WILSON'S DEPARTURE POSTPONED FEW DAYS

Delays Because He Wishes To Bring Back Finished Draft Of League Constitution.

By Robert J. Bender (United Press Staff Correspondent) Paris, Feb. 12.—Delay in completion of the league of nations constitution may necessitate President Wilson's return to France immediately after adjournment of congress, it was learned.

The president attended a benefit opera performance last night. He will confer tonight with Dr. Repart, Swiss authority on the league of nations and with Archbishop Tourain and Professor Hagopian, representative of Armenians, who will report on conditions in their country. He will also receive a delegation from the French association of the society of nations.

All the gifts and souvenirs received by President and Mrs. Wilson have been packed ready for sailing. They fill 23 boxes.

The Chehalis Citizens' club has prepared a memorial addressed to the president, protesting against the proposed extension of the Rainier national park.

LEAGUE CONSTITUTION ACTED ON TOMORROW IS PRESENT SCHEDULE

By Fred S. Ferguson. (United Press staff correspondent) Paris, Feb. 12.—Whether obstructionists will give a temporary victory by blocking final adoption of the league of nations' constitution, prior to President Wilson's departure for the United States as well as further stirring up Paris with a war scare will be determined within the next thirty-six hours.

The league of nations' committee is scheduled to take final action tomorrow on the constitution, the draft of which was being put in shape by a sub-committee today. The committee's work will be hampered by the fact that many of the amendments presented at recent meetings—two entirely new articles have been added to the original 22—are not yet entirely agreed on. If the committee cannot reach an agreement tomorrow, submission of the draft to the general peace congress this week will be impossible.

The amendments to the league constitution are understood to have been introduced largely by the French who are said to have been developing an actual distrust of President Wilson, who is insinuated to be defending the Germans and Bolsheviks. This feeling not only has been demonstrated in the French Press but is alleged to have developed in various committees. The French attitude has resulted, it is understood, in insistence that the constitution provide for establishment of a great international army to be stationed in France, as well as further restrictions on German and Russian membership.

War Scare Bothers French. The war scare has incited the French to propose occupations of Essen and other military extensions to the original realistic terms. Well-informed military authorities declare Marshal Foch is far over estimating the situation when he says the Germans are able to put an army of 3,000,000 in the field within two months. A British officer who just returned from Germany said that even if Germany were in a position to raise a new army the food situation is such that she would be unable to feed it more than two weeks. In addition, it is known that the German transport system was practically in a state of complete breakdown when the armistice was signed. The rolling stock, automobiles and horses, turned over to the allies since then would render immobile any army Germany might gather.

Charge That U. S. Favors Huns. The French, it is charged, in opposing American suggestions for economic concessions to Germany, are trying to make it appear that the Americans are favoring the Germans, where as the Americans are merely trying to apply the rules of common sense. For instance, in manufacturing after peace is signed, France and Belgium will be given preference in shipment of raw materials. But the French want German factories to be held inoperable until France is thoroughly re-established industrially and able to compete on an equal basis. Both the British and Americans appreciate that France is handicapped through wanton destruction of her plants by the Germans, but the question arises as to how money may be expected to be obtained from Germany for reparation if she is not permitted to go to work and earn it.

CITY NEWS.

County Supt. Smith is today sending out literature and blanks for the enrollment of members of the Working Boys reserve, as it is the wish of the government authorities that this organization should be maintained during the coming season. It should be borne in mind that all boys who are already engaged in what might be termed an essential industry will be given credit for their work in that line.

Elk Big Brothers Entertain Boys At Training School

The boys of the Industrial Training School were given the time of their lives last night when a group of the Elks "Big Brother" contingent drove out to the institution and put on a variegated entertainment. The Elks orchestra was included in the troupe, furnishing some lively music, and a number of vocal solos were rendered by Dan Langenberg and O. L. MacDonald. Ref White and Chas. Knowland put on one of their inimitable colored stunts, consisting of jokes and songs, with a touch of local color. Ted Howard sprang a surprise on the entire crowd by camouflaging himself in the garb of the training school. He seated himself among the boys and when Aug. Huestein, who presided over the gathering, called for a volunteer entertainer from among the boys, Howard shuffled forward, took the platform and got off a side-splitting number. He was called back twice before the boys would let him off. O. L. McDonald, of the aerial squadron, gave the boys a most interesting talk and later turned his magnificent tenor voice loose with a solo. The audience was so immensely pleased with this that he was called back three times. E. Cooke Patton was on hand with his inexhaustible repertoire of sleight-of-hand stunts and for many minutes kept the boys amused and mystified by his wonderful performances. Brief addresses were made by Mr. Huestein, Sam Endicott and Frank Durbin, all of them dropping thoughts that appealed to the ambitions and the better nature of the boys. To make the event a complete round of delight, the boys were later served with ice cream and cake furnished through the generosity of the Elks. Then to give the boys a chance to entertain their visitors Elmer Stultz took the piano and led them in a series of rollicking songs which went to show that there is some real musical talent in the school. In closing the entertainment at a late hour, Superintendent Gilbert, speaking in behalf of the boys expressed his hearty appreciation of the kindness conferred by the Elks and citizens.
