PEACE PROPOSAL

shortly after 10:30 a. m. to deliver to Secretary Lansing the Austrian peace appeal.

The Swiss minister later delivered Prince Max's peace negotiations plea to the president. Indications late this afternoon were that there would be no reply to Austria and Germany before tomorrow at the earliest. No definite announcement was forthcoming as to whether the allies would be consulted in advance of the dispatch of the answer.

The Swedish minister had an appointment at the White House this afternoon but this was understood at both Swedish and American sources to deal with a topic entirely aside from the latest Austrian peace moves.

Apparently the only matter this afternoon was the form of the reply and whether the allies should be consulted before the answers are dispatched.

Whether the president will include in his answer a statement that peace can be had if an unconditional surrender is made, is a matter of speculation. That the country demands an unconditional surrender as a preliminary to any peace conference was clear from the tenor of White House telegrams today. The Austrian note was delivered shortly after 10:30.

Secretary of State Lansing was to see President Wilson today, but his visit was social, inasmuch as he was introducing the British naval party previous to luncheon at the White House. State department authorities made it plain that while President Wilson had not yet given them his confidence, it was safe to assume the American position would, in general, be unaltered from the stand taken on the last Austrian note.

Some authorities believed he might tell the Teutons that peace negotiations could be instituted if Germany cleared her armies out of the occupied territory absolutely if she also laid down her arms and gave the United States control over them; if, in other words, she made a complete military surrender—not a breathing spell armistice.

This would be comparable to the terms given Bulgaria. Bulgaria surrendered when she accepted, but there are no signs that Germany is ready to accept the peace of the loser. On the contrary, authorities say that she is attempting to deceive the world by appearing to have had a change of heart.

But the state department has said privately a number of occasions "actions speak louder than words," referring to the fact that Germany utters peace pleas while she still maintains a strangle hold on parts of Rumania and Russia and while her armies are still on the soil of France and Belgium.

Official Washington can be said to favor military action without stint, until Germany is forced to surrender—until she is ready to clear out of three occupied lands and until there is a real spokesman representative of the German people rather than the kaiser.

Army men point out that victory is a certainty next year. They say it will be the greatest tragedy of all time were the allies now to wipe the slate clean after sacrificing hundreds of thousands of lives. Quitting now would leave Germany intact and not restricted. The old militarist rule would still be in force and the world would have no guarantee that this clique, headed by the Hohenzollerns would not attempt in the next generation to inflict its glutinous desire for world domination upon its neighbors.

A continuance of the war into 1919, say the military men, will effectively crush the militarist spirit of Germany. She will be ready then to put things in order in her own house and will bearken quite readily to the terms of President Wilson.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a mirror complexion—dark rings under your eyes—dark circles—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

TERMS NOT ACCEPTED BY CHANCELLOR MAX IN VIEW OF FRENCH

German Imperialists Only Desire To Discuss President Wilson's Principles

Paris, Oct. 7.—Germany does not accept the Wilson terms for peace in Prince Max's speech to the reichstag; she merely says the fourteen and four points "form a basis for negotiations."

Therefore, there can be no peace until Germany makes full reparation and gives guarantees that will insure the future.

This is the stand taken in Paris and all of France on the peace statements coming from Germany.

As stated in the French press, there can be no consideration of the proposals in its present form. There must be concurrence in the declaration, in the evacuation of Belgium and France and suitable guarantees before there can be talk. An armistice would give a beaten enemy a chance to re-form his shattered armies and improve his disastrous military situation.

One newspaper declares it is a despairing trick to cheat the allies and avoid the penalty of infamy and prevent the devastation of Germany as she has devastated those weak nations which have opposed her.

One fact stands out: Germany knows, and admits she is beaten, but this does not mean that the war is ended. Meanwhile, the victorious allied troops are advancing while the millions of eyes of fighters and peoples are turned hopefully to President Wilson.

"Germany leans upon principles which would only make the army fall from our hands," Le Temps says. Then when the fighting has ceased, the German troops have regained their breath and the imperial government is popular and strong, the German plenipotentiaries would knock down one after the other the pretended bases for negotiations.

