Here is a hard luck story. R. C. Hallberg sued the Cherry City Flouring Mills for an accounting, claiming the mills owed him about $126.00. The mill put in a counter claim and after the case was tried a few days ago in the Marion county circuit court, and the jury got through with some figuring of its own, it returned a verdict that instead of the mill owing Mr. Hallberg $126.00, it was the other way and that Mr. Hallberg owed the mill $29.82.

There will be no dance at Macleay tonight.

A big crowd will be at the army tonight for the dance. Come early.

The special election is to be held June 3, and one may register up to and including May 3. But if the voter has been registered and has voted during the past two years and has not moved out of the precinct from which registered, it will not be necessary to register again. One may move into a different ward and not be obliged to register again. But if that moving happens to take one out of the precinct, then it is proper to register. And if the voter does not register, on election day the vote may be sworn in by two freeholders.

Dance army tonight 8 p. m.

Mole and gopher scaps will double in price beginning with May 29 and the farmer or farmer boy is hereby notified of the increased revenue it all happens from the fact that the recent legislature changed the law bringing gopher and mole scaps up to a value of ten cents. But the law does not become effective until 90 days after the approval by the governor and this is figured out to be May 29. The gray-digger scap holds at the old price of five cents each.

The pig club of the U. S. National bank under the direction of George W. Eyre met this afternoon at the Commercial club and effected a permanent organization with Elmer Roth, president. Frank Egger, vice president and Francis Smith, secretary. Addresses were delivered by R. K. Annan, a banker of Myrtle Point and Thomas Brunk of Polk county. Mr. Brunk gave some practical suggestions along the line of feeding, building of pens and right amount of space for each pig. J. W. L. Smith, school supervisor spoke of the general work of pig clubs, the requirements of a standard organization and what would be expected of its members. As organized this afternoon, the boys and girls will organize as a standard club. About 60 were present and the girls were there in equal number with the boys.

More help is wanted by the women who are in charge of the Red Cross headquarters at the post office building in the making of refugee garments. This is the last call for help but the chapter has been given a certain quota to be completed by May 15 and unless some of the women of the city volunteer, Willamette chapter will fall down in its work after having made one of the best records in the northwest. The sewing that is to be done is mostly machine work on garments already cut out. Everything is furnished, even including the thread. All that is wanted is workers. It is estimated that if every woman who is a member of the Red Cross should make just one garment a week until May 15 that the quota would be completed. The rooms are open of mornings to hand out garments and those who sew, meet every afternoon excepting Saturdays. To the credit of the rural auxiliaries it may be said that they have stuck to the work better than those from Salem. The records of the Red Cross will show this to be a fact.

Lieutenant E. M. Gilchrist, who has been with the First Infantry at Camp Lewis during the past two years, arrived in the city recently on a brief leave and has been shaking hands with old friends. He left for Camp Lewis this morning, stating that he expected to receive his discharge within a few while taking a course of law at Harvard going from there to the Presidio, then to Camp Lewis, where during a part of his service he conducted a training school.

There will be another meeting of the Scout Council at the Commercial club rooms Monday evening at 8 o'clock sharp, to which all interested business men are invited. Definite arrangements have been made with Scout Commissioner Brockway, of Portland, to be present to speak and take part in the conference, which will have to do with building up the organization and formulating plans for the summer.

A regretful apology is due from a hurried reporter to Miss Florence Shirley, who has served both as secretary and pianist for the Salem Symphony orchestra during the long drill for the recent concert. Probably no single member of the organization has contributed so much to the effectiveness of the renditions as Miss Shirley with her conscientious work at the piano, and it was particularly noticeable at the concert. But in the haste of picking up the names from the program for the newspaper report the name of Mrs. Schramm was inadvertently used instead of that of Miss Shirley.

Edward L. Clark, who recently received his discharge from the U. S. army and has been spending a few weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Clark, has secured a position with the surveying corps of the state highway and is at work near Port Orford on the Southern Oregon coast.

Burgess Ford, formerly a teacher with Willamette University and later teaching at Jefferson has returned from his duties as a Y. M. C. A. secretary overseas. He arrived in Portland yesterday and will deliver an address Sunday afternoon at the Portland Y. M. C. A. telling of his experiences. He was doing duty in the front lines serving chocolate to the fighting men at St. Mihiel when the order came for going over the top. It was also at St. Mihiel that Mr. Ford received his citation. He will visit his former home at Stayton and later his father, the Rev. T. B. Ford, district superintendent of the Methodist church, of this city.

G. E. Terwilliger was in Portland Thursday to not only hear Anna Case at the Heilig, but to renew his acquaintance with her pianist, Charles Gilbert Spross. He was a schoolmate of Mr. Spross back in New York state.

Jesse Tefft, born an American citizen applied this morning at the county clerk's office for papers declaring his intention of becoming an American citizen. Mr. Tefft was born in Michigan January 9, 1869, and now he lives at McKee, Marion county, Oregon. It just happens that several years ago he joined the rush to the wheat fields of Canada and that after taking up land there, he learned that he could not complete his homestead claim until he became a British subject and swore fealty to King George V. Now he is back in the U. S. arriving March 5, 1908, and after eleven years living in the good old U. S. A. has decided once again to become a real citizen.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to Paul Beale Taylor, age 21, a singing evangelist and Edna L. Bryant, of Salem, also a musician.

S. H. Ridenhout, about 18 years old and a driver for the Gile delivery, came to police station yesterday and told a lurid story of how he fought and fought the two boys who escaped from the reform school, and how he put them both out of business. To Chief Varney, he told the story of just how he dodged and upper cut the two escapes and had the thing all down to the slightest detail. A few hours later when called in to the police station he repeated the story to Chief Varney and other and then a little later signed an affidavit to the effect that his story were not true, that he had had his fight and that he was just telling the police a lot of stuff that was in his head only and not the truth.

Farmers are warned that the Weary Willie is once more abroad in the land. From whence he cometh or where he goeth, no one seems to know, not even the police. Last night one of this shiftless band of wanderers of the genuine hoboe type was found snoozing in the hay at one of the livery stable barns. He was handed over to the police station where he was given accommodations for the night only. These wandering Willies, the police say, are able to work but they all seem to be looking for California or Seattle instead of work.
