Influenza Situation Bad In Portland

Portland, Ore., Dec. 3.—There has been no change for the better since the lid was lifted two weeks ago and officials are considering closing the city again. Health Officer Parrish today said citizens are not observing proper precautions in combating the influenza, and that the lid will be clamped on tight if an early improvement is not noticed.

There were 175 new cases during the last two days, the highest number reported since the lifting of the ban. Seventeen deaths have been recorded in the past two weeks. Seventy-five cases are being cared for at the emergency hospital, an increase of approximately 50 per cent compared with last week.

CITY COUNCIL MET LAST NIGHT PREPARED FOR BIG BUSINESS

All Thought Something Important Would Break, But Meeting Was Quiet.

For the first time in the year, every member of the city council was promptly on hand at the regular meeting last evening. There was just a suspicion that something was about to break, especially since there were all sorts of rumors as to a secret caucus held the past week and that the incoming administration was about to put machinery in motion for a new slate.

Even when Mayor Keyes suggested that a motion to adjourn was in order, there was no such motion forthcoming. Ordinarily, there is nothing that a city alderman appreciates so much as a motion to adjourn. But last night they were all reluctant to quit. They came for a little excitement and the excitement failed to materialize.

Mayor Eleet C. E. Albin, who is serving as alderman along with Frank Ward for the second year, created a slight ripple of interest when he handed Mayor Keyes a compliment wherein the mayor-elect said that the present mayor was one of the legal lights of the city and that he was the right man to employ as a special counsel in prosecuting the delinquent tax cases. But the present mayor said he did not want to mix up in the cases and thanked the mayor-elect for his compliment.

New Lights to Be Installed.
Alderman Wiest, who happened to represent a minority of the of the light committee put over his ideas as to installing lights with no opposition excepting the two who were on his committee. The voting was good for Mr. Wiest and as a result there will be installed a 250 candle power light at 17th and Center; another at Summer and Madison streets where the Pacific highway jogs off Capital street; another at Frickey and 16th streets, and a 400 candle power light at Cross and Capital streets. Mr. Wiest got all he asked for in the way of additional lights.

John H. McNary and Wm. H. Trindle are to be paid $750 as assistant counsel for the city in the 10 or more foreclosure suits to be instituted for the foreclosures of delinquent assessment liens. The motions did not specify as to how the $750 was to be divided. Mayor-elect C. E. Albin thought it might be a good idea to save the city this money and try out just one test case. But there was a committee report in favor of spending the money, signed by W. A. Wiest, W. F. Buckner, A. H. Moore, R. N. Hoovey, and Frank S. Ward. Three of the aldermen who favored this action will not serve on the city council next year—Buckner, Hoover and Ward. With the support the committee had in the council, Mr. Albin's idea of economy was turned down.

Ripple of Excitement.
There was a ripple of excitement when a petition was presented to the council by John H. Albert asking that permission be granted to bond his Church street property for street improvement. The petition was referred to the usual committee for such petitions.

Morris Bros., with their bid of $444 premium were the successful bidders for the city's improvement bonds of $11,998.74. The bonds draw 6 per cent interest. The Lumbermen's Trust Co. of Portland was a close second with a bid of par, plus accrued interest and $438.25 premium. E. L. Dexereaux & Co. of Portland offered $240 premium and a Toledo, Ohio firm thought $200 premium would get the business.

City Attorney Macy delivered an opinion that the city park board had no legal right to expend more money than was in the budget for this year and that if the members of the board did exceed the limit, they could be held individually liable for the amount in excess of the budget.

Flag Committee Appointed.

Attention was called to the fact that the flag pole in Willson's park, presented to the city a couple of years ago by the Elks was without a flag as the one originally given was worn out. City Recorder, Base took occasion to remark that the big flag in the city had never voted money for a flag pole. To straighten out the flag proposition the mayor appointed a committee of three consisting of R. W. Binner, H. H. Stanton and Paul V. Johnson.

Business having been transacted Mayor Keyes called for a motion to adjourn. But with every alderman in the city present, there was a hope that somebody would start something. As this was not forthcoming, the city fathers reluctantly left the council chamber. There is but one more meeting for business this year, as it is thought the Dec. 30 session will be mostly in the way of turning over the city's affairs to the incoming administration and all so for a few cheering remarks by the mayor and the aldermen who are to retire.

