RECOGNITION FOR JUGO-SLAV ASKED OF UNITED STATES

Their Case Is Laid Before
President And Secretary Of State.

Washington, Sept. 27.—Formal recognition of the Jugo-Slavs by this government was asked of the state department today.

That President Wilson and Secretary of State Lansing will consider the appeal worthy of favorable action is generally believed, especially as it would be another step toward dismembering Austria.

In making the request the Jugo-Slavs submitted an official memorandum, pointing to reasons for recognizing the Jugo-Slavs as was done with Czechoslovakia.

The Jugo-Slav leaders are agreed upon unification of the Austrian Slavs, the Serbs and Montenegrins in one democratic state. Complete harmony has been maintained from the beginning with Serbia, the memorandum to the state department points out.

The basic principles of the contemplated southern Slav state are noted as "full equality of the territory balance which are to form the new state, full equality of religious, no coercion but absolute free self determination of the nation with regard to all questions of the future state life."

Jugo-Slav troops have fought on the side of the allies in Macedonia, Italy and Russia, according to a memorandum. These have been recruited from troops which surrendered or were captured by the allies. They had been conscripted by Austria. One entire Jugo-Slav division is fighting under its own flag in Macedonia. Others are fighting with the Serbians. A Jugo-Slav army of 30,000 is being organized in Italy and will soon be in action against their former comrades in the Austrian army. In Russia 5000 Jugo-Slavs, starting from Russia, fought their way northward, routed the bolsheviks at Samara, and went on to Archangel. Three thousand volunteers participated in the capture of Vladivostok. Foreign born Jugo-Slavs are fighting in the American army in considerable numbers.

Incidentally, the Bulgarian problem is receiving careful diplomatic attention now. Minimum requirements from Bulgaria before the United States and the allies could be sure of justice to Serbia and Greece, were outlined thus:

Restoration of the Bulgarian boundary before the European war and relinquishment of all conquests. Severance of all ties with Germany and agents. Sufficient guarantees that Bulgaria would not again treacherously attack her neighbors.

Abandonment of Bulgaria's ambition to be ruler of the Balkans.

FRUITLAND ITEMS

(Capital Journal Special Service.)

Fruitland, Sept. 27.—H. C. Todd has returned from his summer vacation in Portland.

Miss Bessie Bundy, whose home is in Morgan county, Ohio, is visiting at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Coulson, of this place. It seems good to see one of those Ohio girls as it brings memories of the past.

The writer is a native of the Buckeye state and the first girl he really courted lived in that commonwealth, but as fate would have it the other fellow got her.

J. W. Bellamy of this place and Fred DeVries of Pratum, did Fourth Liberty loan work through this part. They are rustlers, and did not let grass grow under their automobile wheels.

William of Prussia begins to hear the slogan. It is a shout of coming victory and not a German made peace.

The mothers and daughters of this nation are doing a work the value of which is hard to estimate. The valiant sons of noble mothers, are "over there" by the millions fighting and dying that liberty and honor may live. What a tribute to motherhood. And the sisters of these boys, what shall we say of them? Doing Red Cross work by the thousands, and many of them are at the scene of strife mitigating the suffering of these sons and brothers. It is a tradition that some time in the distant past at a festive gathering a gallant Kentucky "colonel" proposed the toast "The ladies, God bless 'em; our arms their defense; their arms our recompense." Now wasn't that fair! Truly so, and the gushing sentiment didn't spoil it: O woman, woman.

Persons tell me occasionally that the common ground mole is extensively abroad in Oregon but does not disturb vegetation. That is because they don't know. I know this subterranean "varmint" is for a large part vegetarian. I have been "getting" him and her for more than 25 years and well know he eats our potatoes, carrots and parsnips. I have caught him "with the goods," at the time at the time I have caught him with the gun and trap. That he feeds on grubs, worms and other underground forms of life is true enough but he doesn't stop at this. It is another case of repeating what other people have said or possible what they have read that has caused the error.

About all Fruitland attended the state fair, which shows that Liberty bonds have not bankrupted us.

Lee Donaldson whose parents live here, is doing military duty at Camp Lewis.

M. J. Cornik took to Salem Thursday a pig that pulled the scales at 235 pounds. Money received was $43.45, which is a neat sum for a 6 months pig.

That war talk the kaiser is telling his people that at the right time he is going to give the Yanks the surprise of their lives is mostly talk. Perhaps he will. He is doing it already. With the construction William puts on that prophecy it has a far away sound.

MILLARD GATES IS ALIVE.

Hillsboro, Or., Sept. 27.—Confirmation of the belief that the report of the death of Millard W. Gates on July 21, from wounds, received in action was a mistake was given this week by the receipt of a letter written by the wounded man on September 1. He is at a base hospital with both boxes of the left leg below the knee shattered by shrapnel. He writes that bone-grafting is being practiced and within two months expects to be removed to a hospital in the United States, where a final operation will be performed, which will permit him to return to France for limited service, probably as a driver.

O. B. Gates the father, was notified of the death by the war department and the name of Millard Gates as having died of wounds appeared in the casualty list printed a week ago. Mr. Gates today received a telegram from the Adjutant-General saying a cable had been sent to France instructing that an investigation be made.

Peace offensive front.—Chancellor Von Hertling told the main committee of the reichstag that he is ready for peace based, in principle, upon President Wilson's fourteen points. He said this readiness was expressed in his speech of February 25.
