GRAVEL PLANT READY.

The Phillips gravel plant will be ready to take gravel from the Pudding river this week. The first gravel taken out will be used to gravel a road from the bunkers on the river bank to the mixing plant on the Dick farm beside the Pacific highway, where the paving contractor will screen and crush the gravel which will be hauled in trucks. Part of the distance is a county road, the rest is across the Kroeger farm. Mr. Phillips estimates that he can pull 200 yards or more per day from the bed of the river. It will require from 15,000 to 20,000 yards for the highway work. At the gravel plant four men will be employed, at the mixing plant a large number will be required.—Aurora Observer.

OREGON WILL SECURE

for reconsideration, several amendments were added which provided as follows: That the state land board shall proceed to perfect the title of the state of Oregon to the lake. Also that no action shall be taken for the drainage of the lake until authorized by some future legislature. Malheur lake is now the property of the federal government as by a compact set passed years ago, the title of such marsh lands remains with the federal authorities, until the state takes action to perfect title. Now the state will proceed to secure title to the lake. On the fear that certain interests might drain the lake, the amendment as to drainage was added. As the mayor present condition as a bird reservation, now stands, the lake will remain in its state will soon have title, and private interests will not be permitted to use the water of the two creeks for irrigation purposes, but the federal government will not be given possession.

Advocate Of Men's Clothes

For Women Dies At Chicago

Oswego, N. Y., Feb. 22.—Dr. Mary Walker, famous as the woman who was authorized by congress to wear masculine clothes, died here last night. She was 87 years old. Death was caused by a general breakdown. Recently she had been in failing health and spent much of her time at her farm, Bunker Hill, six miles from Oswego, where she died. Dr. Walker was noted for her habit of wearing a tall hat, frock coat, trousers, waistcoat and men's shoes. She advocated this dress reform, contending that all women should attire themselves similarly. Dr. Walker was one of the earliest active campaigners for women suffrage. She was a democrat. In the civil war she was an assistant surgeon with the rank of first lieutenant and was captured and held prisoner by the Confederates until exchanged. Later she received the congressional medal of honor for bravery on the field. Early in life she married a Rome, N. Y. man. They separated soon. Thereafter Dr. Walker, steadfastly refused to mention the name of her husband. Born in Oswego, Dr. Walker graduated from Syracuse medical college in 1855 and from the University at Columbus, Ohio, two years later. She practiced medicine, lectured in all parts of the United States and formed the habit of making annual visits to Washington in behalf of votes for women, which she advocated in a conservative way.

CROSS-STITCH FOR TRIMMING

Red in the trimmings seems to be getting stronger and stronger as spring advances. Here it is introduced in cross-stitching as a background to black-centered flowers on a frock of tricolored in oyster shade. At the back there is a panel from the shoulders that may or not be tied with the sash-ends that are attached to the bodice.

United States Tires

Chain, Nobby, Royal and Nobby Cord. When Uncle Sam went to war, he took with him a full supply of Royal and Nobby Cord tires. There's a reason. They make good. When anything is so good that a man who buys it goes about recommending it to his friends, you know it must be good. That's what happens when a man uses United States tires. Look around Salem and surrounding country and see how many tire customers we have. You will be our customer eventually. Why not now? We give tire service to the motorist and sell only tires that are built and backed by an organization which keep the consumer's interest uppermost in mind. We are proud of our goods and are here to stay and guarantee satisfaction to the tire users of Salem and vicinity. You do not have to wait for two or three weeks to get an adjustment on a tire, if you are entitled to one you get it in a few minutes.