LADY DRUGGIST'S ADVICE TAKEN

"My sister-in-law is a druggist. She told me of several bad stomach and liver cases which were benefited by taking May's Wonderful Remedy and advised me to try it. I had numerous bad attacks due to bloating and had almost constant pain in my stomach before getting your remedy. I am feeling fine now." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. J. C. Perry

PAY LAST RESPECTS TO SUPREME COURT ACTS ON NUMBER OF CASES

Addresses Delivered By Judge McCamant And Ex-Senator Simon Of Portland.

Many members of the Oregon bar and other friends of the late Justice Frank A. Moore assembled in the Oregon supreme court room this afternoon and paid their last respects to his memory in one of the most impressive memorial services ever held by the court.

Addresses were delivered by Judge Wallace McCamant and ex-Senator Simon of Portland, and others. Chief Justice McBride of the supreme court made the response.

"Words are inadequate to express the regret of the members of this court at the loss of our friend and associate Justice Moore," said Chief Justice McBride. "To those of us who for years had been associated with him upon the bench, and who met him daily in consultation upon matters connected with our public duties, who knew him as an able jurist, a wise counsellor and faithful judge and whose names are such, is added the grief that one feels when a beloved member of his family is claimed by the unrelenting hand of death. It is therefore with more than usual emotion that this court has heard the resolutions presented by the bench and bar of this state and has listened to the beautiful tributes that have been paid to the memory of our distinguished brother."

Chief Justice McBride reviewed some of the work which was performed on the bench by the late Justice Moore and declared that it ranks exceedingly high.

"We erect monuments of stone to perpetuate the names of our dead and upon these affection inscribes its tribute to the memory of the dear one who rests beneath," he said, "but these are often colored by sentiment and exaggerated by love. The true monument of every man is his life and work. Each of us is building that monument for himself. Its inscriptions are inexorably true and ineradicable. The monument that affection shall erect over the last resting place of our deceased friend may crumble into ruin, and its inscription be obliterated by the decaying finger of time, but in the Oregon Reports he has built a monument which will endure for ages to come and upon which lawyers and jurists will read the record of a faithful, able and impartial jurist, whose learning and industry have added luster to the bench and dignity to the profession of the law."

The resolutions presented by the members of the supreme court were as follows: Judge Frank A. Moore, whose death occurred September 25, 1918, enjoyed the distinction of having served continuously as a member of this court longer than any of his predecessors. He was first elected in June, 1892, taking his seat early in July of that year, and by successive elections remained here in active service until a few weeks before he died. He was the only justice of this court who died in office except Judge A. J. Thayer, whose passing happened in April, 1872.

Judge Moore was a tireless worker and exhausted research in every case he investigated. His writings began with Liggitt v. Ladd, 23 Ore. 26, decided October 5, 1892, and continued until early in June, 1918. During that period 5241 opinions were rendered in this court, of which 1215, or more than twenty three per cent of the total, came from his pen. Then we consider that there were but three justices on the bench most of that time, we are astonished at the prodigious task he accomplished; but the best of it is the excellent quality of his work, which must challenge the admiration of every lawyer. He took pride in never slighting any opinion he wrote. No slipshod work can be attributed to him. He was master of the English language and the productions of his pen are classics in the judicial literature of the state. His service here covers a period in which were decided some of the most important questions that ever came before this court. The category includes cases involving the various amendments to the state constitution, the creation of ports, the liquor traffic, and many other cases that might be mentioned. His work shows creditably and his name and fame are indelibly and honorably inscribed on Oregon's historic page.

His life and labor were characterized by rugged honesty of purpose. He scorned shams and deceit and earnestly sought for the truth of the matter in controversy. In all his ratings his unflinching design was to do justice.

He endeared himself to his associates by his uniform courtesy, his genial disposition and his kindness of heart. His long career is not merely unblemished; more than that, it is adorned by all the virtues of the best type of manhood. The influence he has wielded in the judicial concerns of Oregon will never lose its force, but will abide to tell us that he still lives.

Want Extensive Program Of Highway Building

The government bureau of roads is urging the various state highway departments to launch an extensive highway building program for next year, and assurances are given in a letter received by State Engineer Nunn from L. W. Page, director of the bureau, that the government will give every cooperation to the states. The government will have approximately $50,000,000 to spend next year on highway construction. Mr. Page says: "In view of the fact that restrictions on highway work have been removed by the action of the war industries board, the fuel administration, the railroad administration and the United

Decision Reversed In Case Of State vs. George H. Langford, Appellant.

