, 94
1916--August 24, 93
1917--July 15, 91
1918--August 30, 95

Dr. Doney as to what will be done regarding barracks for the students at my training corps of the university. Either the summer hall of the university will be used or barracks will be erected on the campus.
The weather man gave Salem and vicinity a slight touch of summer weather yesterday with a maximum of 95 and a low night temperature of 49 above. The river is gradually falling and at its present rate of fall will soon reach a low water record.

The Bootery of Salem will within a few days open a branch shoe and gift furnishing store at Toledo. Dr. G. Newkirk who has been associated with the store will act as manager of the new store.
Prof. M. D. Butler, wife and daughter Barbara of Corvallis are in the city guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Harbert. Mr. Butler is government inspector for war gardens for Oregon, Washington and Idaho.
