SUNDAY SCHOOL MEET SLATED FOR THIS WEEK

Annual Sessions Of Convention To Be Held Here Friday And Saturday.

The annual sessions of the Marion County Sunday School convention to be held Friday and Saturday of this week at the First Christian church will bring 150 representatives from the 94 Sunday schools in the county to Salem, besides several prominent state Sunday school workers.

Harold Humbert, who was song leader for the state Christian Endeavor held in Salem two years ago, is on the program Saturday for three addresses. He is now general secretary of the state Sunday school association.

Miss Jessie U. Cox, teacher of history at the high school, will deliver an address Friday afternoon on "The Aristocracy of Service." Miss Gladys Carson, in the discussion of junior work, is on the program for Saturday morning.

The devotional hours of the sessions will be taken by the Rev. A. Sterling Barner, who will develop the personal element in Sunday school activities.

The first session will begin Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Both Mrs. Clara G. Eason and Mrs. N. F. Rogers are experienced in the subjects on which they will talk. The 4:15 o'clock Friday afternoon session is planned especially for teachers, including those from public and Bible schools and students of universities and high schools. It is at this hour that Miss Jessie U. Cox will speak. Miss Johanna James of Salem will sing at this session.

After the Saturday morning session, teachers, superintendents, county officers and field workers will lunch with Secretary Humbert at the high school cafeteria. The convention will close Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock with singing and an address by Harold Humbert on "Religious Education and the New Day."

The public is invited to the First Christian church Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock to hear an address by the Rev. Joshua Stanfield on "Our Text Book and Our Task." The program throughout will be one of reconstruction, all leading up to the modern technical method of handling Sunday school work. Besides Salem, the following districts will be represented: Donald, Woodburn, Hayesville, Silverton, Stayton and Jefferson.

Humanly kind cooperation of the American press in this matter deserves public appreciation.

(Signed) "NEWTON D. BAKER, Secretary of War."

BAKER PRAISES AID OF PRESS DURING WAR

Co-Operation Of Newspapers In Reporting Casualties Much Appreciated.

Washington, April 3. — Declaring that the "general efficiency and humanly kind cooperation of the American press" in the matter of prompt publication of soldier casualties "deserves public appreciation," Secretary of War Baker declared that newspapers during the war "have thus undoubtedly established an unprecedented service." His statement follows: "It is with profound gratitude that we approach the end of the American expeditionary force casualty list—grateful that the price of victory, in human life and limb, was no greater. The war department has been conscious of the splendid service the press has been rendering to the people by the prompt and accurate publication of the casualties list from day to day, that the supreme sacrifice made by officers and men of our forces abroad might be known to their friends and relatives at home.

"The policy of the war department has been to immediately notify the next of kin by telegraph of any misfortune befalling a soldier, but the responsibility of notification extended also to the community and this has been accomplished through the newspaper press. To meet the duty of rapid notification, the casualty lists have been telegraphed each day by the war department to the postmasters of Chicago and San Francisco and those government officials, together with the government printing office at Washington, have published the lists which the press associations have furnished to all daily newspapers with the least possible lapse of time. The newspapers have rigidly kept faith on release notices, thus insuring simultaneous publication. The United States government and the press have thus undoubtedly established an unprecedented service in rapid and complete publication of the names addresses and classified misfortunes of soldiers at the front. The general efficiency and

Annual Industrial Club Bulletin Being Circulated

Superintendent Churchill, of the department of public instruction, has recently compiled the fifth annual bulletin of the Industrial club work of Oregon boys and girls—a 48 page booklet devoted largely to letters from club workers who have succeeded in their particular lines and have won recognition in the way of trips to the state fair and to the Agricultural college. It is profusely illustrated with half done cuts of prize winners.

In a brief dedicatory preface Supt. Churchill says to the young people of the clubs: "I take this opportunity to congratulate you most heartily upon the splendid patriotic service you have rendered your state and nation during the past year. The industry you have exercised in production, the self sacrifice you expressed in conserving and the thrift you have developed by investing in war saving stamps, have all been of greater benefit to yourselves and meant more to the nation than you can realize. It will mean much to live and have a part in the greater things yet to be accomplished during the reconstruction period. Let me appeal to you to keep up your good work."

The booklet will be of much interest to everyone in any way connected with the club work, especially the letters from boys and girls who earned a trip to the state fair and to the Agricultural college. Between the lines of these letters there is evidence of resourcefulness, and determination. Considerable space is devoted in the booklet to personal endorsements from a large number of county superintendents as to the results of the industrial club work.

STATE HOUSE NEWS

When Governor Oiest is called upon to name a judge for the court of domestic relations—otherwise known as the "shock absorber"—provided for in the last legislature for Multnomah county, he will have no lack of timber from which to choose. An even score of possibilities have already been pushed forward by their admiring friends or by their own "sense of duty" to fill the office. The new law provides that the governor shall select a judge from three candidates selected by the circuit judges of Multnomah county. It will be a matter of six weeks before the court will decide upon the trio of possible judges.

Undismayed by the recent decision of Attorney General Brown to the effect that under the constitution he could not write a ballot title for a referendum on a mere resolution, like that dealing with the ratification of the constitutional amendment establishing national prohibition, another attempt will be made by Karl Herbing of Portland, representing the California Grape Growers association, to compel Attorney General Brown, by mandamus, to prepare and submit such a ballot title to the secretary of state. The petition was filed by Attorney E.

B. Seabrook of Portland, and the time for hearing of arguments has been set for April 11, at 9:30 a. m.

The Public service commission spent Wednesday in Portland on the winding up of the investigation of safety appliances. Today they have a hearing at Mill City in the matter of price of the part of the Hammond Lumber company light and power company, the question at issue being as to whether the said company can be classed as a utility corporation.