On the grounds that the lower court erred in the instructions given to the jury and the shutting out of certain evidence, the supreme court today reversed the case of the state vs. George Langford, appellant, and remanded the case for a retrial.

Langford was convicted in the court of Circuit Judge Eakin in Clatsop county, of failure to support his minor child. He and his wife were divorced and both remarried, the child living with its mother. Langford had not supported the child and his defense was that he was not earning enough money to support himself and his second wife.

Circuit Judge Eakin instructed the jury that it was immaterial whether Langford's second wife was able to contribute to her own support or not, as to support his child by his first wife.

The supreme court did not accept this view and declares that the defendant was entitled to have his present wife tell about her physical condition, for the reason that her ability to work necessarily affects his duty to support her.

Two other opinions were handed down as follows: State vs. Chin Borkey, appellant; appealed from Union; convicted of murder in second degree for killing of William Eng in LaGrande in March, 1917; opinion by Justice Johns; Circuit Judge Knowles affirmed. L. Belle Lee vs. S. A. Hobson et al appellants; appealed from Malheur; suit to enjoin removal of brick building from lot in city of Ontario and to enjoin execution against sureties upon appeal bond; opinion by Justice Benson; judgment of Circuit Judge Biggs modified by eliminating restraining order so far as it relates to proceedings against sureties upon appeal bond.

Judge A. S. Bennett To Serve Six Years On Supreme Bench

Judge A. S. Bennett of The Dalles has ahead of him a full term of six years on the supreme court bench, instead of only the two years remaining in the unexpired term of the late Justice Frank A. Moore, according to an opinion given by Attorney General Brown to Governor Withycombe. As the constitution provides that justices of the supreme court shall be elected for a term of six years, the attorney general holds that this applies to Judge Bennett, and the governor will issue the certificate of election accordingly. "My answer to your inquiry is that Judge Bennett, by virtue of his election to succeed and finally holds over six years," says attorney general's opinion. "My opinion is based upon provision contained in section 1 of article 7 of the constitution of Oregon, as amended by the people on November 8, 1910. In part said section reads: 'The judges of the supreme court and other courts shall be elected for a term of six years.'"

MANLEY SUCCEEDS WALSH

Washington, Dec. 3.—Basel M. Manley has been appointed joint chairman of the war labor board, succeeding Frank P. Walsh, resigned, it was officially announced at the board's office today. Manley has done statistical work for the department of labor and the war labor board for many months.

States Highways Council, a Great Revival in Road Building Should Result.

"In my judgment, no more effective means of insuring employment, particularly to unskilled labor, in the transition period from war to peace can be devised than the vigorous prosecution of all public improvement work. I believe it would be better to go ahead with road work wherever it is needed rather than to wait for a period of lower prices. The benefits of improved highways are immediate, to say nothing of the great desirability of having all labor employed and money active. "Federal aid funds already available and those which will be made available July 1, 1919, aggregate $50,000,000, of which amount not over $5,000,000 has been expended. It is quite probable therefore, that state and federal funds for construction purposes will, during 1919, run well over $100,000,000. This should constitute a material factor in carrying on the vigorous year's work. "Every assistance which the bureau of public roads can render will be available to the states in dealing with the various problems which may arise."

SIMPLE WAY TO END DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find all itching and itching of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

An Echo from Belgium

A True War Story

"The Legend Of Nenette And Rintintin"

Nenette and Rintintin, a couple of Belgian tots were found by a group of soldiers who entered a Belgian village just after its evacuation by the Germans. Of all its population these two, a brother and sister, were all that was left. As a means to sustain these homeless and helpless orphans a soldier with an imagination hit upon the idea of crudely fashioning a boy and girl doll from yarn, and suspended from a string these were sold for a trifle to other soldiers about to enter the trenches, who were assured that if these dolls, Nenette and Rintintin were constantly worn, "they would act as a charm, against any danger or harm."

As a tribute to the creative genius of the soldier who adopted this pair of abandoned waifs, America's leading ribbon manufacturers—Johnson, Cowdin and Company—of whom we are agents, designed the Nenette and Rintintin ribbon.

This is an extreme novelty, which in addition to its use for ordinary ribbon purposes, will be found especially adaptable at this season for tying Christmas packages.

Only a limited quantity was manufactured, and our quota will be rapidly sold.

Two Widths—10c and 15c Per Yard

Coupled with the ribbon, our Infant's Department is showing Nenette and Rintintin in the original form, only larger, calling them BED TIME DOLLS.

A Distinct Novelty for the "Kiddie."
