Buy your fall shoes early as there is no lower price in sight, said a prominent shoe dealer today. Instead of going lower, the chances are that an advanced price is coming. The war department recently contracted for 2,031,000 shoes for soldiers and after the closest competition among the big shoe factories, the price was finally awarded at $7.15 for the soldiers' field shoe and $8.15 for the trench shoe. With prices like this in two million lots the average buyer takes just what he can get and even no orders are coming in partially filled.

E. M. Page, formerly with the law firm of McNary & McNary is now stationed at Ft. McArthur, not very far from Los Angeles. He writes H. J. Wiedner, secretary of the Elks' lodge as follows: 'California is a wet state but for the good it does a man in uniform, one might as well be in the Sahara desert. Brother John Carson and myself are about the only Salem boys here now. Brother Ed Viesko left for Camp Eustis, Va., some time ago, Carson and I were held and sent to a special artillery school and have just received orders to leave for Ft. Monroe, Va., for additional instructions. We work from 7 in the morning until 9 at night. At Ft. Monroe we will be under training from 6 in the morning until 11 at night. P. S. Tell Bro. Bill Evans I am still planning on opening a Berlin beer garden.'

Closing Hours Restaurant September 30, 7:30 p. m., 1918. Many thanks to the general public for the liberal patronage we have enjoyed while in business in the city of Salem. Yours, Proprietor and Manager.

The counting of tickets has been going on all day at the state fair ground and while this work is not complete, it is estimated that attendance will be around 125,000, which is 1,000 more than last year.

S. S. McNeill of Silverton was arrested by Constable Simeral of Silverton and brought here this morning to the county court house. He is now in jail awaiting an investigation. He is charged with impersonating an officer.

Warren Hunt went two firsts and a second prize at the state fair with his New Zealand and Belgian hares. He owns the mother of the Belgian hare that took the first prize at the Portland Pet Stock show.

Wm. E. Paul, the employe of the Salem street railway who lost his job for making unpatriotic remarks and who was arrested and lodged in the county jail, is again free. He was taken to Portland a few days ago and was released on bonds to appear before the federal grand jury.

Marion county took third prize on its educational exhibit at the state fair. But when it comes to raising chickens and hogs, the county put all the others out of business as it was awarded first on chickens and secured all firsts on pig displays, exhibited by members of the Boys' and Girl's Industrial clubs.

In round numbers, it is estimated that 74,500 people travelled on the street cars from Tuesday of state fair week until Saturday, inclusive. Thursday, known as Elks' and Portland day the traffic was the heaviest with a record of 20,000 fares. The estimate for each day's passengers during the state fair is as follows: Tuesday, 11,000; Wednesday, 19,000; Thursday, 20,000; Friday, 14,000; and Saturday, 10,500.

Thanks to the vigilance of the police during state fair week there was no conviction of any one for violating the city or state traffic laws. A number of suspicious characters who prefer to travel with the crowds were warned to leave town and they did. Besides the usual duties of the police force during fair week, there was that of finding people both young and old who were lost and restoring them to their friends.

The four young folks, members of the Industrial club of Marion county who were awarded the two weeks free summer course at the Oregon Agricultural College are as follows: Eva Benjamin of Woodburn for her sheep exhibit; Elmer J. Roth of the Bethel school near Salem on his pig exhibit; Oliver Fuestman of rural route '6, Salem on his sheep exhibit and Nichol Brinkley for his prize hog display.

On account of the quarantine, due to the spread of the Spanish influenza, all induction calls for the week have been cancelled. Orders to this effect were received this morning by the local exemption board. Hence the 20 men who were to have left for Camp Lewis this week will not report for entertainment until given special orders. Those of the limited service who are to go to Ft. McDowell within a few days will report and leave according to orders.

Eva Benjamin of Woodburn, who was awarded first prize at the state fair on the exhibit of a fine sheep now understands about ups and downs of life. Thursday she was awarded first prize on her sheep exhibit and thereby secured the privilege of attending the Q. A. C. summer school next year with all expenses paid. On the following day the sheep died. It was valued at $50.00.

Members of the Students' Army Training Corps of Willamette University are busy today, first in registering and proving their educational qualifications to enter the University and second in receiving their physical examination. It is expected that within a few days, fully 150 young men will have registered and assigned to their regular routine of work as members of the United States army. The citizens of Salem have been most liberal in opening their homes to the young men for a week or two during the completion of the science hall which is to be used as barracks. Captain Tyler and Lieutenant Register have been assigned to the University and will assist in the services tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock on the campus when the young men will be inducted into the service.

At the meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Commercial club of the executive committee and 35 captains of the Fourth Liberty loan drive, it was unanimously voted that a loyalty committee of 25 should be organized and that in case certain parties did not show the right spirit in subscribing, names should be published. This plan is already in effect in Portland and names of prominent shakers have already been given to the public. The executive committee takes the stand that where a man is unable to subscribe $500 or $1000 and he attempts to get off with a $50 bond, he is radically wrong somewhere and the public should know it.

ONLY ONE HALF OF LOAN QUOTA PLEDGED

Captains Once Again To Go Out Soliciting Pledges for Fourth Loan

With every own and every district in Marion county over the top excepting the city of Salem, the captains of the Salem Liberty Fourth Loan teams decided yesterday to once again make a final effort to put the capital city on record as the right kind of a city.

'We intend to smoke out every man who is not doing his duty,' declared General Steiner at the meeting held Sunday afternoon at the Commercial club. 'We will re-canvass every district. We will put every man on record. And, by George, there's got to be business done from now on.'

