

Your son— are you sure he has a father?

"Will Fathers Never Learn?" is a simple unvarnished confession of what happened to a boy and why. No parent can afford to miss this boy's startling disclosures, which picture the risks that may come to your own children. Mothers do not know; they do not suspect. Fathers know; but they forget. Read this true and pathetic narration to-night. And then get your husband to read it.

Will the woman of the future want to be a mother? is one of the questions asked—and answered—by W. L. George in "Women and the New Society." "Thirst," a masterpiece by Ida A. R. Wylie, gives a vivid glimpse of Russia. Then there are stories by Kathleen Norris, Jennette Lee, Rebecca Hooper Eastman; more of those powerful serials, "The River's End" by James Oliver

Curwood, and "The Web of the Spider" by Arthur Somers Roche. Good Housekeeping Institute contains countless suggestions; among them "Time-Saving Meals" and "The Secret of the Successful Small Roast." There are 17 pages of Spring Fashions—64 individual sketches of suits, blouses, dresses, etc., showing the very latest modes. Astounding value—get it today.

TEMPORARY INSANITY MISS GARRISON'S PLEA

Trial Of Girl Who Poisoned Wife Of Man She Loved Opens In Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., April 1.—Temporarily insane when she poisoned Mrs. Grace Storrs two weeks ago, but sane now.

This was the plea entered this afternoon in Judge Tallman's court by Ruth Garrison, the 18-year-old girl who confessed she had placed strychnine in the fruit salad eaten by the wife of Dudley Storrs, the man with whom she was enamored.

The Garrison girl answered "Not guilty" when the question was put to her by the judge.

When court convened a large crowd had gathered in the hallways and courtroom to catch a glimpse of the youthful defendant.

"Not guilty by reason of insanity at the time of the commission of the crime," was the technical wording of the plea. Accompanying the oral statement was also a written plea setting forth that since the date of the crime, Ruth Garrison has been sane and would be "safe to be allowed at large."

The extraordinary plea is made necessary, the lawyers explained afterward, under the laws of the state, in order to give Ruth Garrison a fighting chance for liberty. The law requires a written statement at the time of entering a plea of insanity in which the court must be apprised as to whether the defendant still claims to be insane or whether sanity has been recovered.

It will be up to the jury when she is tried, to determine first whether Miss Garrison is guilty of murder, notwithstanding her plea of insanity, or whether she is innocent by reason of insanity.

In the event she is found "not guilty," the jury will have to answer the specific question of whether she is still insane. If the jury says "no," she will go free. If the jury believe "yes" and that she is still unsafe to be at large, Miss Garrison will be sent to the insane ward of the penitentiary.

Superintendent Todd Off To Attend Teachers Meet

Superintendent John Todd, of the city schools, leaves this afternoon for Spokane to attend the three-day session of the Inland Empire Teachers' association. He is accompanied by his assistant, Miss Margaret Cooper, and by Miss Edna Sterling, head of the English department. Miss Sterling is also a member of the Oregon Text book commission and her visit to Spokane is partly for the purpose of gathering ideas and data with regard to the text book problems, which will be dealt with in the sessions.

While Supt. Todd is not assigned to any subject on the program it may be expected that his voice will be heard in discussions and in enlightening observations from his work in this city.

The program issued shows a most remarkable scope as it takes up education in its relations to post-war problems, its relation to the future of democracy, the operation of the Smith-Hughes act, economics, manual training, club work, extensions of scientific training, and other subjects which twenty five years ago were scarcely thought of in connection with the public school.

On the program appear the names of some of the foremost educators of the northwest Oregon being represented by twelve speakers. In addition to these, there are a number of prominent leaders from the middle west and from the Atlantic cities.

Besides the scientific and pedagogic discussions, the committees have arranged a generous number of musical and entertainment features. Altogether the association is a cultural treat that is to be envied for any one who can attend.

Court House

The city of Turner has filed objections to witness fees in the recent trial before the circuit court when the city lost in its suit against S. M. Endicott and W. C. Winslow on a matter of about $62. The city objects to paying $2.00 fees for the services of West Smith who was not called on to testify and also the same amount for the services of Mrs. Baker, whom the defendants called as a witness but was not called.

F. N. Derby, receiver for the Independent Meat Market, has petitioned the court for an order to sell the salted meats and bacon of the market and to dispose of the fixtures. According to the report of Mr. Derby, the total assets of the Independent market amounted to $627.89 and that so far claims amounting to about $850 have been presented. The petition for sale was granted.

Announcement was made today by Governor Oblett of the appointment of Dr. Jean Cline of Portland and Dr. R. H. Olinger of Salem as members of the state board of dental examiners. They will succeed Dr. Walter J. Larson of Portland and Dr. Alex MacDougal of Baker, whose term expires tomorrow.

Dr. Olinger was a member of the dental board for practically thirteen years—from April 1, 1906, to February 5, 1919. He was secretary of the board during that time for ten years. Governor Oblett is the fifth executive to appoint Dr. Olinger as a member of the dental board.

Dr. Cline served as a member of the board from 1910 to 1916 and was for four years president.

Both of the appointees are widely known in their profession throughout the state.

W. L. Thompson of Pendleton was today reappointed by Governor Oblett as a member of the state highway commission. The governor announced some time ago that he would reappoint Mr. Thompson, and Governor Withycombe had also announced prior to his death that it was his intention to see that Mr. Thompson was reappointed.
