COUNCIL MEETING THIS EVENING IS IMPORTANT

Chief Of Police Varney Will Introduce Two New City Ordinances.

The regular meeting of the city council this evening will be of unusual interest and importance. It is expected that Dr. Sealey of Portland, will be present and together with the council and the board of health, will take another whack at the influenza germ and the question of reopening the town. Treasurer Rice will have a voluminous report with regard to the city finances, showing where all the money has gone to and why the city of Salem is increasing its expense column. Chief of Police Varney will give a personal report on the movement for better regulation by introducing two new ordinances. One of these is drawn in conformity with the state law with regard to the possession and sale of intoxicating liquors. Hitherto all fines derived from prosecution of violators has gone into the county fund, but the chief is of the opinion that since the city officers and law mechanism handle all such cases the fines should logically go into the city treasury. His ordinance deals with the possession and handling of liquors strictly on the basis of a public nuisance and the violator is to be prosecuted simply as committing a nuisance.

He will also present an ordinance dealing with the minor and the cigarette. This is an amendment to the present ordinance, and instead of specifying "tobacco in all its forms" it deals with the cigarette alone, his aim being to discourage the use of the "coffin nails" by young men in the town. His ordinance prohibits the sale to any youth under 21, and not only makes it a misdemeanor for the vendor to sell to minors, but also makes it a punishable offense for the minor either to misrepresent his age or to refuse to reveal the source from which he obtained cigarettes. This divides the responsibility between the vendor and the minor, who may be arrested whenever detected by an officer in the act of smoking cigarettes or of having them in his possession.

Among other items of business will be the appointing of members to fill vacancies on several municipal boards.

Prospective Purchasers May Get Catalogues

Catalogues containing listings of the component parts of the United States Spruce Production Corporation's machinery and equipment, aggregating a value of $1,000,000 have been completed and persons interested in buying any article may obtain one by applying to the sales board, in the Yeon building, at Portland, Oregon.

All kinds of machinery and equipment necessary to the conduct of logging and milling operations on a large scale, are to be found in the list. Bids are being received by the board, and including February 15 and there is every indication of widespread interest in the sale, which is the largest in the history of the United States.

The machinery and equipment is stored at Vancouver, Wash., and may be inspected upon certification at the offices of the sales board. Much of it is never put into use by the corporation, owing to the abrupt ending of the war. That which was used is also in good condition, having received the best of care while in operation.

Picked Up On The Street

Joe Albert—"I believe there has been no time in recent years when bank deposits were generally larger than they are today, or when the farmers were in better financial condition as a class. The short crops of the past two seasons have been practically made up by the high prices received. I notice that the banking and trading journals of the country are predicting a season of unprecedented progress and prosperity on account of the wide distribution of new wealth. I am looking forward to a good year in this section, with a vast amount of construction work ahead. The Salem Sand and Gravel Co., of which I am the treasurer, is so optimistic over it that we are going to double the capacity of our dredging and loading plant at the foot of Court street. We have leased new grounds on Minto Island and will have two barges at work with a daily capacity of 500 yards."

Mrs. Kimball, secretary of the Y. W. C. A., called the reporter into the reception room and exhibited a handsome victrola, donated by Henry Meyers. "We consider this a very handsome act on the part of Mr. Meyers, and it is being greatly appreciated by the association as it will add very much to the attractiveness of the rooms. We are now having the entire suite renovated preparatory to holding open house for the girls and young women of the city, as soon as the influenza ban is lifted. We want the girls to know more about the association and the privileges we are offering them at a nominal cost. It should be looked upon as next thing to a home—as a social center—by all the young ladies who are at work in the city. We are offering them a delicious cafeteria lunch at a small price, a place for reading, music and sociability, in addition to being an employment bureau."

Mr. Chapman, of the Commercial club, states that he is receiving numerous inquiries from home-seekers and investors in all parts of the country, looking toward location in the Willamette valley. A number of them have already located here for a "try out" of the climate and conditions. Many farmers of the middle west, who have made their "pile" with corn and hogs are looking to this country for a place to settle down in a mild climate and spend the rest of their lives.

Judge Burbey—"No there has been no great increase of the indigent class in this county as a result of the influenza epidemic. There will be a few widows' pensions added to the list. But this does not prove that there is no financial distress; for there are families who would go down to the verge of starvation before they would let their names be known. The doctors would tell some pathetic story of what they have seen."

