GENERAL STEINER SAYS $400,000 MORE REQUIRED FOR QUOTA

Those Not Called On Urged To Go To Banks With Their Subscriptions.

General Steiner, in charge of the fourth liberty loan campaign sends out the following.

"Do not wait until the soliciting committees have called on you for a pledge. If you have been overlooked, or if the committee has not called, go to one of the Salem banks or to the Commercial Club and give in your pledge. It is the patriotic duty of every one to do this."

At a meeting held this morning of the executive board for the fourth liberty loan, it was decided that something radical must be done if Salem is to secure its quota. During the last few days pledges have been coming in small amounts but not enough to bring Salem even up to 60 per cent of its quota.

It is felt that some districts have not been thoroughly canvassed and that within a few days the territory must be covered again. To assist the solicitors, it is hoped that many who have been overlooked will apply to the banks for their pledges. These will be reported to the executive committee and credit given on the loyalty cards that are now being made, showing just exactly what every person in the city has done in patriotic lines.

The subscriptions coming in today do not materially change the amount raised. With the quota of $1,000,000 for Salem and vicinity, there is yet more than $400,000 to be pledged.

Mrs. Fred G. Schilke, president of the Oregon Mothers and Teachers' Association and state chairman of Child's Welfare committee of the Council of Defense and Mrs. Fred J. Meidl, chairman of the state fair committee of the Oregon Mothers and Teachers' Association are here. They have a department in the educational building at the fair grounds and are prepared to weigh and measure babies according to the government standard. They will also distribute literature. They also have a play room with a couple of nurses in attendance in order that the mother may enjoy the fair, leaving their small children in care of the nurses. There is no charge for weighing the baby's or taking care of the small children.

The big question to many young men who are more than 18 years of age and wish to continue their studies is, what does the student army training corps stand for. To answer inquiries Prof. W. H. Cornish has opened a booth of information and will be glad to answer questions from the O. A. C. standpoint.

Things are progressing favorably for the official meeting in Wednesday night of the Oregon National Guard company of Salem. Already 86 have signed up for service and with the election of officers coming on Wednesday evening and the mustering in, it is felt by those interested that the required number will be enlisted at the Wednesday night meeting. Several candidates have announced for captain but it is probable that by tomorrow evening the list will narrow down to three or four.

The following letter was received by Mrs. M. E. Brooks who has sent several boxes of fruit to Camp Lewis: "We have received the fruit you sent us and have distributed it to the boys of the First Infantry. We wish to thank you for sending this fine fruit. Young Men's Christian Association."

The U. S. employment bureau on State street will be closed November 1 by the government. The office was established to care for the labor conditions in the valley during the fruit season.

At the Oregon Electric passenger depot it is announced that the change in time card will not be effective until October 6. Until that date, the first Sunday in October, trains will run on the same time as in the past.

The first fall classes will be commenced at the Capital Business college on Monday, Sept. 30th. The principal is expecting this to be the banner day in the history of the school as to number of enrollments. The demand for bookkeepers and stenographers far exceeds the supply and scores of young ladies in this community will prepare this winter to hold some of these excellent places. All who can do so are requested to register on Saturday to avoid confusion on Monday.

In the assault and battery case of the State against Howard, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty yesterday in the circuit court. The case grew out of an alleged assault by Howard on his neighbor Ernest Todd during a campaign for War Savings Stamps. The case was tried before Judge Webster and Howard found guilty. He appealed to the circuit court.

The height of the canning season is now according to C. N. Lockwood, county food administrator, the job of issuing sugar permits for those who need for canning purposes. Last week 1049 permits were issued, and an average of 175 a day. Each permit requires considerable writing and more or less conversation. Hence Mr. Lockwood is a busy man.

The War Industries board has issued an order that no building permits shall be issued for structures to cost more than $2500, without first taking up the matter with the War Industries board. Notice of this action by the board was received this morning at the Commercial club.

John Steve Saban has renounced all allegiance to Charles, Emperor of Austria and Apostolic King of Hungary. Mr. Saban arrived in New York City in 1910. He is 23 years old and a few days ago decided to become an American citizen, filing his declaration of intentions September 18, 1918.

Harry F. Caldwell was ordered into the limited services with instructions to report at Vancouver, was re-examined at that place and inducted into the regular service. Before his re-examination, he had been ordered to Salem to assist in the office of the local exemption board.

Last night was the coldest in this section of the valley since May 20 when the mercury dropped to 40 above. At 8 o'clock this morning the mercury had only risen to 44 above. The maximum temperature for yesterday broke the record for the low temperature for September with only 62 above.

At the Fourth Liberty Loan booth at the state fair grounds may be seen a collection of war relics, collected by Robert M. Byrne who is at the grounds in the interest of the Fourth loan. These souvenirs include bayonets, bugles, German rifles, helmets and all such trophies that are collected on the battle fields of Europe. The German rifle has three notches on it, indicating pretty well what the Hun had been doing before he got his.

