Still Uncertain When Boys Of Company M Will Arrive There is still much uncertainty as to when the 20 or more members of Company M will arrive in Salem from Camp Lewis. A telegram received yesterday from R. O. Hansen stated that it was impossible to state the exact hour when the boys would get back. It is understood they will get into Portland about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon and probably take the 4:45 Oregon Electric and arrive in Salem at 6:45 o'clock. The government gives the boys the privilege of selecting their route home. Should the boys get back at 6:40 o'clock Saturday evening the program is to escort them to the court house for a short program. The Cherrian band will lead the march and the Grand Army of the Republic will follow as honor guards. The Company M boys will follow and after that the patriotic citizens who have turned out to meet the returning soldiers. The march will be to the court house steps for the short address of Judge Lawrence T. Harris. Several stores are decorating today in honor of the event and when the whistle blows tomorrow evening, it may be taken as a signal that the boys will arrive within half an hour. However, until definite information is at hand tomorrow, the details of the reception will remain as planned. But the ringing of church bells and the fire whistle will be the signal if perchance the boys do get home Saturday evening. Arctic Explorer Would Put Carabou Meat On Market Vancouver, B.
