The work to which we have been assigned is that of doing our part in selling the Fourth issue of the Liberty Loan Bonds.

Recognizing that the success of the Third Liberty Loan was due to the excellent selling organization and the personnel thereof, the government has urged that no change be made in the same in the 4th loan drive. Therefore,

SOCIETY
By OLEVIA KEESEY

NUMBER of neighbors and friends of J. E. Evans delightfully surprised him on Thursday evening, when they gathered at his home to celebrate the 70th anniversary of his birth. During the evening old-fashioned games were played on the lawn and the spirit of frivolity prevailed among the old as well as the young folk. Mr. Evans played several selections upon an old fife which was a relic of his family. Music was enjoyed during the evening, after which light refreshments were served. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. William May, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Welch, Mr. and Mrs. W. Billings, Mr. and Mrs. William O'Neill, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Hewlett, Misses Ruth Gibson, Hazel Burdick, Ora Welch, Geo. Wilson and Virginia Billings.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Webb of 373 Bellevue street delightfully entertained Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buck and daughter, Doris, and Hugh Elliott of Portland over the week end.

Miss Nellie Parmenter of Portland arrived in Salem to spend a few days at the home of Mrs. Ida Babcock, of 749 North Commercial street.

Mrs. Henry S. Belle has returned to her home in Salem, after a few weeks visit at the home of her brother, in Walla Walla, Washington. She was accompanied by her grand daughter, Thelma, who stopped off at Portland to spend a few days with friends.

Miss Gladys Carson will leave this week for Elkins, Polk county, where she will resume her position as superintendent of the rural training station, in connection with the Oregon Normal school.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Brown were entertained with a picnic party at the Illabeu country club, in honor of Mrs. Ross B. Matthews of Auburn, Illinois, who is spending the summer with relatives in Salem. The occasion was the celebration of the anniversary of Mrs. Matthews' birthday. Covers were placed for fourteen guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Laban Steeves after having spent the week end at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Steeves, have returned to their home in Portland.

At the country home of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Rupert of Morning Side, on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, was the scene of an early fall wedding, when Miss Mabel Elizabeth Rupert became the bride of Francis George Tate of Stayton. Rev. Leland M. Porter of the First Christian church performed the impressive ring ceremony, in the presence of the immediate families. Miss Beattie Gile sang "I Love You Truly."

The rooms were beautifully decorated with late fall flowers, and a dainty color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations. After the ceremony the wedding party and friends were guests at a delightful wedding breakfast.

The bride was attractive in a dark navy blue tailored bradcloth suit with a becoming hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Tate left immediately after the ceremony on a wedding trip to southern Oregon, and will spend their honeymoon at Crater Lake National park and other places of interest in the southern part of the state. They will return the latter part of the month, and Mr. Tate will leave immediately for Corvallis for the purpose of taking special military training at the Oregon Agricultural college. Mrs. Tate will remain with her parents until the close of the war, and will be an instructor in the Yew Park school, Mrs.

tions of explosives used.

In view of the Austrian peace proposal, the temper of the boche in this region is extremely interesting. Villagers within the salient say that as the enemy moved out the soldiers declared they did not know exactly where they were going, but were "headed for home, which is all that matters."

The extremities of the new line paralleling Hindenburg's are experiencing the bulk of the present activity. To the left of the Moselle, the boche attempted a raid Saturday night, as a result of which the Americans took six prisoners. Late yesterday afternoon, the enemy made a counter attack in the same region.

Cut Them to Pieces.
They were seen mashing for the effort. The American artillery opened upon them. They were cut to pieces before they could start.

The boche is doing considerable work in the rear of the Hindenburg line.

The operations in the past 24 hours, though small, have resulted in additional prisoners and material. While there is a comparative lull on the ground, aside from artillery fighting, the battle in the air is becoming constantly more bitter. The boche airmen are being reinforced and are becoming more daring. Although some have succeeded in crossing the allied line not an enemy plane has been able to proceed more than five kilometers (about three miles) behind the line.

A great number of German machines were brought down in aerial battles yesterday. The enemy's observation balloons also are being constantly attacked and many have been destroyed.

British, Italian and American bombing planes are busy in the rear areas night and day.

Premier Clemenceau visited American headquarters yesterday and congratulated the staff.

In spite of the fact the enemy burned large stores, examination of the battlefield shows that great quantities of ammunition, telegraph and railroad material, rolling stock, clothing and equipment, and abandoned bridges in the reconquered territory are uninjured. Airplane reconnaissance patrols report that the Hindenburg line appears to be in poor condition.

Germany Some Runners Writes Sergeant Headrick

The Germans are some runners when the Americans once get after them according to a letter written by Sergeant Tyler Headrick to his mother, Mrs. Jennie Headrick Woolery.

In a letter written August 2, he writes of the ruined villages and how the infantry has kept the Boches on the run. But later, he takes time to tell of some real fighting he had been in. He writes in part:

"We are just back from the front for a short rest as we certainly had a hot time of it in the last battle. Talk about work. We sure had to put our shoulders to the wheel, but we won't.

I'LL TAKE POSTUM!

Delightful aroma and taste, and freedom from discomforts that go with coffee.

Nourishing healthful, economical.

No WASTE at all — an important item these days. Give INSTANT POSTUM a trial.

We saw sleepless nights for about a week. But we put the Boches on the run and kept them running and as soon as our relief came they kept the Huns running and I guess they are still running yet.

"We will soon be ready to go at them again. I am going to stay until the finishing touches are given. We sure the real stuff this time. The morning of the big battle was a great sight to witness with all our guns and infantry going together. When the first shot was fired, our boys were going over the top. Soon we saw them coming in with German prisoners and all sorts of stuff. The prisoners were glad they were captured as they were all tired out of war and said they were forced to fight. They did not want to fight the United States troops. The Kaiser told them there were only a few Americans in France.

"The French are all farming right up to the line trenches. I have seen some wonderful fields of wheat and there will be enormous crop, this year.
