

SOCIETY

By CAROL S. DIBBLE

"It is strange that she should be gone. She apparently had an inexhaustible hold on life. But people like her are never gone in reality. They remain in a multitude of associations and happy memories. With time when the first agony of grief is past, the thought of them becomes a kind of fragrance. So far as she was concerned there are no disturbing reflections, no regrets. She made life a succession of good days. But the suddenness was hard on those for whom her presence made a kind of radiance."

A GLIMPSE into the Red Cross booth in the Portland Railway Light and Power offices, where the Christmas cartons for the soldiers overseas are being distributed and shipped, shows that the Salem boys across the water are not being forgotten in any sense of the word by their friends and relatives at home. Though the booth was only opened for business on Tuesday, the committee in charge has already registered the names of over two dozen senders from here and the respective recipients over there.

These cartons are of standard size, 3 by 4 by 9 inches and must not weigh over two pounds, fifteen ounces, before being wrapped, after packing. When the box is packed, unsealed and unwrapped, it must be taken to the collection booth for inspection. The ships will then affix sufficient postage on their parcels to carry them to Boston, N. J.

These cartons are only given out at the headquarters booth upon presentation of a label on the part of the would be sender, who has received said label from some soldier overseas, designating the soldier's authorized privilege to a Xmas package. After the carton has been finally packed, passed in the inspection of the Red Cross committee as to contents and weight, and been wrapped in stout paper, the Christmas label bearing the address of the man for whom it is intended will be placed on it. Another label certifying that the inspection has been completed by the Red Cross is put on the package, which is left in charge of the committee until delivered to the postal authorities.

Naturally it is expected that nothing will be packed in these Christmas parcels, which will not keep fresh from the time of packing until Xmas. Dried fruits and other food products should be packed in small tin or wooden boxes, one quarter to one half pound size and then placed in the paste board carton.

A question has arisen as to whether packages may be sent to the nurses, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. workers, Armenian and Serbian soldiers in the allied armies and other war workers, who would not be classified as American soldiers. As the inquiry in this regard was rather general information on the matter was wired from the Red Cross headquarters at Seattle, Wash. This stated that workers in France belonging to the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Knights of Columbus, Salvation Army, nurses and soldiers in the allied army might be forwarded Christmas parcels if the person here desiring to send a package to anyone listed in the above classifications, apply at the Red Cross headquarters, at the United States National bank building, for a permit. Upon receipt of this permit the committee at the Xmas booth in the Portland Railway Light and Power offices, will then give the applicant a standard carton. Hence the way has been opened for all of those in the allied service from this country to be remembered at the Christmas season by their friends in the United States.

The booth will be open as late as next Wednesday, November 20. After Wednesday no Christmas parcel will be accepted for shipment. Mrs. W. M. Hamilton is chairman of the committee directing the shipment of the packages at the booth. Working with her are: Mrs. C. S. Hamilton, Mrs. William E. Kirk, Mrs. J. H. Farrar, Mrs. George Graham, Miss Mattie Beatty. Two committee members are at the booth each day, thus affording the convenience of an alternating arrangement.

A pretty event of the week was the celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Vick which took place Wednesday evening at their residence on the Portland road. Masses of fluffy chrysanthemums of a deep yellow shade were used in appropriate decoration throughout the rooms. The evening was pleasantly passed

About sixteen relatives and intimate friends participated in the gaiety of the occasion. The children of the honored couple present at the affair were, Mrs. S. H. Snyder, George F. Vick, Charles H. Mrs. John W. Todd was hostess last night at a charming little dinner party at her residence on Bellevue street. A glowing bowl of marjolins centered the table which was circled by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Carrier, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lee and son, Paul, and Superintendent and Mrs. Todd.

Miss Minnie Goehring gave a pretty informal luncheon Wednesday, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Miller Bevier, 775 North Cottage street, asking as her guests a few of the Salem teachers of the neighborhood. Miss Goehring has lately arrived in Salem from Grand Island, Nebraska. She is an instructor in the junior high school.

The home of Mrs. W. E. Vincent was the scene of a merry gathering this afternoon when Miss Catherine Vincent and Miss Jeanette Vandervoort entertained a group of friends at a jolly "juvenile party." The guests, consisting of a variety of charming children's costumes. All manner of novel games, suggestive of playdays were rejuvenated and made the inspiration of a gala frolic. Guessing games and long ago school time diversions followed one another in jolly succession. And just as of old the gaieties culminated late in the afternoon with the serving hour, when refreshments carrying out a cunning red, white and blue color scheme were served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Vincent.

