HARVEY WELLS WANTS OFFICE IN PORTLAND

House Favors This Removal Of State Insurance Commissioner's Office.

The entering wedge in removing certain state house duties from the capital city to Portland was taken in the house this morning and the Marion delegation with the exception of Mr. Hughes, who was not present, voted in favor of permitting the removal. The bill came up from Mr. Martin of Marion county, chairman of the insurance committee, permitting Mr. Wells, commissioner of insurance to open an office in Portland and to maintain an office there. The argument was made that it was for the convenience of the public.

Mr. Martin spoke in favor of establishing a branch office for the commissioner in Portland, claiming that the entire insurance committee believed in dividing the office and permitting Mr. Wells to maintain Portland offices. C. E. Woodson of Heppner was inclined to look with disfavor on this entering wedge of dividing the state offices. He thought it was a bad precedent and might be followed by others who might wish to establish quarters in Portland. The argument in favor of allowing the Insurance Commissioner to maintain a Portland office was that fully two-thirds of the commissioner's business was with Portland firms. Representatives from counties along the Columbia river also supported Mr. Martin's bill, saying it was a lot of trouble for them to come to Salem when it would be much more convenient to have the commissioner's office in Portland.

F. J. Lafky, a former Salem resident, came in from Corvallis yesterday for a visit with friends.

A very pathetic and at the same time puzzling case came to the attention of Chief of Police Varney last night. A feeble old man, over 80 years old and living alone in a rooming house here, called up Mr. Varney and requested that he be given a cell for the night. The chief took him in and made him as comfortable as possible, and for some reason the man seems to prefer the cell to going to the poor farm. He has been in this community for 30 years or more and so far as anyone knows has no living relatives. He had saved in some way the amount of $85 which he turned over to the chief, telling him he had been hoarding it up so that he could be decently buried beside his first wife, who died many years ago.
