WORST IS OVER SAY'S BRITISH PREMIER IN ADDRESS TODAY

David Lloyd-George Sees All Signs Pointing Toward Early Allied Victory

Manchester, England, Sept. 12.—“The worst is over,” Premier Lloyd-George declared today, in receiving the freedom of the city.

“The news is now distinctly good—really good,” he said. “The tunnel is long and there are some steep gradients, still to be climbed, but it is getting shorter. The worst is over.”

“The casualties in the latest advance were less than one fifth of the total suffered in the advance of 1916. The main difference between 1916 and 1918 is the unity of command.”

“The advent of the Americans additionally depressed the Germans. There is no finer feat in the history of English industry than the transportation of the Americans across the Atlantic. The Germans did not expect more than two divisions. That was another miscalculation. Hundreds of thousands of Americans are there now and the Germans know it. They are the advance guard of at least 10,000,000 of the finest material in the world.”

“When we suffered our reverse in March 21 we still had large reserves, some of which the German did not know. I have already expressed gratitude to those who criticized the government, charging we had no reserves, as it was so successfully misleading to the Germans.”

“We were extremely fortunate in securing the services of Foch as supreme commander. He is especially fitted for the exceptional conditions of this war where battles are fought on a 300 mile front.”

“Only national heart failure will prevent real victory. We must impose a durable peace to end all wars. Prussian militarism must not only be beaten, but the German people must know their rulers outraged the laws of humanity and that Prussian strength cannot protect them from punishment.”

“This must be the last war. Don't be misled that a league of nations itself would secure the world against catastrophe. A league with Prussian power triumphant would be a league of a fox and geese—one fox and many geese, and the latter would greatly diminish in numbers.”

“I am for a league. In fact, its begun. The British empire is a league of free nations. The allies are fighting the battle of international right and a league of free nations. If after the war, Germany repudiates her perfidy and the perfidy of her rulers, then Germany will be freed from militarism and will be welcome to the great league, but only on the sure foundation of allied victory.”

“Peace must be the kind of a peace commending itself to common sense and the conscience of the nations as a whole. It must not be dictated by extremists on either side. We cannot allow the bolsheviks to force us to a peace so humiliating that it would dishonor the national flag and make reputation of the British empire.”

“When a satisfactory peace is secured then we can proceed with a clear conscience to build up a new world. The war's first lesson was the immense importance of maintaining the solidarity of the British empire.”

MUNITION WORKERS WILL RETURN TO JOB

President Wilson Issues Appeal And Men Will Follow His Wishes.

Washington, Sept. 12.—President Wilson late today finished an appeal to striking Bridgeport munition workers to return to work and leave their grievances in the hands of the war labor board for settlement. It is expected the appeal will be made public tonight. The appeal will place squarely before the strikers the challenge to put the nation's good before their personal interests.

Co-Chairman Taft and Frank P. Walsh, Labor Secretary Wilson and Assistant Secretary Crowell collaborated in composing the appeal.

Representatives of the strikers, by long distance telephone today, assured President Johnston of the International Machinists union, that they would return to work at the request of the president. Otherwise, employers would refuse to take them back except by rehiring them as individuals.