The rooms were decorated in flags and other red, white and blue regalia. An appropriate and unique decorative feature was furnished by the arrangement on the walls of an array of well known advertisements, portraying small folk in various amusing and interesting situations.

Those bidden were: Miss Lolla Millard, Miss Florence Young, Miss Lucile Moore, Miss Gertrude West, Miss Madeline McEvoy, Miss Frances Welch, Miss Mildred Welch, Miss Frances Hodge and Miss Esther Vincent.

Miss Muriel Steeves and Miss Charlotte Croisan were charming hostesses last evening, when they entertained a bevy of Willamette girls at a delightful little supper party at a delightful North Church street.

A cut glass bowl of richly-bred marjolins formed a lovely centerpiece for the table and accentuated a gold color scheme, further developed in the exquisite place cards and other dainty table appointments.

The drawing room was prettily adorned with clusters of chrysanthemums of a delicate pink shade. The hours were gayly whiled away with music and talk.

Covers were placed for Miss Elizabeth Tebbins, Miss Margaret Legg, Miss Leila Ruby, Miss Lorelei Blatchford, Miss Mildred Stevens, Miss Fay McKennis.

Reed college was the first institution west of the Atlantic coast to conduct courses for reconstruction aides. The work was undertaken, with the aid of the medical school of the University of Oregon, at the request of the surgeon general, and Reed college was the only institution in the west officially approved by the war department for the training of reconstruction aides. The war department no longer publishes a list of approved institutions, but last advice from Washington indicate that every graduate recommended by Reed college has been called, or will soon be called, to military hospitals in this country or in France.

Reconstruction aides in physiotherapy are civilian employees of the medical department of the army. Their work is distinct from that of the doctor and of the nurse. They are not "nurses' aides." They give massage and remedial exercises prescribed for patients in hospitals and other sanitary formations of the army.

Head aides are selected by promotion. For every ten aides in a hospital there is one head aid, who is responsible for the work of the aides. A number of women on graduation from the Reed college course at once received appointments as head aides.

Mrs. R. W. Walton, who has been passing the past ten days in Salem with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Smith, has returned to Lebanon, where she is on the faculty of the Lebanon high school. A coterie of Willamette girls were bidden to the home of Miss Florence Schaefer, 393 North 14th street last night for an evening of informal gaiety. A quiet and altogether informal dinner was given by Mrs. E. A. Kurtz and Mrs. C. E. Knowland at the Kurtz home, 428 North Church street, last Sunday to a small party of immediate friends which served the joint purpose of a welcoming repast to Messrs. P. E. Fullerton, E. A. Kurtz and L. B. Davis who had just returned from a fishing excursion to the Big Nestucca river in Tillamook county, and as a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. John L. Savage of Portland, who were the week and guests of relatives and friends in Salem.

The four course feast, which formed the principal and interest centering feature of entertainment, was quite in keeping with the highly cultivated cuisine art of the hostesses as well as with the patriotic restrictions of the times and the social intercourse and entertainment of the evening was in strict accordance with influenza epidemic prohibitions. The piece-de-resistance of the dinner was the prize trophy of the fishing party, a 12-pound silverside salmon.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John L. Savage of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. C. Lee Canfield, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Fullerton, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Davis and daughter, Miss Lolita, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Knowland and daughter, Miss Pauline, and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Kurtz and two sons, Masters Chester and Alvin.

Musical circles of Salem continue to follow with much interest the success with which a former Oregonian is meeting in New York's field of music. It is Hartridge Whipp, baritone, who a little over a year ago left Portland in search of a wider field for his talent.

Of Mr. Whipp's latest achievements, Henry T. Finch, eminent critic of the New York Evening Post writes, under date of October 22: "The new season has already demonstrated one fact: That the singers have put Grieg on their banner this year. It is well that this should be so, for, as Daniel Gregory Mason has truly said, these songs are often as spontaneous as Schubert's, as impassioned as Schumann's and as finished in art as Robert Franz's. And they are admirably adapted to the voice." More Collegiate women who have been lending their efforts towards enlarging the Woman's building fund at the University of Oregon, will be interested in the work of Mrs. A. H. Schaff, a gifted miniature painter from Boston, who, having recently come to the coast, is giving the proceeds of her commissions just now to the building fund.

