Picked Up On The Street

ROBT. PAULUS—"It did my soul good to see the way the Salem business men came across to back up the big band event. If they can do that I guarantee they can build up the Commercial club to 600 members. They are just beginning to realize what can be done in Salem, and I believe we are on the eve of a revival of the old-time spirit—in the days when we used to do things. The people of Salem are too conservative to their own possibilities. It is just a matter of awakening the spirit of enterprise that is latent here in order to start a new epoch of progress."

CHARLES KNOWLAND—"I am heartily in sympathy with the movement to enlist the boy life of Salem in the Scout movement. It was a mighty good thing for the boys to have ideals and motives to live up to; and it will be a good thing for the business men to get into touch with the young fellows. It will mean a lot to the social life of the boys, and they should be backed up by the Y. M. C. A. and the churches. It is my opinion that the churches are not meeting the young folks half way in the matter of sociality and amusements. They have got to loosen up in some of their restrictions and opposition as to certain forms of amusement if they want to keep their grip on the boys and girls."

MAYOR ALBIN—"I look for the coming event in honor of our soldier boys to be the biggest thing ever put on in Salem. It is enlisting the interest and the sympathy of everybody. I am delighted with the liberality and the readiness of the business men of Salem in getting back of the movement. It is such a big thing that I don't want to even confine it to Marion county, but I want the people of Polk county to be included in it."

E. L. STIFF—"No, there isn't one-half the business in second-hand goods now that there was six months ago. Last summer and fall we were so swamped with household goods from people moving out of town that we did a wholesale business with outside dealers. Now we would be glad to get some of them back at the same prices, for the trade is all the other way. This indicates that there is a lot of people flocking back to Salem. It's almost impossible to secure good houses in Salem now, and I'm looking to see the old town get back to where it was before the war."

D. A. WHITE CO.—"The farmers are going to get a big lift this season in the price of grain sacks. They are now selling for about half what they brought last August, and they are likely to go lower. One reason for the shortage last year was that millions of them were used for sand-bags on the war front. The majority of them come from Calcutta, and are made by the cheapest labor in the world, so that his country cannot compete in the business."

Notes From The House of Representatives

To curb the curb-stone real estate dealer in Portland as well as out in the rural districts, the House passed a real estate bill. This bill provides a special license and the filing of a $1000 bond. The license fee is to be $5 a year. The real estate men want the bill to prevent those who do not handle real estate from jumping in and attempting to kill sales. The bill does not interfere with anyone selling or leasing his own property. It is just to kill the curbstone variety.

Two boxing bills required much of the time of the House Friday afternoon. One proposed that a commission be appointed and was favored by certain boxing interests of Portland. The other bill—known as the high-brow boxing bill—also as the McFarland bill, provided for boxing entertainment and that the net proceeds be given to some charitable purpose. As the House is mostly from the smaller towns, there was no real interest in the bills. Hence one was killed and the other laid on the table. Looney and Weeks voted for the McFarland bill, Hughes and Speaker Jones against, Martin absent.

Dogs came in for their share of attention by the House yesterday. Representative Lafferty had his bill up for consideration, providing that counties or precincts may vote on the running at large of dogs without a muzzle. Should the bill finally become a law, there will be quite a market for dog muzzles in counties or districts opposed to dogs running at large. Mr. Lafferty lives at Corvallis.

A RAW, SORE THROAT

Eases Quickly When You Apply a Little Musterole.

And Musterole won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Just spread it on with your fingers. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. It is fine for quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). Nothing like Musterole for croupy children. Keep it handy for instant use. 30c and 60c jars; hospital size $2.50.

iting in Portland.
The "Approved Workers" Sunday school class met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hadley Thursday evening and enjoyed an oyster supper. The rooms were daintily decorated with hearts and pussy willows and the games played were in keeping with Valentine's day. The guests departed at a late hour remembering Mr. and Mrs. Hadley as delightful entertainers. Those present were Merss. and Mesdames Heckert, McMillan, R. Bates, Way Bloom, Gardner Carmack and Miss Lillian Bloom.

Mr. Hockensmith is an old time resident of this city, where he conducted a boarding house at the time the railroad was being built through here. They will be joined by a son who has just returned from overseas and is at present at Camp Lewis, before returning to their home.

Mrs. M. E. Sastburn received a telegram from her son, John W., on Wednesday of this week saying he had just arrived at Newport News, Va. from overseas. He has been in the service over a year having enlisted with company M from Salem, later being transferred to an ammunition train where he served as an expert mechanic. He expected to receive his discharge soon.
E. S. Swank made a business trip to Portland this week.

Wants Returned Soldiers To Register At Court House

Mrs. Frank K. Brown, who is in charge of the registration of all Marion county boys preparatory for the homecoming of Company M, wishes all returned soldiers, sailors, marines and S. A. T. C. boys to call at her office in the court house as soon as convenient and enroll their names so that it may be known how many are to be included in the big demonstration to come. She will be in the office for this work from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. It is also desired that all boys who have returned from any branch of the service whatever should feel that they have an equal part in the celebration with those who are expected to come in a body. It has been suggested that it would be well for the boys who have already arrived to form themselves into a loose
