Picked Up On The Street

W. A. LISTON—There are no big deals in real estate being closed up in this section, but there are a great number of inquiries for small farm and orchard tracts. The record of the fruit industry in this valley last year has attracted a good deal of attention to this country. I have made more sales so far this year than I made in the entire year of 1918. And I haven't been obliged to pay out money for auto hire to take people over the country. They have come to my office, and in some deals were closed up without the property being shown.

C. W. NIEMBYER—A lot of people in this town are making a mistake in assuming that Salem is going to have a big boom. There is a great deal more activity in property than there was last year, but it simply means that Salem is getting back to its normal condition—in its status before the war. Property owners are taking the wrong course in putting up the prices on their holdings beyond a reasonable figure in anticipation of a rush. That policy will simply tend to discourage investors and shut themselves out of a possible sale. There are people here who have been holding on for years waiting for a chance to unload and they had better take a fair chance when it comes. I know of several cases where deals were practically closed up lately and the holders backed out with the explanation that they expected property prices to go higher.

JUDGE BUSHEY—This Market Roads committee is going to run up against a whole lot of human nature. I tell you. The further we get into this thing the more tangled it gets, for there is no possibility of adjusting this program of road building to suit everybody. It doesn't make any difference about the equity of the thing, the man who happens to be left out in the cold when it comes to taking up the work of road improvement is bound to feel that he is being imposed upon, and some will be so sore that they will probably undertake to beat the bonds at the election. There are a few men who have come forward and expressed their willingness to be assessed $3 an acre on their land for the sake of having their road surfaced; but there are a lot of others living along the line of the Pacific highway who won't come across with a dollar.

OSCAR STEELHAMMER—When I left the shipyards several weeks ago there were several thousand men idle in Portland and they were getting more numerous for the reason that the shipyards have been cutting down their forces to actual mechanics and experienced workers. There are a good many returned soldiers in the city and altogether the labor situation is a peculiar one. The discharged men and the soldiers too, are hanging about the city looking for jobs at the same big wages they got last summer; but they will never get them again. There is plenty of work to be had out in the timber and on the farms. Just these fellows don't propose to take up with that kind of employment. The returned soldiers are going to get some hard jobs before they get through. They have come back with rather an exalted idea of what is coming to them in the way of employment; but while the employers are inclined to favor them, they can't get inexperienced men into positions where experienced men are required simply because they are soldiers. The place for a lot of them is out on the farms and on the highway.

CAUSTIC CRITIC—There are three types of criminals I have run across in Salem that somehow have been overlooked by the courts and the Oregon laws. One is the man that sits behind me at the picture show or at church with a combination of onions and brick cheese on his breath; another is the clothes-pin that uses a fire-and-brimstone style of profanity in the presence of women and children; and another is the woman who doesn't know what part of the downtown district her 16-year-old daughter is in at 10 p. m. along with a cigarette-smoking youth with a kink in his moral make-up.

If any young lady in Salem or vicinity would like to have the honor of becoming Miss Columbia or one of her 48 maids for the Northwest Peace Jubilee to be held at Tacoma June 30 to July 6, now is the time to let such fact be known to the manager of the Salem Commercial club or to Mayor C. E. Albin. For they have received an invitation from the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce to suggest that a candidate for such honors be presented from Salem. All such a candidate would have to do would be to receive from the Northwest Peace Jubilee a coupon book with 50 coupons, each of which is a vote at 10 cents per vote. The young lady who sends in, with 48 others, the greatest number of votes at 10 cents each will become officially maid for Miss Columbia, which in this case is the young lady who turns in the greatest number of votes.

Three Miles of Chevrolet Automobiles

Were you to stand at a given point and a line of automobiles three miles long were to pass by you, all of one make, and running 40 feet apart what would you think?

Since February 23, 1918, we have sold enough Chevrolet cars to make just such a line THREE MILES LONG.

This little comparison will give you some idea of the popularity of the Chevrolet car in this territory, and clearly shows the stamp of approval accorded it by the people of Polk and Marion counties.

It further shows that the majority of people want and demand a Standardized car, which means every piece and part carried in stock and serviced in fact, not in promises.