Mrs. Schaff has been a Portland visitor the past few weeks, where she exhibited some of the beautiful miniature she had done of prominent people in the state. One that was especially attractive was that of Mrs. P. L. Campbell of Eugene, the wife of President Campbell of the University of Oregon.

Mrs. Schaff is now in Eugene, but will return to Portland soon to work on some of the commissions she has received for miniatures of children and grown-ups. On the eve of her departure for Eugene, Mrs. George Geringer gave a luncheon in her honor at her residence in Portland.

The friends of Mrs. C. D. Gabrielsen will be glad to know that she will remain in Salem for the winter, instead of going to Portland as she originally planned. She will make her home at the Marion hotel for the next few months.

over they are not German, so everybody ought to be happy. "The American baritone, Hartridge Whipp, made his Astorian debut last night notable by including in his list Grieg's opus 44, 'From the Mountains and the Fjord,' a group of five songs, with prologue and epilogue which the great Norwegian pianist in 1896, during a tour with the poet Drachmann. Two of its numbers, 'Pagan' and 'Barnhild,' are so simple and tuneful as folk songs, and should be placed on many programs that lack room for the whole group of seven. Mr. Whipp, who had previously made a favorable impression, sang them in the true spirit, and with the requisite pictorial sense, or regard for local color.

"There was German music on his program, by Bach and Handel, and nobody protested; one number being from Bach's 'Phebus and Pan,' which is in the repertory of the American singers at the Park theater, and which was done in London last year. There was English music by Cecil Forsyth, French by Saint-Saens, Massenet, Debibes, American by Marion Bauer, and by Walter Kramer, whose fine 'We Two' was much appreciated by the audience. In all of these Mr. Whipp showed his genuine skill in interpretation as well as his fine voice to advantage."

Pershing's Official Report.
Washington, Nov. 9.—American forces Friday afternoon drove the Germans from their last hold on the heights of the Meuse, scene of the great battle of Verdun in 1916, General Pershing reported today.

"On both sides of the Meuse the day was marked by heavy machine gun fighting and sniping," the statement said. "There was heavy artillery firing in the region of Sedan and east of the Meuse."

The Yanks advanced six kilometers on a front of 14 kilometers, taking more than a half dozen towns and villages. "This afternoon (Friday) French and American units operating under the command of the First American army, wrested from the enemy his last hold on the heights east of the Meuse, movable as the scene of the great battle of Verdun, in 1916, and drove him back into the lowlands of the Woevre," today's communiqué stated.

"On a front of 14 kilometers we advanced to a depth of six kilometers, taking Lissey, Breheville, Fouvillers, Duvillers, Flabas and other towns and villages.

"Along the line of the Meuse from Willefranche to Wadecourt, lively artillery and machine gun combats have taken place during the day. Six additional guns of heavy caliber, many more machine guns, 2,000 rifles and a large airplane workshop, captured during our advance west of the Meuse, have been reported.

"In the Woevre on the front of the Second American army our patrols were very active, capturing prisoners in the course of several successful enterprises near Lake Lachuso.

"Despite adverse weather conditions our aviators, flying at a height of 100 meters carried out a number of reconnaissance missions. They bombed and machine gunned concentrations of enemy troops in the region of Balon and Arnelon and blew up an ammunition dump at Giberly. Four enemy balloons were destroyed and three enemy airplanes were shot down during the day. Some of our planes are missing."

cated that important cities in all parts of the empire are in the hands of the revolutionists.

Following reports that the council of workmen and peasants in Munich had declared Bavaria a republic, it was announced that the revolutionists are believed to have seized Dresden, capital of Saxony. A dispatch from Stuttgart, capital of Wurtemberg, said the cabinet of that state had resigned.

Workmen and soldiers' soviets are reported now to control Ludtadt, Eckersforde and Brunswick. Rioting is reported in Essen, seat of the great Krupp gun works.

Other important cities said to be held by the revolutionists are Hamburg, Kiel, Bremen, Tilsit, Schwezin, Bremerhaven, Wilhelmshaven and Plensburg. Revolting Sailors Take Navy
Practically the entire German navy with the possible exception of the Third squadron, has been taken over by revolting sailors.

A wireless dispatch from Berlin says that Chancellor Maximilian "in view of the altered parliamentary situation" has sent in his resignation. It has not yet been accepted. Apparently the chancellor's last official act before turning in his resignation was to send out the following proclamation to Germans abroad: "The victory for which many hoped has not been granted us, but the German people have won a greater victory, for it has conquered itself and its belief in the justice of might."