"We should have to re-begin the war, or sign a disastrous peace that would not last long."

VIVIANI STATES VIEWS

By William Philip Simms (United Press staff correspondent)

Paris, Oct. 7.—There is no Frenchman who would continue the war uselessly, but France and the allies, in making peace, will safeguard their interests and honor.

This statement was made today by Rene Viviani, former premier and head of the French mission which visited America soon after the United States entered the war.

"There can be no discussion of President Wilson's propositions," he continued.

"To discuss them under an armistice does not square with our military advantage. Mentioning only one essential point—whether to accept or not to accord autonomy for Alsace-Lorraine—there can be no question. We demand restitution, purely and simply."

"Is it possible, after fifty months of bloodshed, that anybody can even think otherwise?"

FELT LIKE MUSCLES WERE TIED IN KNOT

That Is Exactly The Way Tindall Says His Rheumatism Acted

"I had never taken a dose of Tanale in my life till some six weeks ago, but I have received more benefit from the three bottles I have just finished than from all the other medicines I have taken put together," said George R. Tindall, of 6022 18th Ave., South, Seattle, the other day. Mr. Tindall is employed at the Skinner & Eddy ship yards.

"For several years," he continued, "I suffered terribly from muscular rheumatism and kidney trouble. The muscles of my right arm would draw up at the elbow, and feel like they were tied in a knot. I had no appetite and the little I forced down didn't do me much, if any, good. My kidneys worried me night and day, I had an awful misery up and down my spine, and my back right over my kidneys would hurt so bad that if I stopped over it would almost kill me; I would straighten up again, I couldn't rest well at night, and many a time I would wake up at midnight, and never sleep another wink the balance of the night, then my back would start hurting so bad that I could hardly get up out of bed."

"I guess I have taken most every kind of medicine sold without getting a bit of relief, and I was in mighty bad shape when I decided to see if Tanale would help me. Well, I can honestly say that I haven't had an ache or a pain since shortly after I started on Tanale. I sleep like a log at night, and my wife tells me that I'm liable to eat us both out of house and home if I keep on with the appetite Tanale has given me. I feel so well and hearty in every way that I have told the boys down at the ship yard how much good Tanale has done for me, for I hope that my experience will be the means of helping others who may have troubles like I had."

Tanale is sold in standard by Hubbard Drug Co., in Mt. Angel by Sen Gooch, in Gervais by John Kelly, in Turner by H. P. Cornelius, in Woodburn by Lyman H. Shorrey, in Salem by Dr. S. C. Stone, in Silverton by Geo. A. Steelhammer, in Gates by Mrs. J. P. McCurdy and in Stayton by C. A. Beauchamp, in Aurora by Aurora Drug Store. (Adv.)

Monmouth Boy Killed On Western Front

(Capital Journal Special Service)
Dallas, Or., Oct. 5.—Roy Johnson, a Monmouth boy, who was a member of Company L of this city when that organization left for the European war zone, has been killed in action according to advices received from the war department this week. Johnson was killed on July 15th on the French battle fields and is the first boy from Company L to be officially declared as dead by the government officials. Orely P. Chase another Dallas boy has been reported unofficially as being killed in action on July 22 but his death is doubted by some as the war department has telegraphed that they have no official announcement of his having been killed. Johnson enlisted with Company L a few days before it left for Vancouver barracks, having walked in from a farm near Airlie when he heard that the Dallas company needed men.

Dallas Capt. in Receives Promotion
Captain Conrad Staffin, commander of Company L when it left for the front writes his wife in this city that he is acting as a major in the army now and expects to be called to service on the French front within a few days. Captain Staffin also stated in the letter that Lieutenant Oscar I. Chenoweth of Company L had been transferred to the Ninth United States infantry and holds the same office with that organization. Second Lieutenant Waldo Finn of Company L is now the commander of what remains of the famous Dallas company of the old Third Oregon.
