The Journal reporter stands corrected in writing the police court item regarding the arrest of several parties for spitting on the sidewalk. It seems that Al Jones, one of the persons mentioned, was not found guilty and hence did not pay a fine. In this connection the authorities are reminded that the anti-spitting ordinance would stand a better show of observance if the proper signs were posted on the street corners, reminding the passerby that such a regulation is in existence. The penalty is from one to five dollars. Common decency should lead a citizen to abstain from such a practice, but a lot of people don't have their "think tank" in operation all the time.

State House Notes

Construction of the overhead crossing of the Southern Pacific at Divide in Lane county will begin within a short time and bids have been asked for submission at the meeting of the State Highway commission on February 4. Last fall this overhead crossing was under consideration but there was no agreement between the county, railroad and state. Now everything has been settled.

Harvey Wells, insurance commissioner is in Portland today attending a meeting of the committee appointed by the governor to investigate the Oregon Fire Insurance rating bureau. The committee is expected to make a report to the governor. The Bureau was established in 1917.

The Irrigation Securities Commission has approved for certification bonds amounting to $200,000 for the Ochoco Irrigation District at Prineville, Crook county. An additional certification of $900,000 has already been certified. The district originally voted $1,100,000 in bonds and the action today certifies the entire amount.

An application has been filed in the state engineer's office with the Irrigation Commission for the certification of $50,000 bonds of the Payette Oregon Slope. The commission will take up an investigation of the project.

The office of the state engineer will consider the application of the Hood River District for certification of $297,000 bonds. No action will be taken until the commission has additional information and until an investigation has been made.

Count Hohenzollern Is On Verge Of Insanity

Amsterdam, Jan. 14.—Wilhelm Hohenzollern is on the verge of becoming a helpless lunatic, according to information brought here today by a prominent Hollander who just left Count Bentinck's castle, where he was a guest. He declared the former emperor talks continually. His conversation is rambling and erratic. He cannot sleep at night and guardians of the Bentinck castle frequently see him walking in the park before dawn.

PLANK, PRESIDENT OF FARM ASSOCIATION

Annual Horticultural National Farm Loan Meeting Held Today.

The annual meeting of the Horticultural National Farm Loan Association for this district was held this morning at the office of the local manager A. C. Bohmstedt, at which the following officers and directors were elected:

John U. Plank, president; A. H. Litch field, vice president; A. C. Parsons, director; C. A. Poole, director; A. F. Beardsley, director; Dora L. Cummings director; A. C. Bohmstedt, secretary-treasurer.

Among other items of business it was authorized to let the capital stock be increased to $25,000.

The report of the secretary-treasurer shows that from the time of its organization in 1917 up to December 31, 1918, there had been received at this office applications to the amount of $193,300 and this with the applications since placed on file makes a total of $210,300. This amount has been reduced by the withdrawal of applications to the extent of $5300.

The Federal Loan Bank has approved loans of $136,000 and there are now awaiting the action of the bank applications to the amount of $17,700. The amount of loans rejected by the bank is $2600, while there are loans amounting to $37,300 which have been appraised by the bank and are awaiting action.

The authorized capital stock of the association is $10,000, which has been over-subscribed by $250. Capital stock paid in amounts to $4115.

In his annual report the secretary says:

"The business has been exceptionally pleasant and the applicants have been appreciative and courteous. The directors and the loan committee have done their full part at any and all times. The federal land bank has been prompt and efficient in all of its dealings with us, with the exception of the matter of appraisements. That has not been the entire fault of the bank by any means, and Mr. O'Shea, the president, only a short time ago promised me that in the future the bank would endeavor to give prompt appraisements, and that it was now in a position where it could do so. As a whole our relations with the bank have been uniformly pleasant and I am sure that we can count on efficient, prompt and courteous service through our associations."

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. TRAUS, President American Society for Thrift

A year ago we were in the midst of the worst war the world has ever known. Today we are on the threshold of the most glorious era of human accomplishment, of educational development, of better standards of living for the peoples of all the world, of broader conceptions of politics, of a closer relationship between all classes, and of a foretaste of the real brotherhood of man.

These are among the benefits we have gained from the war, but we must understand that they can be continued only with the continued and general practices of thrift.

We must learn that waste and extravagance by the strong mean greater hardships for the weak. What is destroyed in one place must be made up in another. The food that one man wastes only wastes eventually comes from the mouths of those who need it.

Waste and harmful extravagance have ever been among the indulgences of autocracy. But we have seen the downfall of autocracy. Henceforth ours is the age of democracy, and there can be no permanent democracy where there is no general thrift.

Let us look upon the practices of thrift, therefore, not only from the standpoint of individual gains and personal success, but let us visualize the manner in which this virtue fits into the general order of the world's affairs in the era we are now entering—the Victory era, the era of Thrift and Democracy.

Thrift means more than saving money, improving time or conserving health. It has a necessary place to fill in the development of civilization, and gives added significance to the sacrifices, the sufferings and the victories of the world's greatest war. In brief, if we are to make permanent the benefits of this war we must do so through thrift.

There must be an opportunity for all men to practice thrift, because there can be neither enduring happiness nor lasting progress where thriftlessness exists and the masses of the people are underpaid or are not given proper educational advantages.

Popular thriftlessness simply means the impoverishment of the millions for the enrichment of the few, and the development of such conditions would bring us back to the old situation that existed before the war. To return to the pre-war status in these matters would be to render useless all the sacrifices this war has cost.

We must go on ever forward and upward. We can do so only through the universal practice of thrift, which protects the weak, more justly distributes wealth, raises the standard of living among all men, stimulates the educational processes and makes permanent and tangible the noble accomplishments of democracy.
