PRESS CENSOR IS NO LONGER NECESSARY
George Creel Issues Statement Regarding Censorship Regulations.
 Washington, Nov. 14.—George Creel, chairman of the committee on public information, today issued the following statement regarding censorship regulations:
 "It has been agreed that there is no further necessity for the operation of the volunteer censorship under which the press has guarded from the enemy the military policies, plans and troop movements of the United States. The agreement may be considered as no longer binding and the card carrying the request of the government is herewith cancelled. The secretary of war and the secretary of the navy and all others connected with the direction of America's war effort join in sincere acknowledgement of the debt of gratitude owing to the press of the United States for the honorable discharge of a responsibility. Without force of law and under no larger compulsion than their own patriotism, the overwhelming majority of newspapers have given unflinching obedience to every desire of the government in all matters of military secrecy, carrying through successfully a tremendous experiment in trust."

Court House News
 Grace Alice Brandt has filed suit for a divorce from Otto Conrad Brandt. She alleges they were married in 1909 in Calgary; that they have no children and that while living in Canada, he abandoned her in 1915.
 Georget P. Palas was granted a divorce yesterday from Bertha Palas. He alleges that she deserted him September 13, 1917. The decree provides that she shall have no interest or claim to his real estate or property.
 David Rowland, living out towards Silverton, has filed suit in the circuit court against B. E. Otjen and Earl Wood for $200 and $50 attorney's fees. He alleges that he entered into a contract with Otjen to pile 150 cords of wood at the rate of $2.50 a cord. The wood was to be placed on the Earl Wood farm. That he did pile the wood and that for his services he has received only $125.00. He asks the court for the $200 he alleges is due him and enough extra to pay an attorney.
 In the county court Walter L. Hatch, administrator of the estate of Elias Hatch, filed his final papers which were approved by the court and the administrator discharged from further liability.
 The Michael O'Neil case has hopped up again. It has been wandering its way through the county court since James O'Neil died December 2, 1914. There is about $15,000 involved and the estate is in the court from the fact that James O'Neil was not sure whether his brother and two sisters were living. Hence he made a will and appointed T. K. Ford executor, wherein it was provided that if the relatives were not located within ten years, Mr. Ford should distribute the property according to the will.
 About a year after the death of James O'Neil, there appeared Michael O'Neil of Jersey City, N. J., claiming, through his attorney, John Bayne, the O'Neil property. T. K. Ford was not convinced that the real brother had appeared and refused to hand over the property.
 October 30, 1918, Mr. Ford appeared before the county court and asked that the case be taken to the circuit court on the grounds that the county court had no jurisdiction in matters of real estate.
 November 13, 1918, John Bayne, attorney for Michael O'Neil, appears before the county court and opposed the motion of Mr. Ford putting forth the claim that the circuit court has no jurisdiction in the matter, but that the jurisdiction is with the county court.
 The final account of B. E. Robertson and Norah H. Robertson, administrators of the estate of Benjamin Robertson, was presented to the county court, and December 16, 1918, was set as the date for the final hearing.
 Andy Anderson, age 27, formerly a resident of Salem died yesterday in Portland from influenza. He was formerly employed in Salem with the Capital City Transfer Co. He is survived by a wife and two children. He was a member of the Eagles and of the Bridge and Structural Iron workers and Pile Drivers local of Portland.
 The Auburn school district just east of Salem district is reported by canvassers to be showing a patriotic disposition and yesterday the report came in that not a single canvasser had been turned down. While the district may not pledge its quota, yet there is a good feeling reported and a disposition to help and so far every one solicited has given something.
