Interest Rate on Next Loan May Go To Five Per Cent

Extravagance Of National Expenditures Must Of Necessity Be Curbed Now.

New York, Jan. 23.—Before long the new loan will have to be placed. The proceeds of the previous loan having been exhausted some weeks ago and the government now being entirely dependent upon treasury certificates. Conditions affecting flotation of government issues have so radically changed that methods different from those of previous loans will have to be adopted. The war spirit, a very important factor in former loan drives, has subsided, and former appeals to patriotism by means of hurried methods will now be ineffectual, especially in view of the decline in all Liberty issues except the 3 1/2. The next loan must depend more upon a high sense of public spirit, upon intelligent self-interests and upon meeting financial conditions upon a business-like basis. It has been inferred from the remarks of Secretary Glass, who seems to have a sound grasp of the situation, that the coming loan will have to pay 4 1/2 to 5 per cent to secure the necessary funds. Money, like other articles and services, will unavoidably command what it is worth or go elsewhere. The capital is scarce and dear, hence the fall in price of nearly all our government issues. With conditions as they are, a short-term treasury note, say about three years, bearing from 4 to 5 per cent would undoubtedly be successful; for financial institutions would readily take large blocks, and such an offer would undoubtedly bring out an immense investment demand. There is no doubt that such a loan could be easily financed, and the country could secure the necessary funds more easily, and with less disturbance and cost than by the hoisterous and expensive methods so necessary during the war.

In this connection there is another matter which requires serious attention, and that is the extravagant national expenditures. No complaints in this direction were heard during the war, but now that peace is restored there should be vigorous retrenchment in all departments at Washington. Many unnecessary bureaus are endeavoring to make themselves permanent; many constructive works that should be stopped are still going, while hundreds of millions, if not billions, could be saved during the current year if there was only sufficient effort in that direction. The government has done much toward such economy, but not enough, mainly because public opinion has not yet been sufficiently aroused to make itself felt. The conflicting outlook of business induces a generally conservative temper. Deflation is the prevailing tendency; for commodity prices are too high to permit further expansion and the widespread conviction that prices must recede naturally checks buying. In consequence, the present volume of business is probably below actual requirements, though when values become more settled on a lower basis there is no doubt of renewed activity. The decline seems to be resisted by the stubborn facts that many raw materials are scarce, that the output of mines and mills is often curtailed because peace orders have not yet filled the place of war orders, and wage adjustments are impossible before a reduction in the cost of living. Some very significant reductions have occurred in the textile markets, both cottons and woolsens being weak. Several of the most staple brands of cotton goods were reduced 25 to 30 per cent this week, the deepest cut on record. That such sensational reductions should be made by the most conservative business houses in the trade meant that in their judgment drastic action was the surest way of getting back to normal. In these cases war profits were entirely eliminated, and prices cut clean to the bone. If further cuts are necessary they cannot be had without cheaper cotton, lower wages or a shutdown. Which of these alternatives will be necessary is beyond the knowledge of even experts. That commodities are experiencing world-wide reaction is shown by the London "Economicist" index number, which stood at 6094 at the end of December, a drop of 118 points in the month and the lowest figure since May, 1918. Textiles and minerals showed the heaviest declines, while articles of food were either unchanged or slightly higher.

A decidedly conservative tone prevails in the financial district. Security values are not high because there was no inflation in this department; even the war industrialists refusing to respond to such stimulus with a few notable exceptions. Railroad shares have conspicuously refused to sympathize with the advances in commodities. Bonds have generally declined owing to the advancing rates of interest, while public utilities fell to an unusually low level, owing to the unpleasant fact that the various commissions under whose control they operate refused to allow them to advance rates to compensate for increased expenses. The starvation policy set by the Interstate Commerce Commission seems to have been religiously followed by state and municipal control bodies with much the same effect, threatening their financial existence. The Interstate Commerce Commission having seen the error of its ways, will the state and municipal bodies do likewise?

The railroad situation is much confused, and interest centers chiefly upon the question of government or private ownership. At the moment the trend of public opinion is largely in favor of the latter. What Washington will do, however, is still uncertain. Action upon so important a subject can hardly be expected during the present session of congress which ends March 4, about six weeks distant. A special session, therefore is among the probabilities, especially as the tariff from the return of the problems arising therefrom. Many of the industrialists have been slightly depressed owing to the cessation of war activity and the prospects of heavy taxation.

The government's revenue from excess profits is likely, however, to be much smaller than a year ago. So far as the iron trade is concerned, the outlook from the normal point of view is encouraging, a large domestic trade being in view and a good export trade as soon as shipping conditions become more settled. The production of copper has been curtailed somewhat, but this, too, was part of the return to more normal conditions. The labor outlook is not satisfactory; the manifesto of the Federation of Labor this week raising some uneasiness. Soldiers are returning in increasing numbers and this tends to relieve the shortage recently existing. The government's withdrawal from control of business enterprises is progressing as rapidly as expedient. The Capital Issues Committee has decided to suspend the preference necessary accorded to the forthcoming loan, several important corporation issues are in prospect. Two objectionable forms of control, foreign exchange and the money market, still remain, and normal freedom should be restored as early as possible. The time is not far distant when the next loan, $5,000,000,000, will be announced and the plans of our local bankers are already well advanced in this respect. A decision of importance is the action of our government in refusing further advances to our allies, who will now come into the open market here when they desire to borrow. Some considerable foreign issues may be placed in this market at any time.

DAILY HEALTH TALKS

Where Most Sickness Begins and Ends (By Franklin Duane, M. D.)

It can be said broadly that most human ills begin in the stomach and end in the stomach. Good digestion means good health, and poor digestion means bad health. The minute your stomach fails to properly dispose of the food you eat, troubles begin to crop out in various forms. Indigestion and dyspepsia are the commonest forms, but thin, impure blood, headaches, backaches, pimples, blotches, dizziness, belching, coated tongue, weak, poor appetite, sleeplessness, coughs, colds and bronchitis are almost as common. There is but one way to have good health, and that is to put and keep your stomach in good order. This is easy to do if you take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a wonderful tonic and blood purifier, and is so safe to take, for it is made of roots and herbs. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., stands behind this standard medicine, and it is good to know that so distinguished a physician is proud to have his name identified with it. When you take Golden Medical Discovery, you are getting the benefit of the experience of a doctor whose reputation goes all around the earth. Still more, you get a temperance medicine that contains not a drop of alcohol or narcotic of any kind. Long ago Dr. Pierce combined certain valuable vegetable ingredients—without the use of alcohol—so that these remedies always have been strictly temperance medicines.

If piles are torturing you, get and use Pierce's Anodyne Pile Ointment. The quick relief it gives is hard to believe until you try it. If constipated, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken while using Anodyne Pile Ointment. Few indeed are the cases which these splendid remedies will not relieve, and usually overcome. They are so good that nearly every drug store has them for sale.