SENATE FINISHED WORK

one who has never faced shell fire and hell and felt the assurance a cigarette gives, telling me or my comrades that we must desert the best friend we have, the cigarette. I have seen many men die and many times have I placed a lighted cigarette between the whitened lips of a dying man, and let him have in the fleeting moments that which he desired most. Damn these agitators and would-be reformers who are always sticking their noses in where they should not be."

Got, I wish I was in Salem, knowing what I know.

I must cease for I am afraid I will swear if I continue. Give my regards to all the old friends and if you want to read this before the senate, do so. I have faced Germans time and time again, and I am not afraid of a few good old sisters and brothers who might be offended at my views.

Wishing you all the joys of a happy New Year, I am your friend,

AMERICA'S MARITIME POSITION DEPENDS ON WORKING CONDITIONS

Furuseth, General Secretary Of Seamen's Union Declares This.

By Lowell Mellett.
(United Press staff correspondent)

PARIS, Jan. 20.—America's position as a strong maritime nation depends on the ability of its peace delegates to uphold the high standard of working conditions effected by the American seamen's act, Andrew Furuseth, general secretary of the International Seamen's Union of America, declared today.

Believing that while freedom of the seas is occupying the conferees' minds, freedom of the seamen may go by the board, Furuseth has brought his long, lean, angular frame here to haunt the Quai D'Orsay. He fears that other nations, particularly Great Britain, may attempt to obtain international legislation that would abrogate the American seamen's act, but is confident that the American delegation will oppose any such move.

"The effect of the American seamen's act has been to bring up wages, except among the oriental countries," Furuseth said in an interview with the United Press today.

Living Conditions Improved.

"The act is also steadily improving living conditions, not only on American ships, but on others. The British basic wage is now twelve pounds a month, to which the government adds a bonus of three pounds, making a total practically equivalent to our wage of $75 a month. When the American act became effective permitting seamen under any flag to leave their ship in an American port and sign on again under that port's normal wage, it resulted in an enormous shortage of British seamen. As a consequence, the wages in British ports began jumping. Now wages are practically the same everywhere, although the French government, by making all seamen non-of-war men was able to prevent desertions because of the penalty.

Won't Turn Back.

"We have reason to believe the American peace delegates will steadfastly oppose and effort to turn the seamen back to old conditions. They appreciate they never will make America a maritime nation unless wages and life at sea are in keeping with American ideals of human rights. They could not get crews otherwise. On the other hand, any nation wishing to attack America's growing marine power naturally would strike at the seamen's act, hoping to nullify our shipbuilding success by making it impossible for us to man our ships. That is the view of the American nationalist. Fortunately, it accords with the seamen's interests.

"We know that the British government has been supplied by its consuls all over the world with data showing how the American seamen's act had brought up wages in each port. We know the greatest pressure has been exerted on the British government by British ship owners to obtain international legislation emasculating the act. We have heard that Premier Lloyd George would "rescue" the British ship owners from the effect of the act. It may be that our informants were only expressing hope, but the seamen must be on their guard."

Representatives of seamen from all parts of the world will meet in London February 24 to consider questions affecting their interests.

THIRD FAILED TO QUALIFY

Washington, Jan. 18.—Nearly one-third of the men physically examined for the army failed to qualify for service. Because of this startling record of poor physique, an effort is being made through the reserve officers' training camps and 250 schools and colleges to make and keep the men physically fit for service at all times.

STOPS MEDICINE—HEALTH RECOVERED BY INTERNAL BATHS

Mr. A. Czarnocki, 657 Montgomery St., San Francisco, Cal., writes Tyrrell Hygienic Institute of New York as follows:

"I must admit that the use of the 'J. B. L. Cascade' has cured my chronic constipation from which I suffered. Since May 12, 1913, I have never even tasted any kind of patent medicine or purgative. My health is excellent in every respect."

Over half a million bright, keen, intelligent Americans have found that Internal Bathing is more essential to their health than external baths.

Have found that used occasionally at night they feel like different people the next morning. No more of that chronic, tired, nervous feeling, but having by Nature's own cleanse—anti-septic warm water—removed all the poisonous waste from the lower intestine, they awake thoroughly refreshed by normal sleep, with all their functions acting properly, clear-headed, happy and confident, eager and capable for the duties of the day.

Why not learn more about this rapidly growing and natural practice? "J. B. L. Cascade" is the invention of Chas. A. Tyrrell, M. D., of New York, a specialist on internal baths for 25 years, and is now being shown and explained by Daniel J. Fry, wholesale druggist and mfg. pharmacist, Salem, Ore., who will give you—free on request—an interesting booklet on the subject called "Why Man of Today is Usually World Strike at the Seamen's Act, Only 50 per cent Efficient."
