tary committee were as follows: "First, that it is essential that the nations now united in the fight for liberty should maintain their close and cordial association until the dangers still threatening have been removed by a complete overthrow of the enemy powers, and the risk of a resurgence in the future of disasters such as have now befallen mankind has been averted. "Second, that it is of paramount importance that the governments now associated in the fight for liberty should forthwith proceed to prepare in consultation a scheme for the establishment after the war of machinery designed to secure and develop a society of nations as a proper means for attaining a durable peace, guarded by the joint action of free nations. "Third, that the reconstitution of central Europe must be on the basis of nationalities, regard being had both to the right of the peoples to determine their own destinies and to safeguard essential to the peace of Europe. "Fourth, that the losses of mercantile tonnage due to the submarine warfare should be made good as far as possible by the transfer of enemy tonnage. "Fifth, the committee urges upon the governments associated in the war the necessity of constituting an allied independent air force for the purpose of overcoming, if need be, the resistance of the enemy by a campaign of raids over territory and suggests that the most effective method of accomplishing this would be by common industrial control of the production of aeronautical material. "Sixth, that the committee requests the associated governments to set up forthwith a commission to make proposals for the international aerial legislation with the object of organizing definite air routes."

ECONOMY CRY HIDES SINGLE TAX VOTERS WARNED TO LOOK OUT FOR CAMOUFLAGE IN MEASURE

The "economy" slogan is a splendid idea, and the American public has taken to it as a duck takes to water. Its practical application as a win-the-war idea is a fine thing and as a developer of national thrift it can't be beaten. There is such a thing, however, as working the idea overtime, and there is such a thing as using it, under the guise of patriotic ardor, to carry out the most diabolical schemes of designing spite-workers. Thus we find Sam Jackson and the Portland Journal waging a bitter campaign against the country editors of the state of Oregon, in advocating the delinquents tax law amendment and a new legal rate law. "Economy" shouts the Journal and its wealthy editor, and of course to bring about a real era of economy, the voting public is urged to support the two bills bearing the earmarks of Samuel Jackson. Economy is a fine quality for the state, as well as the individual, and were Mr. Jackson's motives actuated purely from the economy viewpoint, his daily editorials might ring with sincerity. Look out for these laws. Editor Jackson has supported frank legislation before—most notably when the single tax idea was smothered by the voters of the state. The present statutes which Mr. Jackson would place on the Oregon law books, would have no more to do with an era of economy than would a bill to cut down the price of a shave. The thinking voter will give both measures a close analysis, and the thinking voter of the state will come to a conclusion on the worth of the measures about as follows: Both measures should be vigorously swatted by the voters, for the very same and simple reason that the present laws, passed by the Oregon state legislature, are fulfilling their mission, by protecting the public from the wiles of the title grabber. Any law that is protective and is of practical service to the people of the state should be let alone. To be more specific the present delinquent tax law provides for publication of the delinquent list—but ONLY after a mail notice has been sent to the delinquent and has failed to fulfill its mission. In other words the publication is simply a precautionary measure to inform the delinquent who has changed his address, or who through some reason fails to get his mail notice, that his taxes are due and payable. The effect of such a law cuts out the chances for the title grabber who hangs around the tax collector's office from the moment the taxes become delinquent, in an effort to line up and pick up some so-called "snaps." A "snap" to the title grabber is the picking up of your property or mine, for the taxes due plus penalty and interest. It's a great business to follow, but just the same it is being done in every county in the state. Jackson would cut out this publication from the present law. Any sane voter can see the result. Let the present law stand the way it is, if you are in favor of protecting the taxpayer. The other bill is to cut down the present rate for legal advertising. At the present time the law fixes the legal rate at 5 cents per line. The Portland papers ask usually $1 to $1.50 per line for their commercial advertising. The state law makes the rate about 45 cents per inch. The thinking voter will decide for himself whether the rate is exorbitant. The newspaper man has a right to live. They are doing a most meritorious work in boosting bond sales and in fact every line of war activity, and have won highest praise from President Wilson for their patriotic publicity work, which by the way is all donated to Uncle Sam. The thinking voter will concede that the country newspaperman has a right to exist. It is no time to throttle the press of Oregon, or any other state. Swat the Jackson measures—both of them.

day) was marked by heavy artillery fire on both sides of the Meuse," his communique said. "An enemy counter attack against the Bois Billon was repulsed. In the Woivre, our detachments successfully raided the enemy's lines and captured prisoners. "In spite of the poor weather conditions our aviators were again active on the front of the first army and shot down three enemy airplanes and one observation balloon. All our machines returned." Second B of the communique follows: "It was reported at 11:55 o'clock, evening October 27: 'Northwest of Grand Pre patrols of the 78th division early in the morning of October 27, entered LaBelle Joyeuse, which they found unoccupied.' "It was reported at 10:35 a. m., October 28: 'Increased enemy artillery activity, with harassing fire, high explosives and gas, on Bantheville, Cunel, Brioulles and the Bois De Damevoux.'"

