A. A. LEE--"No, I didn't read Sullivan's articles in Collier's with regard to the conditions in France, but I recently received a letter from my son, Lloyd, who is located at Tours, France, and he touches upon that very subject. He writes that France is no place for our boys in their state of semi-idleness. All conditions there are different--the ideals and moral standards are different. They cannot remain there for any great length of time without becoming affected by the atmosphere and spirit of the race. The quicker they are sent home the better."

OLD RESIDENT--"I have been very close in touch with the Salem schools for many years past, and I think I can say in saying that they have made more real progress in the past three years than in any other period of their history. The man at the head of them is a master of organization and has brought them up to a high standard in the face of a good deal of opposition."

W. C. HAWLEY--"This has been a very strenuous session of congress for me, and I am glad to be back in Oregon for a change. I was on the committee charged with the appointment of committees, and when you come to paces two hundred and sixty-seven out of a possible six hundred men, with due regard to personality, experience and geographic situation, you can imagine that it calls for some study and considerable diplomacy. There are a great many problems in the district that require my personal attention and I presume I shall be kept very busy during the next month."

W. T. JENKS--"I have just returned from a couple of weeks at Newport, which is a pretty good place to go for

A. A. LEE--"What relief! Your clogged nostrils open right up, the air passages of your head are clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffing, mucous discharge, headache, dryness--no struggling for breath at night, your cold or catarrh is gone."

Don't stay stuffed up! Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; asthma and head the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Ely's Cream Balm is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer has been seeking. It's just splendid.

quiet life even in the winter. There is a possibility of a great future before that place as an ocean resort--if some capitalist will go in there and put up buildings and facilities that will attract the better class of tourists. I have never seen a finer stretch of beach along the Oregon coast than you find there. I anticipate that the government railroad into the spruce belt will either be taken by the Southern Pacific or by some lumbering company, and that is going to make business in that section. I notice that there are agitating the matter of hard surface roads in that vicinity, and that will help to attract travel there."

C. G. MILLER--"The hotel business is one of the best indications in the world as to business conditions generally. If you take a look over the Marion hotel register sheets for the past few weeks you will find that our business has increased fully fifty per cent over this period last year, while our grill patronage has increased 100 per cent."

Another fact to be noticed is that the traveling men's registration has not only increased, but they--and in fact, the majority of arrivals--are spending money much more freely than they used to. And I find that in talking with them that they are generally very optimistic about the business outlook along the line; and not only that but they have a good word to say about the business future of Salem."

SUPT. BENNETT, of the Banking Department--"From all the reports that come into our office and from all my observations throughout the state, I gather that the banks were never in better condition than they have been during the past year. Even the heavy drains of the Liberty bond drives (and there were many cases where people borrowed money at the regular rates to take up bond payments) the clearings and deposit records are higher than ever before. It is shown that a new class of people are making deposits--people who never saw a check book before. Another fact is noticeable--that there have been very few cases of embarrassment during the past year."

CAUSTIC CRITIC--"I see Salem is importing its street preaching by automobile from Polk county. I don't know what the brand is, but it's good and loud, and has its nerve along with it. Not such a bad plan either. There's a lot of loungers--and some respectable business men--that wouldn't ever get a hint about a hereafter any other way, for they never see the inside of a church. I'm wondering what's the matter with the preachers in this town that they don't get out with a bunch of singers and try this sort of thing themselves. There's something less than 50 different breeds of denominations in this town. It looks as though some of them would come alive enough to come out in the open and try to round up the crowd that never goes to church. Might be a good thing both ways. I've been in some of the leading churches here on Sunday night when the congregation looked like the choir and the choir consisted of one sunburned lady and the organist. If they can't get the crowd into the churches they had better get out where the crowd is. There are a lot of people who would stop to hear preaching and singing in the open that you couldn't drag into a church with a larist."

Hayesville Sunday School Convention

The Hayesville Sunday school convention will be held at Chemawa next Sunday, March 30th. Harold F. Humbert, general secretary of the Oregon Sunday School Association, will speak both morning and afternoon. A number of other good speakers are on the program. Music will be furnished by the Chemawa association. A choir of Indian girls is going to sing and students of the Willamette University will give a number of selections. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

A RIPE OLD AGE

Morris Johnson, one of Silverton's pioneer farmers, celebrated his seventy fifth birthday anniversary a few days ago at his home near this city. In speaking of his advanced years Mr. Johnson said: "I sometimes wonder that I have lived so long when I look back to the three years and more of service I gave to this country during the war, and think of the hardships endured. Sleeping out in the rain and snow, as we did, and having little to eat at times was enough to shorten one's life by at least a score of years." But with all this Mr. Johnson is comparatively strong and full of hope for the future. Silverton Tribune.

EMERGENCY FUND WILL MEET WAR RISK NEEDS

This Announcement Was Made Today By Secretary Of Treasury Glass.

Washington, March 24.—President Wilson will allot sufficient funds from his own emergency fund to meet the needs of the war risk insurance bureau, Secretary Glass announced today.

The president's decision was received by Glass by cable this morning.

This means the work of caring for soldiers' and sailors' allotments, already suffering from delays, will be allowed to continue. Some two thousand employees of the bureau, however, had been discharged before the call for help was sent out by Glass and the answer received.

The president's cable did not make clear the amount which will be apportioned to the war risk bureau, officials stated. Secretary Glass said, however, approximately $5,000,000 will be required to tide the bureau over until July 1.

The funds required are for administrative expenses of the bureau. Direct payments on allotments, allowances and insurance were not affected by the failure of congress to pass emergency appropriation measures.

Officials said that had not this fund been made available by the president, there was a grave possibility that the bureau would have had to suspend its work about May 1.
