Word has been received in the city of the accidental death of Sergeant Major Harry E. Mason, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Mason of North 16th street. He was killed while on duty at Fort Seward, Alaska. Besides his parents, he is survived by a wife and two children who will come to the United States with the body. He is also survived by three brothers, Ralph Mason of Salem, Edward Mason of Camp Lewis and Herbert Mason of Alpin, Oregon. Funeral arrangements are in charge of the Terwilliger home and will be announced later.

George P. Litchfield, court bailiff of department No. 1 of the circuit court says that he cast his first ballot in 1894 over in Polk county and that he did not begin his Marion county voting until in 1899. He says that in those days one had to step up to the voting booth and speak out loud the names of those he wished to vote for and that any person interested might stand by and find out just exactly how any one voted. For many years Salem had four wards and four voting precincts and people were not confused when it came to election day.

Voters in precinct 11 of Salem, Oregon, should feel proud of their precinct as in some respects there isn't another like it in the United States. The distinction of this precinct comes from the fact that it includes a supreme court building, a state capital building, a civic center of the state capital, a city postoffice with rooms used by the federal authorities, and last but not of considerable importance the county court house. Precinct 11 has 12th street for its eastern boundary, High street on the west, Center street on the north and Ferry street on the south. George P. Litchfield who says he has been in the state capitals of 33 states says there isn't a precinct anywhere that can beat No. 11 of Salem for collecting the official building of a state, county and city.

HEAVY VOTING MARKS POLITICAL BATTLE IN MIDDLE WEST TODAY

Scattering Returns From Kansas And New England Coming In Now.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—The middle west went to the polls early today. Every central western state in which close congressional battles were expected, with the exception of Nebraska, reported heavy morning balloting. Clear weather prevailed except in the northwest section of the Mississippi valley, where skies were overcast. An unusually heavy early vote was cast in Chicago, where ten congressmen were being elected. Republican headquarters here made sweeping claims for the election of Representative Medill McCormick to the senate over Senator James Hamilton Lewis and predicted victory for republican candidates in each of the 25 congressional districts. Democratic leaders declared Lewis will carry the state by 75,000, and that the democrats will capture a dozen congressional seats. Kansas, where important senatorial and congressional contests are being decided, reported a very heavy early vote.

The Morehead-Norris senatorial fight occupied the center of interest in Nebraska. The contest was held during the early vote in the cities.

Ten congressmen were being chosen in Wisconsin, where republicans predicted a sweeping victory. Senator Knute Nelson, republican, opposed by W. G. Calderwood, independent, was fighting for re-election in Minnesota. Two congressmen were to be named.

Iowa's congressional fights centered in three districts where democratic candidates had made a determined fight. Senator Kenyon, republican, and Charles R. Keyes, democrat, contested for the senatorship.

Heavy voting was reported throughout Missouri, where the democrats expected a clean sweep in the 18 congressional districts. Democratic congressional candidates were unopposed in Texas and Arkansas. South Dakota's three congressional districts promised stirring fights.

The three republican candidates for congress in North Dakota, backed by the Non-Partisan League, claimed certain victory. In Oklahoma, Senator Owen, democrat, was opposed for re-election by W. B. Johnson, republican.

Eight congressmen were being named. Wisconsin, North Dakota, Kansas, Oklahoma, Iowa, Nebraska and Arkansas were electing governors.

Early Scattering Returns. Brockton, Mass., Nov. 5.—Norwell, the first town in the state to report returns in today's election, show 110 votes for Weeks, republican senatorial candidate, against 50 for Walsh, his democratic opponent. Thomas Lawson, "big business" opponent, polled 27 votes.

For governor, Coolidge received 176 and his democratic adversary, Long, polled 49. Counting votes commenced at noon.

