Supply short, the calls for bookkeepers and stenographers far exceed the supply. The Capital Business college could easily place twice as many as it does, but for the lack of pupils who are prepared. Register on Saturday for the new classes beginning on September 30th. Good places await all who are competent.

Miss Ophie Bilyeu is missing and has not been heard from since Wednesday morning. Her disappearance was reported last evening by her mother to the police, in which she asked their help in finding her daughter. The police of the city and fair grounds, and also of Portland were notified.

Dr. Carl E. Miller will practice dentistry in the afternoons, having offices with Dr. Ellis, rooms 502-504 U. S. National bank bldg.

Dr. Carl E. Miller has been appointed, and the appointment approved by the surgeon general of the army, as dental intern in the Willamette sanatorium for a period of one year, beginning Oct. 1st.

The 38 Captains of the 4th Liberty Loan have been ordered to report at the Commercial club at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon to discuss the situation in Salem. It is felt that something must be done, especially with those who have failed to respond to the call of the solicitors. The program for next week will be outlined at the Sunday afternoon meeting.

"Earth's Coming Great Jubilee," W. A. Baker, Moose hall Sunday Sept. 29th, 3 p. m.

Free lecture, "Earth's Coming Great Jubilee," W. A. Baker at Moose hall 3 p. m. Sept. 29th. 9-28

A bottle of lemon extract was too much for John Wachens, son of an Indian chief of the Grand Ronde country. Instead of making him cantankerous, it just produced a desire to sleep. But he picked out the wrong place in an alley adjoining a business block on North Commercial street. After being convinced that people did not sleep in the alley, in Salem in the open he called for a taxi to be taken to a rooming house. He is 60 years old and came to Salem to attend the state fair.

Dr. Alzamon Ira Lucas will speak daily at 11 a. m. and immediately after the official program exercises in the auditorium, new pavilion.

The weather man yesterday seems to have become somewhat confused as to the time of year. Instead of the regulation fall temperature, he allowed the mercury to creep up to the 86 notch about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The morning started out with 55 above, giving attendants of the fair a range of 33 degrees in temperature within 12 hours. There has been only fifteen hundredths of an inch of rain August 15th.

Although this is state fair week and along towards the close of the coming season, C. M. Lockwood, county food administrator has been pretty busy handing out permits for sugar to be used for canning purposes. Yesterday 86 permits were issued to those who called at his office and 50 for those who applied by mail. Almost every applicant for sugar for canning purposes takes the full limit, 25 pounds.

It is possible that after the canvass of the residence sections of the city is made again next week by the solicitors for the Fourth Liberty loan, that note will be taken of the houses that do not display the honor flag emblem, showing a picture of the flag with four stripes. This honor emblem displayed in each household will be taken as evidence that some member of the household has subscribed for the fourth loan. Where there is no flag showing, an investigation may follow. The same suggestions will apply to men in the business district who do not wear a Liberty button, showing they have done the right thing by the fourth loan. It will be understood that if a man is not wearing the honor emblem, he has failed to subscribe for this Fourth Loan, and is advertising the fact.

Chemeketa chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution will hold its first meeting of the season Saturday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock in the Commercial club auditorium. It is planned at this meeting to discuss matters of especial interest to Chemeketa chapter and arrange for the winter's program.

The first regular meeting of the official community labor board organized yesterday will be held Friday evening, Oct. 4 and thereafter on Friday evening of each week. At these meetings the general labor conditions of the community will be discussed and the big problem of the proper distribution of labor. J. R. Coleman, who has had charge of the U. S. Labor bureau during the summer, will attend to the clerical and detail work of the board. The local community board will act under the state board and above this is the federal war board. The primary object of the board is the distribution of labor.

Miss Velma Davis is in the city from Albany attending the fair. Miss Davis is county recorder for Linn county and already has the job mailed down for the next term as she is the nominee on both the republican and democrat tickets. She is accompanied by Miss Claire Tillman, and Miss Stella Dorgan of Albany.

Teachers in Marion county who have charge of rural schools with one or two rooms have been called to meet in Salem Saturday Oct. 4 at the auditorium of the Salem high school. The event is called "Plan day" and it is the purpose of Superintendent Smith to discuss especially the problems of the teachers in the rural schools. The day is of interest from the fact that this year many of the teachers are taking their first schools.

The police of the city have been putting in a pretty busy week, not in arresting people, but in doing much to prevent trouble, such as directing autos and caring for the congested traffic. For notwithstanding the fact that the main business streets of Salem are 90 feet wide, the crowds have been such that it required active work on the part of the police to keep things moving. So far, no accidents have occurred and everything has moved along nicely.

Charles Knickerbocker, an elderly shipyard worker of Portland concluded to take a day off and come to the state fair. In order to have plenty of change, he brought along as pocket money $115. Late in the evening he told the police he had lost his pocket book and all his money. Fortunately his return ticket to Portland had been tucked away in another pocket.

The National association of real estate boards has been requested by the war department to make a report of all buildings available for the storage of war materials and C. W. Niemeyer has been asked to report for this district, extending from Hubbard south including Independence. Only buildings that are of mill construction and are fire proof and have a floor capacity of 60,000 square feet are to be reported.
