TELLS HOW THE BOYS WERE MOVED ABOUT

Private Douglas Phillips Saw A Lot Of The Real Fighting In France And Belgium.

Private Douglas Phillips of Co. A, 346 M. G. Bn. A. P. O. 776, A. E. F., tells of his travels since leaving Camp Lewis in a letter to his father, Simeon Phillips, as follows:

"We left Camp Lewis on June 27 and arrived at Camp Merritt, N. J., July 4, July 7 we left Hoboken on H. M. S. Dana and arrived in Halifax, N. S., on July 10 and left on July 11 and arrived in Havre, France, July 21, and left that port on July 27 via railroad for Louinieres and arrived July 29.

On Sept. 6 we left that place and arrived in Bonnet Sept. 8 and left Sept. 11 and arrived in our positions of reserves behind St. Mihiel Sept. 13, and left Sept. 15 for Senyennes, via truck which arrived at that time.

We arrived in Jubeseurt Sept. 21 and left Sept. 23 via trucks and arrived in a wood near Auberville on Sept. 24. This position was near the trenches in the Aronne region. Sept. 27 our doughboys went over the top and we followed with machine guns and ammunition, and arrived the very same night. After staying in that place two nights we went up to Epronville and left Oct. 3 when we were relieved and went back to Cheppy woods.

"Left Cheppy wood Oct. 6, arrived in Donasie via trucks the next morning left Oct. 10 and arrived via trucks in Varney Oct. 10 and left Oct. 17 in railroad for Belgium where we arrived Oct. 18. We left this place Oct. 20 and arrived the same day via trucks at Ostelastia. Oct. 25 we left and arrived via trucks at Roulers and left there Oct. 29. On Oct. 30 we were in a pine wood back of Audenarde, which was being attacked by our division.

"We were relieved Nov. 3 and left by truck for Ouyhem where we stayed until the 8th and then moved into Audenarde Nov. 11 which is one of the Scheldt river directly west of Brussels.

"On the Argonne forests we were right up where the artillery was and the barrage they put over is said to be one of the heaviest of the war. The sky was full of smoke. Our doughboys went over the top early in the morning and we moved up in trucks to where the front line had been and started across what had been No Man's land. We looked over some of the worst shelled ground we had seen outside of Ypres. Then we got in Ypres where we were shelled heavily. During our entire stay there we were shelled. After two days we proceeded to Epinville and dug in.

"During our stay we were shelled and bombarded by planes. Also under machine gun fire from planes. We went into a position to avert a counter attack but the counter attack was weak and was stopped by our doughboys. We were not in action during our stay on this front or later.

"But on account of divisions on our right and left not keeping up with our division, we were subject to flank shelling which was certainly not agreeable. Our doughboys and machine gun outfits that went in performed so creditably that the corps commander congratulated the whole division on its good work in the initial fight.

"Our doughboys are certainly there. The last lots of men but they simply couldn't be stopped and would have gone further but for the flank attacks. We were pretty tired when we were relieved and finally got back to Varney. After eating a while we were surprised to be entrained for Paris, unknown but we suspected our destination to be Belgium.

"When we were relieved we heard peace talk strongly and were going in again Nov. 11 when the armistice news reached us. It was certainly good news. I've seen lots of German prisoners. They were certainly in ill fed looking bunch.

Dallas Soldiers Were In France One Year Wednesday

(Capital Journal Special Service.) "The one greatest comfort we had in the training camps was the AMERICAN Radiator. . . . After the hard day's work in the rough weather it certainly builds up a man, bodily and mentally, to be under the spell and charm of these comfort-machines—that's what your Radiators are. . . ."

Are you preparing a "cozy camp" for your hero son, where his comrades will often gather to tell their stories, or will his waiting bedroom be the old, chilly place where for very cold he needs must burrow under blankets?

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feed young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that essential condition of health, natural laxation which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

State House Notes

Bills will be opened by the state highway commission in Portland tomorrow for the job of paving 18 miles between Salem and Aurora. This is one of the biggest single jobs the commission has on its program for this year, and if the contract is let so work can be started as soon as the weather is favorable in the spring it is expected the job will take all the season to finish it.

Bids on two other projects, namely, grading between Hood River and Mosier and between Arlington and Blalock, also will be opened by the commission tomorrow. Indications are that there will be a large number of bidders for the work.

State Engineer Copper, who attended the meeting of land owners in the vicinity of Stayton and Turner Saturday afternoon, said today it looks very much like an irrigation district will be organized to take over the old Willamette Valley Irrigated Land company canal. "The farmers in the district see the need of irrigation," said Mr. Copper. "Irrigation is insurance against crop failure every year."

Highway Officials Favor Changes in Road Legislation

State highway officials, who met in Salt Lake last week, went on record in favor of an amendment to the present federal road act which will change the basis of co-operation between the government and states on road projects, and also they want the state to have full jurisdiction over work being done where the state is putting up part of the money, according to State Highway Engineer Nunn, who returned today from attending the meeting.

Woul Change Basis Of Co-Operation Between Government And States.

These state highway officials want the government to control only the road work which is being financed exclusively by the government. A bill is now pending in congress which carries an appropriation of $600,000,000 annually for road work in co-operation with the states. Oregon's share would be $2,000,000, and the state highway officials pointed out that if the western states were required to match their share of government money on a basis of dollar for dollar, as is now provided, it would so drain the state funds for highway work that there would be nothing left for roads which are not classed as post roads.
