Say Women Working Where Men Should Be

That women are being employed in industries for which they are not physically fit, while thousands of men were still employed in the manufacture will be done by women, was the finding of the conference of labor commissioners held recently in Washington, D. C., according to a report of the conference submitted today to Labor Commissioner Hoff by C. H. Gram, republican nominee for labor commissioner. Mr. Gram attended the conference as a representative of the state labor department. "It was the unanimous opinion of the conference," says Gram in his report, "that the employment of women in hazardous occupations and the employment for which women are not physically fit, such as saw mills, planing mills, wooden box factories, sash and door factories, iron foundries, brass foundries, machine shops, ship yards, etc., was not justified at this time. It was shown that thousands of men were still employed in the manufacture of clothing, clerking in stores, doing office work and as private chauffeurs, all of which is essentially work that can be performed by women." Mr. Gram says that complaint is being made by labor unions that, under the guise of war necessity, women are being introduced more and more in employments that are physically injurious. He recommends that a survey be made of this state to determine the percentage of men who are employed in non-essential occupations or work that can be performed by women without injury to their health. He suggests that this survey be made in conjunction with the community labor boards, which are now organized throughout the state. Employment of women at night should be discouraged, the conference declared. And in states which have more stringent labor laws than the federal law, the federal authorities will aid in enforcing the state laws, while if the federal law is more stringent than the state laws the federal laws will be enforced. Attempts have been made to send out reports that the enforcement of labor laws should be relaxed, says the report. Speaking of this Gram's report says: "Authorities in each state whose duty it is to enforce all state legislation for the protection of labor should pay no attention to any order or request for setting aside of any state labor laws on the plea that an emergency exists on account of the war unless said request comes directly from the president of the United States, secretary of war or the secretary of the navy."

LIBERTY LOAN

Continued from page one) row", McAdoo said, the government still would have an enormous financial problem to solve which would necessitate the raising of much more money. More expenditures are anticipated and those expenses will hang over until long after peace has come.

Reports that the loan is to be extended for another week were again denied by the secretary. He said he was convinced that the American people would rise to their full duty and subscribe the loan.

that the subscription of the navy to the liberty loan totalled $28,000,000, which is $3,000,000 above the quota set for the navy.

Uncle Sam's jackies throughout the world are enthusiastically subscribing to the loan and some ships have subscribed en masse. According to Admiral Cowie, in charge of the navy liberty loan campaign, the showing by the navy is "equivalent to the sinking of submarines." Subscriptions are still coming in.

Chairman Hurley of the shipping board today appealed today to ship workers all over the country to "come across" for the loan. Telegrams were sent to all the shipyards reading:

"We must win the war. We can't do it without the $6,000,000,000 the government asks you to lend to it. We can't get along without this money. We can't continue to build ships to carry our boys to France or to carry them home again when the German government finally admits the complete failure of its plan for world domination unless this loan is a success.

"We will need a large part of the $6,000,000,000 loan if we are to finish the construction of the fleet under way and have a merchant marine that will give us prosperity at the end of the war. Only the failure of this liberty loan can take the heart out of our boys or halt their progress."

Reports from Districts.

San Francisco, Oct. 18.—At noon today Pacific coast states had subscribed $275,925,750 to the fourth liberty loan, as against a quota of $402,000,000. This represents money actually in the bank. San Francisco's official total at noon was $75,129,250, against a quota of about $108,000,000.

Campaign Manager Weeks estimated that money subscribed but not yet officially reported will carry the twelfth federal reserve district above the $200,000,000 mark. The district must subscribe $492,000,000 by tomorrow night.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—All counties of southern California excepting Los Angeles county went over the top on the liberty loan today, the loan committee announced.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Sixty-five million dollars short of its quota, $262,000,000, today Chicago entered into the final hours of its liberty loan campaign. The seventh federal reserve district, including Chicago, has yet to raise $84,000,000 of its $870,000,000 quota.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 18.—The Columbus area of eleven central Ohio counties today topped its fourth liberty loan quota of $25,902,550, with the aid of a $3,000,000 over-subscription from Franklin county (Columbus).

Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 18.—Dayton went over the top today with an over-subscription of $726,950. The quota was $7,269,200.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 18.—Connecticut went over the top in the liberty loan today with a grand total of $71,423,000, which is several thousand dollars over her quota.

Subscription in New England for today totalled $34,970,000. The grand total is $110,466,000, which is $89,234,000 short of the required quota of $200,000,000.

Have We Done Our Utmost?

Many of us, when the war is won and peace is declared, will feel an uneasy reproach that perhaps we did not do what we really could to help while we yet had the chance—that we did not invest our dollars on the side of the scales that brought Victory. In these tremendous moments of the world struggle we cannot falter, relax, or allow ourselves in weariness to fall short of our task; the investment we make now is an investment for all time—an investment for home, freedom, justice, righteousness.
