Delays In Shipping Wheat Inevitable

Oregon holders of wheat, as well as the commercial bodies that have been agitating the question of moving the surplus wheat in this state, may derive information if not consolation from a letter received by Senator McNary from President Julius Barnes, of the grain corporation in charge of all wheat movements for the food administration. In the course of the communication Mr. Barnes explains:

"The main emphasis of the commercial organizations is laid on the large stocks of wheat in Pacific coast ports. As to this wheat, we do not want to move it, have no place to move it, no elevator facilities available on the Atlantic coast for discharge of boats if we had boats to bring it around and it cannot be moved for some time, at least until the general position of ocean transportation relieves our Atlantic seaboard elevators and their facilities more largely than has been possible recently. I am sure that we will be able to overcome patiently with the shipping board any obstacles in the way of taking care of the crop surplus on the Pacific coast."

DIED

BOISE—At the residence in this city, 475 N. Summer street, at 2 a. m., Wednesday, March 26, Mrs. R. P. Boise, Sr., aged 91 years. Death was the result largely of old age and followed by an illness of only a few days. The funeral services will be held at the home on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. W. C. Kantner conducting, and the interment will be at the I. O. O. F. cemetery.

In the death of Mrs. Boise there passes one of the pioneer figures that have been associated with the history of Salem from the early days of its history—one of the links between the past and the present whose departure is felt by the entire community.

Emily A. Pratt was born in Oxford, Mass., in January, 1828, from which place she removed at an early age to Webster, Mass., where she spent the earlier part of her life. In 1890 she came to Oregon by way of the Isthmus and the Hawaiian Islands, and for a number of years made her home with her brother—Capt. L. E. Pratt, at that time superintendent of the historic Willamette Woolen Mills Co., the site of which mill still is pointed out on the bank of Mill creek.

She was a well educated woman, and for a period of six years was an efficient school teacher in the city. In the year 1896 she was married to Judge R. P. Boise, who in the territorial days was appointed to the supreme bench, and who served—with the exception of a break of several years—continuously on the supreme and circuit benches up to the year 1904. In the year 1907 he passed away, leaving a record of activity and influence in Oregon affairs that very few have surpassed.

Mrs. Boise made her home for many years in the old Jason Lee house—and to have been the first residence erected in Salem. She was a member, on the Congregational church for a long period of years, most active and conscientious in both religious and social duties, and she will be remembered with the highest respect and esteem by innumerable friends and acquaintances, who realize that she has had a large part in writing the history of Salem and in the creation of its moral and intellectual status.

There remain three children to mourn her loss—R. P. Boise, Jr., and Mrs. John H. Lauterman of this city, and Whitney Boise, of Portland. A daughter, Ellen S., was drowned in the year 1891 at North Beach.

Jurymen Are Selected In Case Against O.E. Brakeman

A trial that attracted more than usual interest was that of the state against Roy Green, an Oregon Electric brakeman, charged with the delinquency of a minor.

For the defense, great care was taken in the selection of jurymen and stress was laid on the fact as to whether the horror of such a crime would influence the mind of a jurymen. Each was asked whether he had children, how many and their ages. The defense was not in favor of jurymen who had young daughters or who had served as police officers.

Golda Todd of Sydney, with whom it is charged that Roy Green was attempting familiarity on the Oregon Electric, testified that she was sitting in the middle of the car seat and was unbrakeman pushed her to one side and sat down beside her. Also that he began putting his hand on her knee and body and that she kept pushing him away. That he would leave her as the train came to stations and then come back to where she was sitting.

Mr. King, an attorney of Eugene, testified to practically the same as Golda Todd, saying that after the brakeman sat beside her several times, the girl began to cry.

The defense was a general denial of the testimony of the girl and other witnesses for the prosecution.