Dr. Mendelsohn's office will be closed all day tomorrow on account of Salem day at state fair.

C. S. Hamilton, director of the Business Men's League of the Commercial club announces his assistant directors for the coming year as follows: O. A. Hartman, Walter A. Denton, E. A. Chantre and J. W. Jones. All matters pertaining to the business interests of the city and of members of the Business Men's League will come before this board of directors.

King Bing of the Cherrians, Hal D. Patton, has issued an order that all Cherrians are to appear tomorrow in full uniform. There will be no special orders sent out as to when or where the Cherrians appear. They are just to put on their white uniforms with trimmings and make themselves useful for Wednesday is Salem day.

A battalion inspection will be held of the Oregon Guard next Monday evening at the armory by Lieutenant Colonel Woolpert. This will include the three companies of Salem, company E, A. R. Wilson captain; company F, J. H. Arnold, captain; company G, W. C. Dyer, captain and separate company C, R. W. Simeral, captain. Orders have been issued for an inspection of the Stayton company at its own armory by the captain, Lawrence S. Lambert, of the Silverton company by its captain, Ernest M. Smith and of the Independence company, inspections to be made by the company captains.

Leroy D. Leedy, confidential secretary to Clyde B. Aitchison, interstate commerce commissioner, died Sunday at his home in Washington, D. C. according to word received in the city yesterday. His death was due to pneumonia, following a brief illness. He was survived by a widow and a daughter. Mr. Leedy was formerly official reporter for the Oregon Public Service commission, afterward becoming assistant secretary. While employed in these duties in Salem, he attended the law school of Willamette University.

HABEAS CORPUS WRIT IS DENIED WESSENS

Supreme Court Holds Accused May Be Imprisoned Pending Charges

Judge of the circuit court may commit a person charged with crime to jail without violating the provision of the constitution to the effect that no person shall be charged in any circuit court with the commission of any crime except upon indictment found by a grand jury.

This is the ruling of the supreme court in an opinion handed down today in connection with the habeas corpus proceedings instituted by Jack Wesens, who is one of several persons arrested in Astoria recently on a charge of conducting gambling games. Wesens is in jail. He applied for a writ of habeas corpus, which was granted and to which the sheriff made a return, showing that he was holding Wesens on a commitment issued by Circuit Judge Eakin. The sufficiency of this writ was attacked by attorneys for Wesens.

Justice Burnett points out that the constitutional provision cited has no reference to such a complaint as may be made before a magistrate with a view of holding the accused to answer at a subsequent term of the circuit court.

"It is not necessary under our statute that the accusation before a magistrate be reduced to writing," says the court's opinion. "It is lawful, also, for such an officer to hold the defendant to answer for whatever crime the evidence taken before him disclosed, whether it be an offense named in the written or oral charge or not. words, having before him an individual charged with a crime, either orally or otherwise, the magistrate may hold him to answer for whatever offense is established by the evidence, and we apprehend that he has a right to consider the real substance of the charge without reference to whether it was adorned with the title of any court or not. The same principle applies to the commitment itself."

In an opinion written by Chief Justice McBride, the decision of Circuit Judge Morrow of Multnomah county in denying a writ of mandamus to Charles E. Christensen, who sought to compel Mayor Baker of Portland to reinstate him as head of the public employment bureau, is affirmed.

Christensen contended that he was legislated out of office by the Portland city council. The court holds that he failed to protect his rights by not taking an appeal to the civil service board when he was discharged, inasmuch as he failed to appeal his removal was final.

Other opinions were handed down as follows:
C. A. McCargar, et al. vs. Illinois Surety company, et al., appellants; appeal from Multnomah; motion to recall mandate in suit involving attachment allowed; opinion by Justice Burnett.
B. M. Lombard vs. E. W. A. Peake and Harriet E. Good, appellants; appeal from Multnomah; supplemental opinion calling attention to fact that appeal had been dismissed as to appellant Peake, which was overlooked in original opinion; opinion by Chief Justice McBride.

R. G. Jabitz et al. vs. George Gross et al., appellants, and Hibernia Savings Bank vs. George Gross et al., appellants; appeal from Multnomah; suits to foreclose mortgages; opinion by Chief Justice McBride; motion to dismiss appeal allowed.

Basilio Franconi, et al. vs. W. W. Graham et al., appellants; appeal from Multnomah; suit to collect money for services rendered; opinion by Justice Benson; Circuit Judge Morrow affirmed.

L. Hiner et al., appellants, vs. Solon Schiffman et al.; appeal from Tillamook; suit to enforce lien upon dock key engine for labor in repairing; opinion by Justice Burnett; Circuit Judge Bagley reversed.
