Some cars are stolen once, some are stolen twice and some not at all. In the stolen class belongs a Chrysler roadster, the property of Miss Bain of Portland. A few days ago it disappeared in Portland and was finally located in Albany. A special officer was sent from the big city to Albany to bring the car back. Proceeding as far as Salem on his way home about 12 o'clock noon yesterday the sight of the White House restaurant caused the officer to back up to the curb, enter therein and refresh himself. While doing the refreshing act, the roadster was stolen and up to a late hour this afternoon remains stolen the second time.

Today is the first day when people may apply for cartons at the Red Cross mailing station in which to send Christmas presents to the boys over there in case no label has been received. Cartons will be issued on the signing of the affidavit in which it is stated that the sender is the nearest living relative and that no other Christmas presents has been mailed. In case the father and mother both insist on sending the carton, it will be up to the Red Cross mailing committee to decide which is the nearest living relative.

In a short address yesterday afternoon before members of Willamette chapter American Red Cross, Walter A. Denton, chairman of the pledge committee, urged that all pledges be paid for the remainder of the year at least, as now there was a greater demand for Red Cross work in Europe than ever. He urged that monthly pledges should be paid to keep up the relief work in the allied countries. Since the last pledges were made, through the monthly contributions, there has been paid to the Red Cross, Willamette chapter, the sum of $8000.

Two former employes of the immigration service in San Francisco pleaded guilty to graft charges Tuesday.

While Portland is figuring on paying from 45 to 47 cents a pound for its Thanksgiving turkey, residents of Salem and vicinity will get off with from 40 to 42 cents, according to the present indications. The turkey market is pretty hard to corral but within the past few days it seems to have settled close to a retail price of 40 to 42 cents. The federal food administration has sent out a warning that it regards seven cents a pound as the limit for profit to the retail dealer for the Thanksgiving bird.

Now that the war is about over and many restrictions may be removed, the chances are that next spring there will be women's shoes of all kinds of colors. That is, provided the factories will make them. A plan had been worked out by which all shoes to be sold next spring were to be divided into four classes, with a maximum price of $12. Now the recent orders seem to indicate that purchasers of shoes in Salem will be able to buy any color next year and pay just as much as the pocketbook will stand.

Victor McCone, Thought To Have Suicided

Portland, Or., Nov. 21.—Believed to have committed suicide, Victor J. McCone, formerly secretary of the Oregon Socialist party, was drowned at 7:45 o'clock last night when he drove his automobile at high speed off the approach to the Sellwood ferry, plunging into the Willamette river. McCone had just been arrested on a statutory charge, and for that reason the police believe he ended his own life. The Socialist leader asked permission, following his arrest, to drive his machine to the garage, but he speeded into the