Italians Make Report

Rome, Oct. 29.—Italian troops, after storming the heights of Colofoso, have entered Suzzana, four miles southwest of Conegliano, the Italian war office announced today. The Italians have crossed the Montebello river, beyond the Piave. Four thousand additional prisoners were counted yesterday (making an official total of 13,000 in two days). "From the slopes of Valtobuadene to the Treviso-Ordezza railway (a front of about 30 miles), after two days of fighting, we are in firm possession of the left bank of the river." Alano, on the left bank of the Orzic river, was recaptured. (This village was captured by the Italians early in the offensive, but was retaken by the Austrians.) "The Eighth army has carried the heights of Colofoso and entered Suzzana," the communique stated. "Advancements of the Tenth army are on the left bank of the Montebello. Numerous guns and 4,000 prisoners taken yesterday have been counted. Others are still on the left bank of the Piave. "On the left bank of the Orzic, Alano Di Piave has been taken, with several hundred prisoners."

Killed While On Way To Attend Friend's Funeral

Oregon City, Oct. 29.—Ernest Perkins a resident of West Linn, was almost instantly killed Sunday morning about 10 o'clock when the automobile in which he was riding was struck by a southbound Southern Pacific passenger train at the crossing at the north city limits of Canby. He was on his way to Salem to attend the funeral of his friend, John L. Bush, who died at West Linn Friday, a victim of influenza. Perkins was still alive when picked up and taken to the Huntley drug store in Canby but died before medical aid could reach him. No one was with him at the time of the accident, and consequently it was impossible to explain how it happened. Perkins' stepfather and other relatives were in an automobile ahead of him but knew nothing of the accident until notified by telephone after reaching Salem. Perkins was born in Polk county, Or. 28 years ago. His mother, Mrs. Mary Weston, and a sister, Miss Maud E. Perkins, reside in West Linn. A half brother, Claude Weston, lives in Afton, Iowa. Perkins had lived in West Linn for the past 10 years and was employed in the paper mills. The body was brought to Oregon City Sunday evening and is at the Holman & Pace undertaking parlors.

MAN AND CATHE

I'm standing at my lathe all day And this is what I hear it say: "The best of you, the best of me Are needed now across the sea. We do not hear the cannon roar, No aeroplane comes sailing o'er Our heads, and yet from day to day We, too, are soldiers in the fray. "Oh, hand that guide, me now, be true, A mighty task is mine to do. 'Tis time to shape and cut the steel, With every turning of my wheel. I'm building for that better day When tyranny shall pass away. Speed up! Speed up! This think I make My save a thousand lives at stake." I whisper to my lathe: "Be strong, We toil today to right a wrong. Some of us march to file and drum, My music is your busy hum, And this the hymn you sing to me: Always, 'My Country, 'Tis of Thee.' This very day, this very hour We'll serve the flag with all our power."

Replies To Roosevelt's Attack On President

Borne, Oct. 29.—'The world * war will not last longer than a * few days; we must arrest the * vain flow of our blood,' declares the socialist newspaper Vorwarts, which is now regarded as virtually a German government organ. "It is upon Austria's Bureau-crats, who sent the ultimatum to Serbia, that the responsibility for the war rests the heaviest. Austria's disappearance will end the war." * * * * * Copenhagen, Oct. 29.—Commenting on the Austrian note, German liberal newspapers say there is no use to complain and that Austria's action was no surprise to Germany. "We must regard Austria as definitely out of the war," is the consensus of German press comment. Austrian newspaper, consider the alliance with Germany as finally broken.

SAVED FROM DEATH BY HIS STEEL HELMET—So that all may see what saved his life, this British "Tommy" on his way to the field dressing station, is proudly exhibiting his steel helmet. A piece of shrapnel has torn a hole through it and was wounded him in the head. Had it not been for the helmet his name might have been among those on the casualty list.
