RHENISH PRUSSIANS WELCOME AMERICAN TROOPS ACROSS LINES

Are Assured That Peaceful Reception Will Be Accorded Yankee Soldier.

By Webb Miller
 (United Press Staff Correspondent)

With the American Armies Advancing Toward the Rhine, Nov. 28.—The inhabitants of Rhenish Prussia are awaiting the occupation by the Americans with eagerness and expectancy. A delegation from the soldiers' and workmen's council at Trier was sent over to the American lines.

The emissaries declared that in the interim between the departure of the Germans and the arrival of the American food riots were feared and begged the Yankees to make haste in their advance, to be of aid in case of disorder. The delegation was told the Americans would be unable to comply with their request until they had actually begun the occupation.

The burgo-masters of several towns have visited the Americans, giving assurances that they will be accorded peaceful receptions.

It was stated that the German towns people have been ordered to give up their arms.

General Van Der Marwitz has issued a proclamation ordering the inhabitants to receive the allied forces with every courtesy and with resignation, stating that the allies would not make peace with any bolshevistic or anarchistic regime.

The people were especially cautioned to remain orderly and the soldiers asked to maintain discipline and retain their original units without plundering operations, for the good of the German fatherland.

INCREASE IN BANKING WEALTH OF OREGON

Total Deposits Amount To Over $40,000,000 More Than Last Year.

Big increases in the banking wealth of Oregon are shown by the statement issued yesterday afternoon by Will H. Bennett, superintendent of banks. His statement is based on the report of the banks at the close of business on November 1.

"It is very gratifying," he says "to note the substantial increase in the banking resources of Oregon during the past year, as indicated by the following comparisons:

"Total resources show an increase of $40,010,787.79. Total deposits an increase of $5,947,613.57. These increases are even more remarkable when we consider that two liberty loan bond issues were floated during this time. The total deposits show an increase since August 31, 1918, of $29,455,285.24."

Total deposits in the banks of the state amount to $225,381,703 while the total resources of the banks is $282,086,256, which is an increase of $40,010,787 over a year ago.

ENCOURGE SOLDIERS TO KEEP INSURANCE

Encourage the soldier boys to keep their government insurance. Don't let the insurance lapse.

That is the advice given by Insurance Commissioner Harvey Wells, who has issued the following statement on the subject:

"Several inquiries have been made of the insurance department by relatives of boys who are now in the service as to advice concerning insurance the boys have taken out with the government.

"While the insurance department has no supervision over the question of government insurance, my advice is, however, and which is prompted by articles appearing in many of the eastern insurance journals, that government insurance be continued for the reason that many of the boys will come back, more or less, physically impaired and will, of course, find it impossible to obtain insurance in regular companies.

"The law itself provides that within five years after the president's peace proclamation that the policies must be changed for some other form to be drafted by the government. Just what form will be presented I am unable to say, but I am under the impression the plan will be to include ordinary life, twenty-payment life and endowment, maturing at the age of 62.

"No doubt many of the boys when they come back will lapse their government insurance; this, in my opinion will be a great mistake. Relatives and friends should encourage them to keep it up and retain all they can under the government plan."

IMPERIAL ASSEMBLY WILL BE ELECTED IN GERMANY FEBRUARY 22

New York, Nov. 28.—The decision of the German peace delegation to summon a constituent assembly, now repeated for the third time, is the most positive proof yet given to Europe that there will be no more bolshevik reign of terror in Germany.

There is growing indication that all of the European powers are in agreement concerning the urgent need of preventing the spread of bolshevism in Germany purely as a matter of self protection. Europe is wholly acquiescent, therefore, in the matter of keeping the Germans fed. The German government has won its first success in this respect. The cry for food so insistently raised in Berlin is now being met. Starvation is not imminent in Germany and the early fear of a bolshevik terror spreading through Europe is no longer being felt by the European allies.

With the feeding of Germany, though Europe gains by the preservation of orderly conditions, there is a distinct loss through the fact that the German people have not experienced the personal pangs that should have resulted from their misdeeds. The effect of feeding Germany from a condition of semi-starvation may even be to prevent the adoption of a wholly democratic regime to replace the Hohenzollern militarism.

Persistent misery stirs men's souls to revolt, but the soothing of their woes produces contentment. Germany will lose a large part of her territory at the peace conference, but the union of Austria to Germany is becoming more probable. If that occurs Germany will be more powerful territorially in Europe after the war than before. The German navy has been irretrievably destroyed, but this will probably tend to direct Germany's future expansion overland into Russia instead of across the seas.

It is well within the possibilities, therefore, that the German people may return to the worship of force in the years to come. They have not yet been down into the depths of despair. Europe's fear of bolshevism may prove to be Germany's salvation.
