Prof. John O. Hall, formerly professor of social science at Willamette University will leave Thursday for Washington, D. C., where he has accepted a government position as statistician expert in the department of labor. On his way east he will visit with his family at Oakland, Calif.

Through the generosity of Salem citizens 250 books were shipped yesterday to the Portland headquarters, to be later sent to the soldiers in the spruce sections of the state. The books were not only donated here in Salem, but each was properly labelled and marked according to the library custom.

Christmas may be coming as usual about this time of the year, but it is coming along much earlier to the average Christmas shopper. Already there may be seen in the display windows a card "Shop Early. The government demands that Christmas shopping be done early. By order of the National Council of Defense."

Company M, Oregon National Guard will drill this evening at the armory. While there is nothing definitely known as to its chances of being federalized there is a feeling in the air that such a thing is a near possibility. Orders were received yesterday that every effort should be made to recruit the company up to the minimum, 110. About 25 more good men could be recruited by the company.

The city is without a police matron just at present. Today Mrs. S. J. Dorsey presented her resignation to city recorder Earl Race which will be presented to the city council at the next meeting. Mrs. Dorsey was receiving $50 a month and when the council increased the salary of all the employees but refused to put an extra ten for the police matron, she decided to resign. No applications have as yet been received by Mr. Race.

F. B. DuRette of Fairfield brought to this office a few samples of the kind of Baldwin apples they raise out in his section of the county. They rival the famous Arkansas apples that took so many prizes at the St. Louis fair. He says the farmers out in his neighborhood aren't troubled with any eight hour a day labor proposition as just at present most of them are hustling about 16 out of every 24 hours.

The body of Mrs. A. H. Tasker was found yesterday by a drifting crew floating in the Willamette river, not far from Oregon City. She had been missing from her home since Sept. 22 and every effort had been made by the family to learn of her whereabouts. She had become melancholy on account of ill health. She is survived by her husband and two sons, Homer by her of the Students Army, Training corps of the Willamette University and Robert Tasker, a student of the Portland Washington high school. Mrs. Tasker had lived in Salem about two years in Yew Park. The family came to Salem for its educational advantages and had moved back to Portland early in the summer.

From LaFare to Rheims—A great artillery battle is under way northwest of Rheims, probably as a preliminary to wiping out the salient south of Laon, which would further endanger the Germans in the Laon and St. Gobain region.

From Rheims to Verdun—The Franco-American attack east of the Meuse has reached a depth of nearly four miles at some points. The attack is being made on a front of about seven miles.

From Verdun to Switzerland—This front continues quiet.

From the North sea to Lens—The Belgians repulsed a German counter attack in the neighborhood of Roulers. This whole front continues comparatively stabilized.

From Lens to LaFare—British, Americans and French renewed their attacks in the Cambrai-St. Quentin region this morning, extending the fighting front north of Cambrai, to a total width of 30 miles. Cambrai, which has been dominated by the British for several days, has been occupied by them.

The French are attacking south of St. Quentin.

In the case on trial before the circuit court of James McGilchrist against Frank E. Loose, the jury decided in favor of Mr. McGilchrist. The question came up as to whether the truck sold the plaintiff was a one or two ton truck. The jury decided it was a one ton truck and gave Mr. McGilchrist a rebate of $100 on the $450 price of the truck and another $100 for time lost when Mr. McGilchrist took possession of the truck. The plaintiff was also given $15 for tools lost.

The death of Ralph E. Dorcas is announced from Chicago where he died of pneumonia. He was there on business for T. A. Livesley & Co., when stricken. Mr. Dorcas was a 32nd degree Scottish Rite Mason and for many years held his Elk membership with the Salem lodge. He will be buried in Portland.

The Rev. James Elvin who recently returned from the Western Front to assist in the United War Fund Drive left yesterday for Pendleton. He will be engaged in the work just one month beginning October 28. He expects to occupy the pulpit of the First Congregational church next Sunday.

The First Christian church will observe the regular quarterly communion next Sunday, Oct. 13th. In view of that fact, Preparatory Lecture by the pastor, Thomas S. Anderson will take the place of the regular Thursday evening prayer meeting. All members of the church are urged to attend. The public will be cordially welcomed to these services.

