MAY DECIDE SALARIES BY REFERENDUM VOTE

Ways And Means Finds It Has
Only $100,000 To Meet
Emergencies.

It now looks that all the proposed salary boosts... will be passed on to the people and the legislators instead of taking the responsibility of raising salaries will let the voting public do it, provided of course the voting public favors salary boosts.

The ways and means committee, which has the handling of appropriations has about completed its figures and it finds that, keeping itself within the constitutional six per cent, here will be no money left for salary raises and special appropriations.

The committee cannot legally appropriate any more money and it has already placed this money in keeping up the various state institutions for the coming two years. After making up its figures, it finds there is barely $100,000 left with which to meet emergencies for the next two years.

Hence with this condition confronting it, the ways and means committee has decided that if the people want to spend more money than the constitutional allowance, it is for the people to act.

This decision on the part of the ways and means committee will leave up in the air proposed salary increases for the supreme court, insurance commissioner, state engineer, corporation commissioner, dairy and food commissioner, secretary of the board of control, warden of the state penitentiary and various other bills that required a special appropriation. Several bills for salary increases have passed the house while others were being prepared for presentation.

At the referendum, the people of the state will have a chance to determine whether the supreme judges shall have their salaries advanced from $4500 to $5200 a year and other state officers $1000.

TIME ELEMENT TAKEN OUT OF CONSTITUTION

Understood To Have Been Done Just Before Presenting It To Peace Congress.

Paris, Feb. 15.—One of the most important articles of the league of nations constitution was understood today to have been eliminated at the last moment before its presentation to the general peace congress. This provided that the life of the league, in its present form, should be ten years. The reason for the reported withdrawal of this provision could not be ascertained. It was believed, however, that inasmuch as the present organization is next spring when they will return to Oregon to reside.

only tentative and may be amended greatly before it is formally adopted by the member nations, there was no essential reason for placing a time limit on continuation of the organization as now constituted.

The provision regarding admission of new members is so framed that Germany and Austria cannot be included in the league until they give absolute assurance that they will live up to the peace terms imposed upon them. The other great candidate for membership, Russia, must also furnish guarantees. This particular article is believed to have been aimed principally at these three nations, as all other countries of importance will be signatories at the outset.

The belief prevailed in official circles today that The Hague tribunal will continue as the league's court of arbitration, or will be converted into such a court although the former arrangement is said to be most likely. The will be aside from the permanent court to hear all judicial cases.

General peace work will be greatly speeded upon that the league of nations has been temporarily disposed of. It is also regarded as possible that after President Wilson's return to Paris, many questions will be turned over to the league which otherwise would be settled by the general conference.

A DREAM OF A NIGHT ROBE

Her nightgown, of palest flesh tint silk, is made on quite severe lines and depends entirely on that odd little yoke of Georgette for unusualness. The yoke is barred with a navy blue stripe and one of maize. A bit of blue ribbon and Valenciennes lace finishes it around the top.
