RED FLAG BILL STILL UNDECIDED IN HOUSE

Labor Interests Try To Cut Out Phrases That Would Make It Lose Effect.

Representatives of labor in the house of representatives are spurring to prevent any legislation regarding the carrying of the red flag or any other emblem indicating disloyalty unless the bill passed has practically all its teeth drawn and becomes a harmless piece of legislation.

This was evident this morning when the bill introduced to prevent the carrying of a red flag was brought up for preliminary passage on recommendation of the judiciary committee to which it had been referred. The committee was unanimously in favor of the bill as drawn excepting Mr. Lewis of Multnomah, whom it is charged wobbles considerably and gets first on one side of the bill and then on the other.

This red flag bill, which has taken so much time in the house and has been the occasion of several bitter fights, reads:

"An act to make it unlawful for any person in the state of Oregon to carry or cause to be carried or displayed any red flag or other emblem indicating disloyalty to the government of the United States, or belief in anarchy, or other political doctrines or beliefs whose objects are for the disruption or destruction of organized government."

Through Mr. Smith of Multnomah county, the labor unions ask that the words, "for the purpose of manifesting disloyalty" be inserted several times and that the expression "in defiance of the laws" be cut out. The labor unions profess to be displeased with the word "defiance."

From the general bitter discussions, it seems that with the insertion of the word "for the purpose of manifesting disloyalty" inserted and the word "defiance" eliminated, the bill would become harmless and this is apparently just what the labor representatives are working for. While professing to favor the bill, Mr. Smith insists on making it harmless by eliminating several main features of the bill.

The bill has been fought over every time it has bobbed up in the house. The labor representatives have so far managed to prevent the bill going through as originally written and they have been supported by Schuchel, and Richardson, Woodson, of Heppner went on record as favoring a decisive vote and getting it out of the way in order that the house might go on with its work.

Armenian Relief Campaign Will Open February 17

The conference of business and professional men held last evening as announced in the Journal, resulted in formulating plans for a campaign of benevolence throughout Marion county looking toward relief for the starving Armenians. Rev. Papazian, the Armenian representative in this field, was before the conference with a detailed statement of needs, and State Director Handsaker of Portland, laid before them the plan of campaign.

Dr. R. E. Lee Steiner, as chairman of the meeting, appointed J. H. Albert, Dr. H. H. Olinger, Dr. W. B. Morse, Judge Lawrence T. Harris and W. T. Jenks as an executive board. Hal D. Patton will serve as secretary for the campaign and Dr. B. L. Stevies will head the committee in charge.

According to plans thus far arranged the campaign will open February 17 and will continue for a week, and in that time it is hoped that Marion county will subscribe the amount of $9000. The local organization will be completed in the near future and the campaign opened with a public meeting at which there will be a speaker from the field, probably Dr. Coan of Pernis, who was among the refugees during the war.

Market Did Little More Than Mark Time Today

New York, Jan. 28.—The New York Evening Sun financial review today says:

Today's stock market did little more than mark time because of the nearness of the meeting of the United States Steel directors at 3 o'clock this afternoon at which the earnings for the last quarter of 1918 were given out and the dividend rate for the first quarter of this year announced. Trading was quiet and with perhaps half a dozen exceptions, or so, price changes were insignificant. United States Steel itself, however, hovered around 92. The shipping issues continued weak in view of the British reduction in ocean freight rates and the following up of this action by the United States shipping board with 66 2/3 per cent cut.

SECRETARY OLCOTT IS CONTENT WITH LITTLE

Doesn't Ask For Appropriation But Believes House Should Be Recarpeted

Ben W. Olcott, secretary of state, asked but little of the ways and means committee. Several items that had been put in the budget last fall, he found could be slightly reduced. Other small items like clerical help and janitors should have a light advance in salary. Mr. Olcott said, especially as they were so efficient in their work.

On account of the large work to be done by the highway commission, he said there might be need of more clerical help in his office.

While not asking an appropriation, Mr. Olcott said he really would like to have a new carpet in the house of representatives, as the old one now was in such condition that it could not be taken up and cleaned, it was in such bad shape. He said it had been there 30 years. Two years ago when an attempt was made to get the house up to money, four-fifths of them opposed it.

Referring to his coming into the state house eight years ago, Mr. Olcott said he was proud of the conditions of the buildings and grounds as these by law came directly under his care. Senator Patterson spoke highly of the present condition of the state's public buildings and commended Mr. Olcott for his pride in keeping things up with the small amount of money appropriated.

As to issuing the Oregon Blue Book, Mr. Olcott said that 30,000 copies would be required this year and that it would be issued about July 1. The cost will amount to about $6,000. He read several letters in which it was suggested that the Oregon Blue Book would be most suitable as a text book in the