Folks living on State and Court streets and in the downtown districts are interfering to a great extent in the school census now being taken. That is, when the women who are taking the census appear at the door, no one responds. For the benefit of those who are in fear of Liberty Loan solicitors, it may be said that no house to house canvass is being taken. Nor is there any other canvass going on in town and the housekeepers need not fear responding to the call. But it is of great importance to the school district that every name be enrolled on the school census from four to 20 years old.

The failure to place a name or box number on the return corner of an envelope caused a letter addressed to a soldier in France to be returned and posted on the bulletin board of the Salem postoffice. The letter is addressed to "Mr. Earl A. Knowler, First Provisional Co. 13th Engineers, A. E. F. Somewhere in France." The postal authorities over there could not find him and the letter was returned to Salem. Now the postmaster here cannot locate the writer as there was only on the upper left hand corner, "Return to R. F. D. No. 5, Salem, Oregon."

You first feel rather out of sorts then have a chill and feel like staying home, and all other old time symptoms of the grip and then four takes possession and then maybe you do have it—the influenza. This is the way it works, according to an old timer who went through the influenza epidemic several years ago at Honolulu.

Will some patriotic democrat please loan the republican headquarters in Salem, two large pictures of President Wilson? Walter Toose who is in command says he only speaks where the American flag is displayed and only works where there may be seen a picture of the president. Hence as he will be around republican headquarters to considerable extent until election day he wants two large pictures of the president prominently displayed. Rather than buy them, he would prefer a gift from some democrat.

Republicans After LaFollette's Scalp

Republican headquarters, representing the republican party in Marion county, is out after the scalp of Alex LaFollette. According to the republican way of looking at it, Mr. LaFollette has committed the unpardonable sin of pledging himself to the republican primaries that he would abide by the decision of the primary election, and then after he had been defeated, bolting the party nomination.

And not only did he bolt his own party, but he has committed another breach of political etiquette by accepting the nomination on the democratic ticket and coming out as a democrat. And all this after having been ever since the time of Abraham Lincoln, a genuine dyed-in-the-wool republican.

It will be remembered that the contest for the nomination on the republican ticket for senator from Marion county to the state legislature was closely contested between Louis Lachmund, W. A. Jones, Alex LaFollette and Sam Brown of Gervais. All had agreed to stand by the result of the primaries. When the counting was over it was found that Mr. LaFollette had been defeated by 90 votes by Mr. Lachmund and by 50 votes by W. A. Jones. Mr. LaFollette and Mr. Brown were defeated. Mr. Brown still stands by the republican party and accepted his defeat in the best of spirit. Mr. LaFollette bolted and is now to all extent and purpose, playing for the democratic vote. Hence republican headquarters in Salem is out after his political scalp.

Official Endorsement. London, Oct. 9.—President Wilson's reply to Prince Max's peace move is satisfactory to the British government, it was learned here this afternoon. No reply however is intended until Germany makes her next move, it was stated.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION TO COMPLETE ROAD

Three Rivers Road In Tillamook Will Be Built By Force Account.

At a meeting of the state highway commission, held in Portland yesterday, the commission decided to do the work by force account on what is known as the Three Rivers road in Tillamook county. This is a forest road project, about 10 miles long, and the estimated cost is $123,000. The work is grading and graveling and it is estimated it will take 10 months.

The commission authorized the expenditure of $15,000 in Wheeler and Gilliam counties for maintenance of the roads. A delegation from Coos county appeared before the commission requesting the commission to provide funds for macadamizing a section of the road between Marshfield and Coquille. The commission appropriated $20,000 for the purpose on condition that the approval of the United States highway council can be obtained. As a spruce logging camp is located on the road, the improvement is being urged as a war necessity.

Since the U. S. highway council has turned down the federal proposal which was to have been constructed at Divide, the Lane county court has petitioned the public service commission for a permit to construct a crossing over the S. P. tracks at grade. It is understood the highway commission will oppose this. The commission approved a proposed post road project between Burns and Crane, in Harney county, to cost approximately $100,000, and the commission will seek the approval of the U. S. highways council. If the road is built the state will pay $40,000, the government $40,000 and the county $20,000.

All rural school districts are now in session except Liberty, Prospect, Shaw Pleasant Ridge, Summit and Parrish Gap and these schools have arranged to begin fall terms next Monday.

