celebration of Salem day at the Oregon state fair.

But Salem did not do it alone. The fine weather has brought in big crowds from far and near throughout the Willamette valley, and the result is that the fair grounds are densely thronged today.

And it is a good day to be at the fair because a tip-top racing program is being held on a track that is at its best.

Besides the races many good features are on the program for today, and tonight the Oregon Pure Bred Livestock association will hold its annual meeting at the fair grounds, with W. A. McKerron of St. Paul, Minn., and C. C. Chapman of Portland as the speakers.

In the educational pavilion, Mrs. Wm. MacMasters, head of the Northwest Y. W. C. A. war council, will give an address tonight at 8 o'clock, and in connection with the usual band concert will be a vocal solo by Anna Maxwell Powell, and a violin ensemble composed of students of Miss Elizabeth Levy of Salem.

Judging of the livestock will be practically completed today. It was on full swing yesterday, with interest centering particularly in the dairy herds.

Some Prize Winners The grand championship ribbon for the best Jersey cow at the fair went to "Noble Countess of Oaklands," owned by G. H. Dammeier of Gresham. She is a daughter of the $15,000 bull J. B. Hagan imported from the Island of Jersey. Her record is 672 pounds of butter fat in one year.

Her closest competitor was a young heifer, not yet a year old, owned by Frank Laughry of Monmouth. The little heifer is a beauty, but what her milk production is of course problematical.

"Mermaid of Tierra Alton," owned by Congdon & Battles of Yakima, Wn., was awarded the grand championship as the best bull of the Aberdeen Angus breed. "Village Excelsior," owned by the Washington State college at Pullman, is the senior grand champion Short-horn bull.

Between Lane and Linn In the agricultural pavilion Lane and Linn counties seem to be the principal rivals for first prize for the best county exhibit. But other counties have fine exhibits and one of them may be picked as the winner. Union county is well represented, as in addition to its exhibit of products showing the resources of the county it has an intensely interesting exhibit of souvenirs from Chateau Thierry and other battle fields.

These souvenirs were gathered by members of the field hospital corps which was recruited in Union county and was sent over to France with the Rainbow division, being one of the first field hospital units to go over. The exhibit is in charge of Mrs. C. N. Palmer, whose son is in the corps. One of the German gas masks and a German helmet with a bullet hole through it, showing where the Hun "got his," was sent by her son. The hospital unit has been in actual service since March 1 and Union county is very proud of their boys.

Other counties which have good exhibits include Morrow, Washington, Clatsop, Tillamook, Marion and Wasco. Salem is All There It is Salem day. Bright sunshine with enough fleecy clouds to make the temperature just right, an ideal day for Spent All He Had In Search For Health—Tanlac Brings Relief.

"I spent everything I had during my fifteen years of sickness, and never found anything to help me as much as Tanlac has in the past three weeks," declared Elmer E. Thomas, a well known employe of the Oregon Ship Lumber Mills, living at 47 East 9th St., Portland, recently.

"If I should tell all the trouble I have had from bad health," he continued, "it would take hours to write it down. My first illness was a very stubborn spell of typhoid fever, which left my stomach in such a bad fix that I could hardly digest anything. Most of the time my food would just lay in my stomach like rocks and ferment, and the gas from it would press on my heart, and cause it to beat like a trip hammer. One time I was operated on for appendicitis, and I also suffered from intestinal trouble, and disordered kidneys. I also had rheumatism, which seemed to affect my whole body. My joints and muscles especially were swollen and extremely painful. I often had headaches, which were so bad at times I could hardly see. I was unable to work so long, that I had to give up my home, and spend everything I had for medicines and other expenses.

"I tell you I must have had an iron constitution or I would have been dead long ago, and when I look back now on what I went through, I don't see how I stood it at all. But Tanlac has put me back on my feet, and has astonished me as well as all who knew my awful condition. Actually I don't have an ache or pain, and you may know I feel like a brand new man. My appetite is so big I can hardly get enough to eat, and everything seems to agree with me perfectly. Before I began on Tanlac, I was almost a nervous wreck, and would lay awake for three or four nights at a time without sleeping a wink, but now I sleep like a log. My kidneys and bladder don't bother me any more, and every sign of the rheumatism is gone. By the aid of Tanlac Tablets I have been relieved almost entirely from constipation and I never have a headache. My friends who have watched me for the past few years, and knew my condition are now asking me what I have been taking or doing to make such a big change. I am now putting in full time. I gladly recommend Tanlac to everybody."

an ideal crowd, and the crowd was sure there. From an early hour trams of street cars were loaded to the last strap-hanging possibility, and by 10 o'clock the grounds were a great kaleidoscope of living, changing colorful crowds. A splendid program had been arranged and was carried out without a hitch.

The stock judging is still under way, but will be completed perhaps by tonight. The keen interest taken is one of the features of the fair.

In the crowds at the judging grounds were many women, and the quick realization of fine points in the animals by them, which were generally anticipated by the judges' decisions showed they had read deeply on the subject and profited by it and their experience.

The interest in the dairy cattle was especially marked, which is a hopeful sign for that badly handicapped industry.

Solid Things Attract It was noticeable that the utilitarian things were those attracting the keenest interest. This was observable not only at the stock exhibits but in the pavilion. There were interested crowds around the fine county exhibits and it was easily seen the good housewife was far more deeply interested in corn and cress, cabbage and fruits rather than roses and blossoms generally. In fact it was plainly evident that the day of the stomach and its demands rather than the esthetic requirements come to stay. Soaring prices of the usual foodstuffs has turned attention to the long list of vegetables more or less neglected heretofore, and the lowly spud holds a prominent place with all, just because it is the one faithful old stand by that remains steadily within reach of the most meager pocketbook.

Plenty of Autos A look into the big coliseum dispels any idea that there can be a scarcity of autos. There is an acre or two of them, sleek and glossy as a prize Jersey heifer, and around each make is a crowd of admirers discussing the fine points of their favorite machines. Looking at the big array of machines and at the crowd of prospective buyers, makes one wonder why the liberty loan drags, but then the auto has attractions that seem to be superior to patriotism.

In mentioning the county exhibits yesterday that of Clatsop was inadvertently overlooked but this is something the visitors are not doing for the booth attracts much attention, especially the display of fish. The Polk county folks put in a bid for the championship this morning by putting Brezee Gibson among the exhibits, along with a chair made by him, to his own measure.

Some interesting lectures, so many of them in fact that special attention cannot be made of them, were delivered during the day, and these all drew large and interested audiences.

Farm Tractors Draw Crowds The demonstration of farm tractors which has been one of the most interesting and profitable features of the fair continued today and was watched by a deeply interested crowd.

A look at the exhibit of the products of the farm at the Feeble Minded Institution will forever dispel the idea that Oregon cannot grow corn. Samples of the crop from six or seven acres are displayed and these are sure a wonder. The stalks are fourteen feet in length and the big ears are above the reach of even the tallest man.

The old camp ground is only tolerably well occupied. This is probably due

Thinks Backbone Of Epidemic Is Broken

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Captain Moffett, commandant of the Great Lakes naval training station, believes today that the backbone of the Spanish influenza epidemic at the station has been broken.

In an official statement, Captain Moffett said that the recent deaths there were among men taken to the hospital some days ago.

There have been 8,218 cases at the station. During the last 24 hours there were 369 new cases and 63 deaths. The total number of deaths was not announced. The percentage of deaths was comparatively small, Captain Moffett said.
