OFFICER 666 HAS MAYOR ALBIN AS ONE OF LEADING ACTORS

Elks Play This Year Promises To Be Better Than Shows Of Former Years.

The Honorable C. E. ALBIN has the distinction of being the first mayor of Salem to become generally known throughout the state. When the "flu" broke out here the mayor broke into print, and everywhere from Marshfield to Baker and from Astoria to Burns read the daily interviews with the chief executive of the capital. The breaking out of the flu was not alone responsible for Mr. Albin's widespread publicity. The trouble was that the legislature was also scheduled to break out in Salem at the same time, and that the mayor declared emphatically that Salem was not big enough to accommodate two evils at the same time. This raised a nice legal question, which was argued all over the state, as to whether the mayor could stop the legislature

State House Notes

Probably no official or citizen of Oregon is besieged by such a mass of detail business, much of it new and unexpected, as Acting Governor Olcott in his dual capacity as secretary or state and chief executive. His private office has a continuous succession of visitors and officials, so that but a scant executive ability and his native urbanity are constantly in action, much of his attention being taken up with the arrangements for the governor's funeral. As might be expected, he has no word to say with regard to his future plans and policies. But contemplating the psychology of the man, the experience and breadth of vision which he brings to the complex situation, it may be taken as though it came from his own lips that he will act broadly in his official policies, and conservatively in the matter of appointments. Although silent as to his intentions, he speaks freely with regard to the late executive of whom he spoke with the highest regard and respect, as a man of the highest ideal and loftiest patriotism.

Educated Greek Writes For Opening In Oregon

The following letter was received by the Salem Commercial club from A. G. Pentis, a scientific agriculturist of Krasia, Greece, who has heard of Oregon and is evidently on his way: "Dear sir: Am glad to remind you again and to inform you that I have definitely decided to visit your prosperous country and to become an American citizen, thinking that my life in the United States will be prosperous and peaceful. "Note that I am a married man and wish to find a place suitable to me both as a livelihood and as a business place. On my capacity you must count much as I am a man of wrong character, with great will and am seeking for prosperity. "As soon as will arrive in New York will let you know in order if necessary to facilitate me in my voyage from where to Oregon state. "The interference in the great war of the greatest power of the United States gave the most satisfactory results of the greatest war that has ever taken place in the universe. Live the great power of the U. States."

Probably nothing surrounding the metamorphosis of acting-governor Olcott calls for more speculation than his attitude as to the office of lieutenant governor. Questioned on that point, he made it plain that he took the same stand that he did in 1912 when the question came up before the people on the referendum. At that time he endorsed it, believing it would be best for the state to provide for that office. Although the measure was twice turned down by popular vote, he still asserts that he still favors the amendment providing for the new office.

Superintendent of Banks, W. L. Bennett is in St. Johns today, called there by the First Trust and Savings Bank which has been placed in charge of the department for thirty days on account of a "kink" in the affairs of the institution. It will be temporarily closed to all operations. Mr. Cline, of the highway commission, calls attention of all contractors to the fact that the opening of bids for the construction of units of the Pacific highway, which was to have been held at Portland tomorrow, has been postponed until Friday, March 7, on account of the governor's funeral. Mr. Cline will go to Portland tomorrow to receive the bids as scheduled, and they will be held over until Friday for the opening.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She Made Up A Mixture Of Sage Tea And Sulphur To Bring Back Color, Gloss And Youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.