Members of Willamette Chapter Red Cross who took so much pains in meeting to elect a nominating committee which was to name officers for the Red Cross the coming year, have found their work all for nothing. And so has the committee that nominated officers. This mix-up in affairs is due to the fact that headquarters in Seattle had adopted some new rules regarding the election of officers, but had not notified Willamette Chapter. Now that the new rules have been announced, all nominations for officers for the coming year are withdrawn. According to the new procedure a board of directors will be chosen consisting of 21. Then this board will select an executive committee of five and this last committee appoint the officers for the coming year.

EMERGENCY BOARD ASKED FOR MONEY

O. A. C. Asks For Large Additional Appropriation For Military Activities

Requests for appropriations amounting to more than $166,200 are being presented to the state emergency board this afternoon. The meeting of the board was called for 10:30 o'clock this morning, but only an informal discussion was held at that time as a quorum was not present. Senator Gus C. Moser and Representative Kuhl missed their train in Portland this morning, but telephoned they would come on the next train. No word has been received from Representative R. N. Blinfield. The other members of the board present this morning were Governor Withycombe, Secretary of State Oleott, State Treasurer Kay and Senator W. D. Wood of Washington county.

Amounts being asked of the board include the following: Oregon state hospital $100,000; state penitentiary $40,000; state training school for boys $14,000; state line board $5000; industrial school for girls $4300; board of inspection of child labor $1000; capitol building and grounds $1700.

In addition to these amounts, a request will be made for funds to enable the Oregon Agricultural college to take care of the great number of army students who have been enrolled. President W. J. Kerr of the college and J. K. Westorford, president of the board of regents, are here to present the request, but Dr. Kerr would not say in advance what amount he would ask for.

At the informal meeting of the board this morning, Dr. K. A. J. MacKenzie of Portland, head of the University of Oregon medical school, presented the needs of the state for public hospitals where the deserving poor can be given proper care when they are in need of surgical or medical treatment. He declared there was urgent need for the immediate construction of a hospital having 1000 beds. He estimated the cost should not exceed $1,000,000. This provoked discussion between Governor Withycombe and State Treasurer Kay as to the scope of authority of the emergency board. Mr. Kay contended that the board has power only to authorize deficiency appropriations when a specific appropriation by the legislature has become exhausted, and he argued that the students' army training courses at the O. A. C. were a new department and the board could not allow an appropriation to take care of them. The governor took the opposite view.

Marshal Foch Appeals To American People

New York, Oct. 9.—Marshal Foch today sent the following cablegram to Benjamin Strong, chairman of the Liberty loan committee.

"The Fourth Liberty Loan will be a magnificent success if your fellow citizens put into the subscriptions the same spirit that your soldiers put into battle."

Vice Admiral Sims sent the following message concerning the loan:

"The Liberty loan campaign is the military offensive of our people. Their material support and will to victory are the very life blood of the armed forces. Their contribution is the expression of this will. The navy's confidence in the support sustains its fighting edge. The people's confidence in the navy inspired us to offer the highest devotion—even the supreme sacrifice."

Naval subscriptions, according to the Liberty loan bureau, are now more than $16,000,000 and Secretary Daniels has sent out the Sims message with one of his own, suggesting even wider response from the whole service.

Directors Of Red Cross To Be Elected Oct. 23

In accordance with new instructions received at Willamette Chapter Headquarters, Monday, October 7, from the manager of the Northwestern Division, A. R. C. the date for the annual meeting has been changed from October 15

Soldiers From Cantonments May Be Sent To Willamette

It is probable that the requirement for becoming associated with the students army training corps of Willamette university may be lowered altho the instructions received today are rather indefinite.

At the general cantonments, the government has a number of soldiers who would like to take additional college training but who have not graduated from a high school. It is possible that many of these men will be sent to the different universities in the northwest.

While a member of the S. A. T. C. might be admitted to the universities without the usual high school credits, this would apply to only those who have been inducted into the service.

The registration day at the university totaled 273 with new students coming in each day.

to Wednesday, October 23, 2 p. m., at the Salem Commercial Club auditorium.

The original purpose of the October 15 meeting was to elect an executive board of five members for the chapter, but the new ruling requires that a board of directors, consisting of 21 members, be elected. The first duty of the board of directors will be to hold a meeting and elect a chapter executive committee.

Everyone holding a Red Cross membership certificate is urged to be present and take part in this meeting, October 23.

Two books were received today by the Salem public library of interest to those who wish to study a little deeper into the present world conflict. One is entitled, "The Fourth Policy of Woodrow Wilson" and the other "History of Europe from 1862 until 1914."
