As yet no definite arrangements have been made to welcome members of Company M who are expected to arrive in the city this week. The men have been put through the mustering office and have gone through the final physical examination and are now ready to receive their final discharge papers. It is probable that as soon as it is known definitely when they will return that a proper reception committee will be appointed. The big homecoming reception to the boys, when everybody in Salem and the surrounding country are to properly welcome the boys, will not be held for two or three weeks, Mrs. John Carson said this morning.

The mid week services of the First Baptist church will be held this evening instead of tomorrow evening. The change in date was made to enable members and friends of the church to hear Dr. W. T. Milliken of Oregon City. He was a guest today noon at a luncheon given by the men of the church and he will deliver an address this evening at the church.

Dr. and Mrs. Clements left this morning for New York via Los Angeles and the south and expect to be gone approximately six weeks. Dr. Clements' practice will be in the hands of Dr. J. O. Matthias. Miss Esther Bell will continue in the office attending to business matters up until Saturday, March 15th, then she will also take a vacation.

The weather man at Portland, who is supposed to attend to the rainfall and such for the northwest, says that in this valley we are still a little short on our quota of rain for the season. For the benefit of the old Oregonians who really enjoy moist weather it may be said that the rainfall in Salem was 8.10 inches in February and 8.88 inches in January. That so far this month it has rained 2.62 inches and prospects encouraging for more. The wind was in the north this morning, for the first time in about a month.

At 10 o'clock this morning there was just one meal in the house stand for the Elks show at the opera house this evening. That seat happened to be on hand as it had been turned in by a party going out of town. And the same is true of the Thursday evening performance. Hence those who could not be accommodated for the first two nights will be given a chance at seats for the Friday evening show. For it has been decided to give the show three times, with the last performance Friday evening.

C. M. Pouch, a farmer living near Marion told his neighbor that he could find plenty of green aphids in the ground. Said friend didn't believe any such aphid story and was willing to wager his farm that friend Pouch could not produce anything like a green aphid. Just to settle the dispute Mr. Pouch went over into his neighbor's field, dug into the ground, produced something that was apparently lifeless at first, but which later began to wiggle and crawl. It was identified as a green aphid specimen. Mr. Pouch gives the information that it should be dug down about six or seven inches in the ground, and find something that looked like ordinary ashes, that was just green aphids waiting until the right time of year to come out and do a lot of damage.

Sheriff Needham received a telegram this morning that the jury had decided in his favor in the damage suit brought against him in Portland by G. D. Trotter, in the federal court. About a year ago Mr. Trotter was arrested by the sheriff and although he was in custody only three hours, later accused Sheriff Needham of falsely and illegally arresting him. It seems that Trotter was arrested on a warrant sworn out by E. D. Young of Stayton, on the charge of insanity. There had been a personal dispute between Trotter and Young who was in business at Stayton. The jury was out but a few hours yesterday afternoon, but the verdict in favor of Mr. Needham was not returned until this morning. As the plaintiff is now a resident of the state of Washington, it was necessary to bring the suit in the federal court.

People living on the south side of the Santiam river, over in Linn county are lining up in favor of good roads. At Lebanon the other day the people got together and sent a big delegation to the county seat at Albany and talked over with the Linn county court the proposition of levying an additional five mill tax for good roads. As the special election will be held June 3, Marion county will have plenty of company in voting on the good roads proposition, according to dispatches from several parts of the state. The big thing now before the people is not the great leading highways, but good roads by which to reach these highways, said a road booster this morning.

Vick Bros. have no definite information on the new plans of Henry Ford in regard to putting out a car for $300.

While at Kansas City attending the National Automobile show, there was some discussion among Ford agents as to the new venture of Mr. Ford, but no definite information was available. Mr. Vick, from his personal acquaintance with Mr. Ford, is convinced that if Mr. Ford wanted to put up a plant and get out a car to retail for $300, that he could do it. From the best of information at hand, it seems that a number of stockholders in the Ford automobile plant are inclined to favor the plan of holding up the price of the Ford car, while Henry Ford himself would rather lower the price. Hence his plan of establishing another factory in which only the Ford family will be interested. Anyhow, if the factory is built next winter, there will be no $300 Fords on the market until the summer of 1920.

Fourteen tons is the allotment of Willamette chapter for refugee garments to be made by May 15 and unless there is more interest in this great work, the chapter will fall down on its assignment. Henry Meyers, chairman of the executive committee of Willamette chapter said this morning that something must be done whereby the auxiliaries are to continue their work until at least this allotment of garments is finished and shipped. There is need not only of more workers at the post office in Salem but of more workers in the rural auxiliaries and more interest in the Red Cross work, in order that this chapter which has always been in the front in its quotas, may not fall down in this final assignment. It is thought that this work on refugee garments will be the last call on the Red Cross.

