Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitude of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags," and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy checked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pilled, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation.

river. This is now possible through the improvement of the Pacific highway between Oregon City and Canby. To this line it is proposed to add branches extending into the Molalla and Silverton regions.

Recognition of the highway's value as a transportation resource not only to meet war conditions but also future needs is growing fast. In some states tonnage moved over the highways has increased 400 per cent the past year.

Italy Is Suspicious Of German Intentions

Washington, Oct. 8.—Italy is convinced that the Teutons, realizing the danger to their armies are endeavoring to cause a relaxation of the allied offensive by peace efforts, according to information that reached the Italian embassy today.

The dispatch also makes clear that Italy is convinced that no peace propaganda will succeed in swerving the allied nations from their war aims. The statement made public last night reads: "Rome, Oct. 7.—The declarations of the new German chancery in regard to peace have produced the impression in Italian public opinion that the enemy, realizing the danger of his position, has decided to intensify

Capital Of Turkey Is Greatly Excited

London, Oct. 8.—A Berner dispatch to the Daily News today said it is understood that the Turkish cabinet has fallen. The dispatch said there is great excitement in Constantinople.

The Turkish cabinet consists of Talaat Pasha, grand vizier, and minister of the interior; Ahmed Nessim Bey, foreign minister; Halli Bey, minister of justice; Enver Pasha, war minister; Djemal Pasha, minister of marine; David Bey, minister of finance; Ali Muneff Bey, minister of public works; Sherief Bey, minister of agriculture and commerce and Mussa Kiazim Effendi, sheikh-ul-islam.

his peace efforts in order to slacken the resistance of the entente nations. "The Italian press, however, is confident that the central empire will not succeed in convincing allied public opinion of their readiness to accept the terms of the allies which are the only terms on which a just peace can be had. To those repeated peace offensives of the enemy the allies will

WESTERN CANADA DEMONSTRATES THAT IRRIGATION IS THE FARMER'S BEST INSURANCE

C.P.R. Train passing through Alberta Wheat Fields

Irrigation Ditch in Alberta

"These are the finest crops I've seen in the country." The speaker was one of a group on the observation platform of a Canadian Pacific train that had just passed through the little town of Brooks in Alberta. His words were not without interest by his companions; his opinion was worth while for his work entails much traveling and he has his finger on the pulse of trade. Good crops mean full purses for the farmers, big business for the small town merchants, big orders for wholesalers, full time for factories and, eventually, national prosperity. "To what do you attribute this excellence?" asked a business man bound for a month's recuperation at Banff in the Canadian Rockies. "To irrigation!" was the prompt, emphatic response. "What about the dry farming theory that has had so much exploitation?" queried a Dutch planter from Sumatra. "Dry farming is all right in normal times," came the answer. "We are, however, living in abnormal times. The farm lands of America are called upon to produce their limit yields in order that the spectre of starvation shall not materialize into a reality. To insure big crops there must be plenty of moisture. If rainfall is insufficient, water must be produced otherwise. It's another case of 'Mahomet and the Mountain. The land cannot go to the water; water must be brought to the land. Result, irrigation. "Does the result justify the expense?" asked the business man. "It certainly does," replied the Irrigation Enthusiast. "Why, look here, take this section through which we are passing; it is sparsely settled, yet it is estimated that a quarter million bushels of wheat will be harvested from this irrigated district this fall. Many of the fields will yield from 30 to 40 bushels per acre. This is not an unusual yield for ordinary years, but this is not an ordinary year; it has been an exceptionally hot and dry year. Crops on non-irrigated lands hereabouts are in many cases total failures. Here, I'll give you a concrete instance. Powell, a chap I know, came out here last fall, bought land, broke 200 acres and put in wheat. Some of this acreage was irrigated in the fall and twice in the spring and summer, results will be about 40 bushels per acre; the land that got no fall irrigation but got water twice this spring and summer will yield about 35 bushels; some of the land was watered but once this year and will bear a scanty crop, but the average is going to run close to 35 bushels per acre. Pretty good for the first year, especially when you consider prevailing prices. "Other grains respond to the stimulus of water accordingly and the way in which alfalfa and other fodder crops increase, make the possibilities of live stock raising unlimited. "I didn't mean to give you fellows a lecture, but I sure am enthusiastic over this country that gobbles up automobiles faster than my firm can ship them. Here's Calgary, I get off here. So long, hope to meet you again!" "Guess I'll get off with you," said the business man, "this water-fod land looks like a good proposition for the investment of some of my dollars."