The jury finally selected to try the case after a number had been challenged was as follows: Fred Yergen, D. Clifford, Fred D. Barber, Frank Dism, Louis Arai, Rue Drager, Vernon F. Kelly, Joshua Collinson, J. A. Jefferson, George Will, Ellis Stevens and Chas. Hein.

The defendant was represented by John H. McNary and W. E. Cutchelow of Portland. The prosecution was by Max Gehlhar, prosecuting attorney for Marion county.

BEGIN SECOND TRIAL

Seattle, Wash., March 25.—William Gottstein, Seattle real estate dealer, charged with the murder of John Murray, baggage checker, in the woods near Bay View, October 4, was taken from the county jail to the county and city building today to face trial.

He was found guilty in November, but his attorneys succeeded in obtaining a second trial on the theory that now evidence had been obtained to show that Chinese drug smugglers plotted the death of Murray.

Why Prices Go Up and Down

Much Livestock, Few Meat Buyers; Meat Prices Fall

Little Livestock, Many Meat Buyers; Meat Prices Rise

This shows why prices fluctuate. The number of animals shipped to market varies from week to week. The demand for meat also changes frequently, and often unexpectedly.

This means that live-stock prices and wholesale meat prices change from day to day. Competition determines prices so that the supply on hand at any one time is just taken up by the demand.

Swift & Company doesn't like these price changes. We have to use the utmost skill in buying and selling in order to get our average profit of a fraction of a cent per pound of meat.

STATE HOUSE NEWS

The supreme court has just handed out to a group of six Oregon attorneys permission to practice law in this state. They are Charles M. Stevens, of Eugene; Joseph M. Hawkins, of Albany; W. H. Cannon and B. F. Platt, of Medford; A. M. Woolpert, Hood River; L. R. Koeley, Portland.

The records in the office of Secretary of State indicate that the beautiful spring weather has brought out a drove of hibernating automobiles. Registrations are coming in at the rate of about 300 a day, a considerable proportion of them being new licenses.

Mr. Ohio, of the highway commission, left yesterday for Portland to attend the conference of commissioners regarding the west side highway from Portland to Corvallis. Commissioners Booth, Benson and Thompson returned to Portland yesterday from their trip, feeling gratified with the evidences of enthusiasm over road improvement everywhere manifested. The only trouble was that everybody wanted their highways built first.

John Brasmy, an aged man, was convicted at Bend for shooting robins for food, and fined $25.

Lane county banks have subscribed for United States treasury certificates of indebtedness to the amount of $700,000.

You Can't Cure Rheumatism With Liniments and Lotions

Torturing Pains Promptly Return in All Their Intensity

You may as well throw your liniments to the winds, if you expect them to rid you of the pangs of rheumatism. In fact, the sooner you discard forever the use of all forms of local treatment, the sooner you will get on the right track which leads to rational means of relief.

For you can rub and rub from now until doomsday, and you will never make any progress toward ridding yourself of rheumatism, because such treatment does not approach the source of the disease.

Remember from the outset that the pangs of rheumatism come from a deep-seated cause, and that simply rubbing the painful parts of the body has no effect on the disease itself. But when you locate the cause of the disease, the real source of all these intense pains, you can then treat the disease intelligently.

And until you do treat your rheumatism intelligently, you will never be free from its disabling pains.

So many people have found real, genuine and lasting relief from rheumatism by purifying the blood with S. S. S. that we are justified in recommending this splendid remedy to all who are afflicted. Perhaps your case is like thousands of others which are caused by millions of tiny disease germs in the blood. S. S. S. so thoroughly cleanses the blood, that it roots out completely and eliminates all disease germs that infect it.

In this way the source of the disease is reached, and its cause removed. Give your system a thorough cleansing with this reliable vegetable blood remedy, and you will be delighted to be free of the pangs of rheumatism. It has been used for more than fifty years and is sold at all drug stores. Begin its use today and you will have the same satisfactory experience as thousands of other sufferers.

Should you wish special advice about your own case, it can be had without cost by writing to Chief Medical Adviser, 101 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.