On the evening of Thursday, March 20, Charles Burgraff of Albany, district deputy of the Elks lodge will visit the local lodge in Salem and deliver an address. This is the official visit required of the district deputy, who is also required to make a report of the doings of the lodge. It is especially noted that all past exalted rulers be present at this session.

John Davenport, who recently died at the age of 89 years, was of the famous Davenport family. He crossed the plains in 1851 and located in Silverton and was one of the original merchants of that city. He established the store that later was acquired by the Coolidge and McAlaine interests. In the early pioneer days he built a store near the state fair grounds in Salem in the triangular shaped piece of land on which is now located the Union Oil Works. He was a great mining promoter and at one time owned the famous Peer Man's gold mine near Nelson, B. C.

One of the finest, if not the finest, pair of elk horns in the state was sent over to Salem several years ago by Wm. Davenport, who secured them near Toledo. They belonged to a five year old buck, and measured about four feet from the base to the tip of each horn. They were returned to this city today after making a trip to Portland, where an effort was made to dispose of them at a suitable figure.

Edgar M. Rowland, who has been with the regimental band of the 163d Infantry in France, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon, having just received his discharge at Camp Lewis. He has been in the service since December, 1917.

There will be several opportunities to see the Elks play, but only one chance to hear Dr. Carl Gregg Doney in his instructive lecture, "The People and the Spirit of France." To be given at the public library this evening, free to all.

Father E. B. Murphy of St. Patrick's church in Portland, was one of the visitors with Governor O'Neale at the state house today. He has just returned from France where he has served as chaplain with the Knights of Columbus contingent since last May. He was called upon to pass through some of the most trying ordeals known in the war, as he was in a section where the influenza raged fiercely. During his stay he was called to minister to about 800 dying soldiers and to preside over their burial ceremonies. He was himself stricken with influenza and for a time was very near to death. He expresses the greatest pleasure in being back in Oregon.

Letters from soldiers continue to arrive at the Salem post office, many of which are so incorrectly addressed that the "mail" men, who are supposed to be so sure of a Sherlock Holmes in locating people, is unable to find them. Within the past few days the following soldier's mail has arrived and it has been delivered as the parties to whom the letters are addressed cannot be located. They are as follows: G. D. White, 227 North Winter street, Salem; Miss Alice Kieckhefer, state hospital, Salem, forwarded to Moline, Ill.; Mrs. Levia B. Green, Salem, Ore.; Miss Alby Hess, forwarded to Salem from Myrtle Creek, Ore. (She has several pretty postals from the Rhine awaiting her); Mrs. E. E. Hunter, forwarded to Salem (Carter) 1379 North 18th street; Miss from Linton; Miss Mabel Barner (or Tals Berg), forwarded to Salem from Monroe, Wash.; B. Deane, Salem, Ore.; Miss Lillian Bond, 322 High street, Salem. If anyone happens to know these people, the man at the general delivery window at the postoffice would appreciate some information.

Two young men, each 19 years old, were granted a license to marry yesterday at the county clerk's office. When a youth is under age, a license is not issued unless the parents or one of the parents gives consent. Three licenses issued yesterday are as follows: Edward Albert Browning, age 19, a mechanic of Salem and Miss Hilda Marie Witzel, a telephone operator of Salem; P. B. Churehman age 19 of Salem and Edna Baker of Salem; Thomas R. Taton of Salem, age 28 and Pearl E. Myers, age 19 of Salem.

"Ben W. Olcott, governor; Ben W. Olcott secretary of state and O. P. Hoff, state treasurer, constituting and acting as the State Land Board of Oregon, versus R. C. Burgevin, et al." is the title of a suit brought in the circuit court today, for the foreclosure of a mortgage of $800 from funds loaned out of the Irreducible school fund. About six years ago this sum was loaned on a 29-acre tract and part of the west half of the original donation land claim of E. X. Matthias. When funds from the Irreducible school funds are loaned and it is found necessary to foreclose the mortgage, suit is brought in the names of the members of the State Land Board.

Officials Say DeValera Cannot Be Admitted To U.S.

Washington, March 12.—Immigration officials stated today that Edward De Valera, the fugitive Sinn Fein president, would be admitted to the United States only if he presents satisfactory passports. This is necessary under the war restrictions, they stated. England undoubtedly would refuse to issue the passport and in case De Valera should be smuggled into the United States it would be the duty of the American government under international law to apprehend him and turn him over to the British authorities just as is done with stowaways, officials stated.

NO HURRY TO SELECT PRESIDENT

San Francisco, Mar. 12.—A nationwide search for the best fitted man is to be completed before the University of California's new president is chosen. The board of regents announced this today, quieting several reports that certain western educators were practically chosen. Nobody is being given serious thought as successor to Dr. Benjamin Ide Wheeler at present and the regents may send a committee east to interview leading educators before a choice is made.