New Ashford, Mass., Nov. 5.—Complete returns here gave Weeks 8, Walsh 2, Tromas 1. Vote for governor was Coolidge, republican 9; Long, democrat 2.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 5.—Incomplete count of the ballots cast today in 20 out of 32 Topeka precincts showed the following standing: For senator: Capper, republicans, 1, 137; Thomson, democrat 427. For congress in the first district: Anthony, republican, 901; Whitney, democrat, 609. For governor: Allen, republican, was leading Lansden, democrat, by four to one.

Salina, Kan., Nov. 5.—Governor Capper, republican, was leading Thompson, democrat for United States senator by a vote of 89 to 56 in the early count here today.

For congress in the fifth Kansas district Strong, republican, was leading Holvering, the democratic candidate for reelection, 69 to 46. Allen, republican, was leading Lansden, democrat for governor by 2 to 1.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 5.—Practically little or no interest was attached to the election today. With the exception of the fight for the seat on the administrative board left vacant by the recent resignation of chairman Hirschberger, election day would be hardly noticeable.

PRESIDENT REFERS GERMAN TO FOCH FOR ARMISTICE TERMS

Tell Them Request Must Be Made On Battlefields Of France.

Washington, Nov. 5.—President Wilson this afternoon notified Germany that she can get terms of an armistice from General Foch.

At the same time, in a note which Secretary Lansing gave the Swiss minister for transmission to Germany, it was revealed that the allies accepted President Wilson's fourteen peace principles with two reservations.

The reservations were: The allies must reserve to themselves complete freedom of interpretation in the peace conference of Wilson's clause on freedom of the seas.

Germany must make compensation for all damages she has done to the allied civilian population and their property.

This latter is an addition to President Wilson's provision that all invaded territories must be restored as well as evacuated and freed.

President Wilson, it was stated, agreed with the modification and addition to the two respective points in question in his peace formula.

The note follows: "In my note of October, 23, 1918, I advised you that the president had transmitted his correspondence with the German authorities to the governments with which the government of the United States is associated as a belligerent, with the suggestion that if those governments were disposed to effect peace upon the terms and principles indicated, their military advisers and the military advisers of the United States be asked to submit to the governments associated against Germany the necessary terms of such an armistice as would fully protect the interests of the peoples involved and insure to the associated governments the unrestricted power to safeguard and enforce the details of the peace to which the German government had agreed.

No packing house in Salem has as yet received any money from shipments made to the United States. The Drager Fruit Co. has shipped up to date about 4,000,000 pounds of the United States allotment but none to the allies.

Mr. Marple who was in the city yesterday aided greatly in strengthening out several kinds in the machinery of shipping across the water. Boxes will be strapped but the allied governments will pay for the extra strapping.

They must point out, however, that clause two, relating to what is usually described as the freedom of the seas, is open to various interpretations some of which they could not accept. They must, therefore, reserve to themselves, complete freedom on this subject when they enter the peace conference.

Further in the conditions of peace laid down in his address to congress of January 8, 1918, the president declared that invaded territories must be restored as well as evacuated and freed. The allied governments feel that no doubt ought to be allowed to exist as to what this provision implies. By it, they understand that compensation will be made by Germany for all injustice done to the civilian population of the allies and their property by the aggression of Germany, by land, by sea and from the air.

"I am instructed by the president to say that he is in agreement with the interpretations set forth in the last paragraph of the memorandum above quoted. I am further instructed by the president to request you to notify the German government that Marshal Foch has been authorized by the government of the United States and the allied governments to receive properly accredited representatives of the German government and to communicate to them the terms of an armistice."

He is survived by his father E. O. Donaldson of Salem, and two sisters Mrs. W. E. Kurtz, of Salem and Mrs. T. L. Pougade of Silverton.

The body will be brought to Salem for burial. As yet no funeral arrangements have been announced.

HOLDER.—At his home, 605 Wilbur street, Nov. 4, 1918, Willie Shaver, holder at the age of 18 years. Death was due to influenza and pneumonia. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Holder.