For the plain fact is, that with a quota of 1,028,500 Salem has so far actually subscribed only $515,250. By a vote of the captains, it was decided to once again start the campaign all over again. Every district will be re-canvassed and in many instances where the subscription was too small, small the committees will not be backward in asking for additional amounts.

The fact will once again be put before every household and every man in the city that Salem has fallen down on its Fourth Liberty Loan and that it is up to the citizens to say whether the capital city is right or wrong on this 4th loan.

Frank Davoy, whose territory covers the public buildings reported but few public men lodging. Dr. Morefield wanted more information as to what the people in his district were worth. In one public institution in his territory with 59 employes, he reported total subscriptions of only $1650. August Hockstein thought that the slackers on each team should be replaced by real workers. Chauncey Bishop was of the opinion that too much attention had been paid to those who could subscribe but small amounts while some of the big fellows had been overlooked. Max Buren said he welcomed the day when the questionnaire system was extended to citizens in order that each could be assessed the amount each should buy of the liberty loans.

F. G. Deckerbaugh, in charge of the districts outside of Salem said they all went over the top as each committee knew the financial rating of every man in a district and that the rural and small town people showed a lot of patriotism in holding liberty loan bonds.

O. B. Gingrich is in favor of publishing the names of all liberty loan subscribers and the amount each had pledged. This suggestion was voted down. Dan J. Fry chairman of the flying squadron, said that the chances were that each district had not been worked enough, especially as reports had been coming in from some business parts of the city as well as the residential districts that some folks had been overlooked. He also thought that the big subscribers should be seen again as some big amounts would be necessary to bring Salem over the top.

Col. A. T. Woolpert offered the services of the 2nd battalion Oregon Guard in any patriotic service the executive committee thought best. He said that members of the four companies in the city would be glad to distribute any patriotic literature, and to come out in uniform for a patriotic rally.

Beginning this week, reports will be made of houses that do not display the loyalty flag. Note will also be taken by the workers of men on the streets who do not wear a Fourth Liberty Loan button. General Steiner said: 'There are some slackers in town who are just as ornery as the fellow who talks too much and gets into trouble. But here are just as many patriotic people in this district as anywhere in Oregon, and I believe there is enough patriotism in the captains and teams to get to work this week and pull this thing through.'

The Salem Sunday school association announces a teachers' rally Monday evening, Sept. 30. A dinner will be served at the Y. W. C. A. at 5 o'clock in the evening to which all pastors, Sunday school superintendents along with teachers and workers are invited. Plates will be 35 cents. An open forum for the teachers' training will be held. It is hoped that every one in Salem and adjacent territory will be present at the gathering to be held at the Presbyterian church at 5 o'clock Monday evening. There will be a praise and song service of four minutes each and an address by Harold Humbert, general secretary of the Oregon State Sunday school association. He will tell of the great international association meeting held at Buffalo and tell of his plans for the coming year.

Pheasant Season Opens Early Tuesday Morning

Beginning Tuesday morning, the open season for district No. 1, which comprises all counties west of the Cascade mountains.

Male chiross pheasants may legally be shot during the month of October. The bag limit is five in one day and ten in seven consecutive days. It is illegal to kill a hen pheasant of to get more than the bag limit of the male bird. The penalty is a fine of not less than $25 and not more than $500 and cost; or by imprisonment not less than 30 days and not more than six months. Besides the fines, anyone violating the laws is subject to civil liability.

The duck season is also now on in this district and it extends to January 15. The bag limit for ducks, geese, rails, coot, and shore birds is 30 in any seven consecutive days.

All indications point to the best hunting season in recent years. The exceptionally dry summer has made it ideal for the raising of young birds. Last year the pheasant season was closed in the middle of October because the rainy season had drowned many of the young birds.

The federal law permits shooting 30 minutes before sunrise according to the law passed by congress regarding time sunrise Tuesday morning will be at 7:09 o'clock. All hunting must stop at sunset and this is at 6:02 o'clock, the evening.

For those who are rather new to the game of hunting it will be well to remember that it is unlawful to hunt without a license or to refuse to show the same on demand of a proper officer or the owner or proper representative of real property where hunting. The following is also unlawful: To disguise these of any game; to hunt at night; to sell game of any kind except when

WHEN THE SCHOOL BELL RINGS

This should be a warning to you--You should have your children's eyes examined to make sure that they are prepared for the school year. There may be defects of vision that will keep your child from attaining the best results in school. An examination will decide and if glasses are not needed I will not recommend them. I make a specialty of correctly fitting children's eyes.

I guarantee satisfaction and my charges are very reasonable.

You May Now Order Sugar Supplies For One Month

Beginning tomorrow, Oct. 1, families will be permitted to buy a four weeks' supply of sugar at one time, instead of carrying it home in two pound packages. The ration basis will remain the same, that of two pounds a month to each person in the household. This is the new ruling of the state food administration.

It is stipulated in the new ruling that the profits on sugar shall not be more than one cent a pound above cost of sugar delivered at the retail store. The jobber is allowed a profit of only 35 cents on every 100 pounds. Hence beginning tomorrow, a family of five may order from the grocer ten pounds of sugar for the month. Of course if the family is not careful and uses that ten pounds before the 30 days have expired, it may through necessity be on a sugarless basis as the sugar cards will show just how much the family is entitled to each month.

While butter prices may seem high, the consumer may now have the satisfaction of knowing that the retailer is not getting rich off the sales of butter. The food administration has fixed a profit of six cents a pound for stores that deliver and five cents for the cash and carry stores. These figures are the maximum profit. The grocer isn't obliged to make any profit and can sell for any figure, just so it does not exceed the figure fixed by the state federal food administration.
